REAL THRILLS IN REEL THRILLERS

When you go to the movies and see the heroine fall off a cliff or into a lake or gasp as the hero swings to safety on a slender telegraph wire or gets mixed up in an automobile accident, or some of the scores of other hair-breadth escapes, don't sit back and say, "Oh well, it's a fake picture."

You will be in the wrong if you say that to-day. It was true, for the most part, ten years ago, but not now. The movie fans—and they number millions—demand the real thing to-day. Consequently there are hundreds of well-known moving picture actresses and actors who, while portraying real thrills for reel thrills, meet with very serious accidents.

A recent Keystone comedy thriller which was attended with an almost fatal mishap had as its particular and unfortunate star Miss Mabel Normand. In the course of a typical Keystone mix-up, this daredevil young lady had to hang suspended by her foot from the steering wheel of an automobile. To get her in place, the action of the picture was halted, and, while the engine of the car was still running, she was hoisted into her unusual position.

A small boy was then concealed in the body of the machine, and received instructions to put his hand on the foot brake to hold the car, which was on an incline, and to set off a smoke bomb to obtain the effect of an explosion. Becoming confused, he accidentally placed the pressure on the pedal operating the low gear. Miss Normand's foot in the steering wheel caused the spark lever to be moved and consequently speeded up the engine. Then the small boy, thoroughly bewildered, released the pedal, thus putting on the high gear. The car darted down the hill, dragging Miss Normand with it, and leaving in its wake a crowd of horrified camera men and players who, in the brief time this took to happen, had been unable to do a thing.

Finally, after gaining considerable momentum, the car left the road, dashed over the bank of a lake and sank in fifteen feet of water.

Miss Normand, very badly bruised, went into the lake with the machine. Charlie Chaplin, the comedian, then a member of the Keystone Company, rushed down the bank, made a flying dive into the lake, released the drowning girl's foot, and brought her to the surface more dead than alive. Yet, after a very few days of careful nursing, she was back at work on the same picture! It is all in the day's work with these people who labor that you may laugh.—The American Boy.

FOOD FOR CANNON

Unless you are familiar with its appearance you probably would not recognize on sight the explosive used in modern great guns. Certainly it is not "powder" in the usual sense of the word. A single grain of the powder used in the sixteen-inch rifles at Panama is as big around as a broomstick and several inches long. The size of the grain of powder varies with the size of the gun for which it is intended. Different nations make their big gun explosives in different shapes. The British make it in sticks the size of lead pencils and tie in bundles that fit into the breach of the gun. The French fashion it in flat strips like chewing gum, while German explosives are also in strips, though smaller and longer. The large grains of powder are perforated lengthwise. This is so that it will take fire more evenly and burn from the center outward. The powder does not expend all its force instantly, but the size of the grain and the perforation are arranged so that the force is greatest just as the projectile leaves the mouth of the cannon.—The American Boy.

NEW HYDROPLANE WITH AERIAL PROPELLER

A new hydroplane that is attracting considerable attention is a skimmer driven by an aerial propeller and capable of making more than 60 miles an hour. The principal feature of this craft is its hull, somewhat like that of a sea sled, with which is used an ingenious means for producing an air cushion between the water and the hull, when the skimmer is traveling at a high rate of speed. The air is collected by wide funnels which face toward the bow. Connected with each funnel is a pipe that has its outlet under the hull, the pipe outlets being spaced along the hull from bow to stern. At high speeds the air pressure against the funnels, aided by the suction of the water past the mouths of the tubes, causes a large volume of air to be discharged under the hull, with the result that the hull rides on a cushion of air and mist. The Popular Mechanics Magazine contains a picture of this hydroplane.
