HEADQUARTERS FOR SHIRTS SIDES & SIDES

Stanley H. Rose to Address City C. of C.

There will be a luncheon meeting of the members of the Harrisburg Club at noon Thursday, August 12. The speaker will be Commercial Agent Stanley H. Rose, of the United States Department of Commerce. Mr. Rose will explain the latest government plans to aid American businessmen to capture world markets heretofore controlled by Europe. In an announcement mailed to its members to-day the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce calls attention to the fact "that every time such Harrisburg industries as the Elliott-Fisher Company, the Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Works, the Morton Truck and Tractor Company, the Hickox company and the steel companies work up an export order it means just that much more money will be spent with local merchants, and therefore export business is of as much interest to Harrisburg as to any other city in the Lebanon valley."

Mr. Leininger Returns. Joseph

THE POLICE OFFICER OF PATROLMAN JONES

Whether or not Clinton Jones, the patrolman over whom there has been much controversy in Steelton's council, recently shall be retained as a member of the police force will probably be definitely decided this evening when the police committee of council will meet to investigate additional charges of misconduct against the officer.

Sharp Session of Council; Members Call Each Other Names

These new charges against Patrolman Jones were preferred at last evening's meeting of council. They consist of two affidavits signed by Benjamin F. Lipp, a special officer employed by the Pennsylvania Steel Company and Steve Pop, a watchman at No. 3 watch box of the Steel Works. The affidavits corroborate each other and make the specific charge that Patrolman Jones, on the night of August 8 and the morning of August 9, just two days ago, was seen in a visibly intoxicated condition while on duty, and that he spent a greater part of that night sleeping on a porch outside the Steel Works. The Merchant Mill of the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

The production of these affidavits by the councilman from the Third Ward, in which, by the way, the officer lives, started one of the bitterest clashes ever seen on the floor of Steelton council. Only six members of council—a bare quorum—were present and time and again Mr. Nelley or Mr. Wagbach, leaving their place at the council table, breaking the quorum.

Bitter Words Pass
Bitter words passed between Messrs. Wagbach and Nelley and Messrs. Reisch and Henderson. The first charge was made by Mr. Wagbach that politics and not the merits of the case were being considered in the retention of Patrolman Jones, who was considered through two investigations and an involuntary resignation. The counter charge that politics had something to do with the charges was made by Mr. Nelley. Both men were on their feet hurling bitter personalities across the council table at each other.

When something out of the ordinary was scheduled, was made evident shortly after council convened. As the meeting came to order, Messrs. Reisch and Wagbach handed two affidavits to Chairman Henderson, council secretary to council. In a few seconds there was a buzz around the council table and some of the members arose to be heard. The speaker called attention to the routine business.

Affidavits Passed
The affidavits were passed around to the councilmen who knew nothing of the charges. The second affidavit, Patrolman Jones, chairman of the police committee left his chair and slipped down stairs to the police headquarters. This was done in order to get the police on just the same and a number of important questions were discussed. A few minutes later the police committee chairman returned and engaged in a whispered consultation with Acting President Sellers at the head of the table. Business lagged and the councilmen sat idly around the table.

Mr. Henderson, who obtained the floor and in a quiet speech, restored order. He carefully reviewed the entire Jones incident and declared that if the new charges are sustained he will vote to dismiss the officer. Mr. Henderson cautioned sober, calm action and cut matters short by seconding the motion to dismiss the officer. The police committee and urged that it be held this evening.

Have to Go After Wagbach
After some further debate during which Mr. Nelley rose over the chair to Mr. Nelley and took the floor himself the question was waiaty put and carried. As the question carried, Mr. Wagbach left his chair and started to leave the room. This broke the quorum—and no bills had been passed. He was persuaded to stay and he hurried matters along so fast, however, that several important matters were left not acted upon.

As the amount of $2,272.00 were ordered paid. The borough solicitor was instructed to draw a petition for the adoption of a street in the plot into the borough. The contract was let to J. G. Keller and B. C. Blosser. Little else was done on account of the police committee.

While the highway committee chairman delivered his report, the quorum was repeatedly broken. Mr. Nelley again left the room to visit the police headquarters. Returning he whispered with Borough Secretary Charles P. Feidt who then slipped out of the room and returned with a note which he handed to Mr. Henderson while he was speaking.

John A. Parthemore, chairman of the Council Club committee, was then given the privilege of the floor to ask that his committee be exonerated from paying a license fee for its carnival which is exhibiting this week. While Mr. Parthemore spoke Secretary Feidt returned in a few seconds and held a whispered consultation with Mr. Nelley. Then a salesman was permitted to spend the balance of the evening by saying, "The tension of the impending trial was growing acute."

As someone moved to refer the salesman's offer to the committee to be voted on for action a telephone tinkled in a far corner of the room. Borough Secretary Feidt answered it with muffled voice. Then he glided over to Mr. Nelley and whispered some words. Again Nelley went out.

As the police committee chairman left the room dense quiet ensued. For a few minutes no one spoke and the room became a Councilman squirmed in their chairs, toyed with books on the table in front of them.

Leininger, of the Department of State has returned to the office after a short illness.

Mr. Jones Here.—Representative E. E. Jones, of Susquehanna county, was at the capitol to-day on business connected with his district.

A Hundred Contacts.—A serious condition seems to have arisen in the Skipack smallpox case. Dairyman Ludwig had been serving milk to a hotel and the hotel was frequented by automobile parties. Over 100 persons are believed to have come into contact.

Revoked License.—State Highway Commissioner Cunningham to-day revoked the automobile license of Dick Stiles, of Strongtown, Pa. Information had been received by the State Highway Department that Stiles had been fined $100 for operating a car while intoxicated. He failed to appear at the Department when notified and sent no explanation, in consequence of which the State Highway Commissioner revoked the license.

MIDDLE TOWN MENSPIRE ROYALTON OBERLIN ENHAUT

been ransacked. A number of rings and $1.19, everything of value in the house, had been stolen from Mrs. Charles Hoffman and a number of trinkets of value were taken from her husband. Frank Froh, a boarder, lost a small sum of money and some rings. Some time shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, Milan Putnic, John Putnic and Martin Fesny, three men who board with Mrs. Patterson, were awakened by loud groans. Dressing they went to their bedroom door, crossed the hall and attempted to enter the room from which the sounds came. The door was locked. After pounding loudly they awoke 8-year-old Jennie Bowman, a ward of Mrs. Patterson. The child opened the door. Inside the men found Mrs. Patterson lying with her head upon blood-red pillows. Her hair was matted and the legacy. Before she reached the floor she was unconscious.

Dr. B. T. Dickinson was called and immediately ordered the woman taken to the hospital.

Husband "Somewhere in France"
The police were notified and Chief H. F. Longaker, Constable John H. P. Longaker, Detective J. N. Durnbaugh, ex-chief of police, were early on the job. They learned that John Patterson, the injured woman's husband, is said to be "somewhere in France" fighting for the Fatherland. Some eighteen months ago the Pattersons learned that they had fallen heir to a small fortune in Germany. The husband sailed to claim the legacy. Before his ship touched the soil of the Fatherland war clouds sprung up and the European conflict was on. As Mr. Patterson was young and not yet outside the Kaiser's laws, he was pressed into service. Now he's in France, according to the last letter to his young wife.

Last Night's Dozen Victims
The "Hatchet Fiend" list of victims up to near the dozen mark and the people of Steelton and South Harrisburg are much excited over the strange visitor's work.

Hundreds were attracted to the scene of last night's crime to-day. Talk of forming a vigilance committee was heard and it is likely that the State police will be asked to aid in running down the fiend. Detective I. N. Durnbaugh has been working on the case for weeks and has not yet had a clue and hopes to make an arrest.

The list of victims so far includes Mrs. John Yosolowitz, Chambers street, Steelton, hit on the head with some blunt weapon, pretty Mary Wien, belle of the German colony in Mohr street, hit on the head with a hatchet; two foreign women in Chambers street, struck with an axe; Miss Kathryn Atwater, 303 South Ninth street, Harrisburg, stabbed in the chest; Sara Rothenfing, of 528 Mohr street, struck with an axe and several cases in which the women were not seriously injured.

In each case the victims are young women, considered as being of the attack has been made while the victims were asleep.

Two Band Concerts Daily by Clover Club's Band

STEELTON SNAP SHOTS
Celebrates Birthday.—Mrs. Margaret Gundon celebrated her 90th birthday anniversary in a quiet way at her home, 13 North Third street, to-day.

Aged Colored Couple Leave Court to "Make Up" at Judge's Suggestion
When Edward Rouser was called this morning to answer to President Judge Butler, residing at 217 North Third street, his wife, an aged negro, who had been blind and bent, slowly made his way to the court.

His wife, also gray-haired and walking with a crutch, snapped out her story of how one Saturday night "Ed" put on his best suit and left the house. "He ain't come back yet," she finished. "Ed it appeared gave no reasons for his absence, but he was gone for a long time. Mrs. Rouser declared. This, she added, "made her mad."

"Are you mad now?" inquired Judge Kunkel of Rouser.

Rouser glanced at a stalwart deputy nearby and at the prisoners' cage he had just left.

"No, sah," he grinned, "not now, sah. Early in the meeting the finance committee was authorized to borrow $10,000 "as it may be needed to carry on the affairs of the borough."

STEELTON WOMAN IS LATEST VICTIM

months has been terrorizing Steelton and South Harrisburg.

This time, while three men slept soundly in an adjoining room and an 8-year-old child slumbered peacefully a few feet away, the grim nocturnal visitor gained entrance to the bedroom of pretty Mrs. John Patterson, of 401 Francis street, Steelton. And while the entire household was ransacking trunks, bureau drawers and trouser pockets as he went.

His Victim With Ax
Then, in a strange, gruesome manner by which he marks all of his midnight raids, the "Hatchet Fiend" seized a long-handled, heavy pole ax and brought it down with a dull thud upon the head of the sleeping Mrs. Patterson. Before she could utter even a groan, the frenzied fiend swung the ax again. Not satisfied with his reports, he struck several more blows. Mr. Patterson is in the Harrisburg Hospital with deep lacerations of the scalp, possible fractured skull and concussion of the brain.

Th, as quietly and as mysteriously as he came, the grim visitor left. Moving noiselessly and deliberately, he removed a long, light ladder from the balcony over which he had gained entrance to the woman's room, carried it across the street and placed it in a narrow alleyway alongside the home of Walter Smith, of 417 Christian street, where it was found by the police this morning.

This undertaking completed, the police think, the mysterious fiend walked across to the home of Charles Hoffman, of 403 Francis street, the other side of the double frame dwelling in which the attack upon Mrs. Patterson was made. Anyway, the midnight raider, in some noiseless way, removed the screen from a window of the Hoffman home and gained entrance. Again he fitted from room to room over the entire second floor. Although a number of persons were sleeping in the house none were awakened and none were disturbed.

Money and Jewels Gone
This morning when they awoke, however, they found their sleeping quarters in disorder. Everything had

STATE BONUS GOES TO THE TOWNSHIPS

State Highway Department Sending Out Many Thousands of Dollars to the Districts

As fast as accounts are certified to the auditor general, the Bureau of Township Highways of the State Highway Department is sending out to the township supervisors the amount due them from the State as a bonus on the cash tax basis.

Accompanying the remittance to the supervisors is a letter from Joseph W. Hunter, first deputy State Highway Commissioner, in charge of the Bureau of Township Highways, in which he informs the supervisors what uses may be made of this money.

The amount sent to each board of supervisors through their treasurer, is for thirty per cent of the total amount due the townships during the years 1913 and 1914 and the treasurers are told that they can depend upon approximately the same amount next year if the annual report agreement and certified copy of treasurers' bond are filed, as required by law. This money is paid out under terms of act of Assembly No. 440, approved July 22, 1913.

Mr. Hunter, in his letter, told the supervisors that they can use this money for the following purposes: For buying and installing concrete, cast iron or corrugated culvert pipe, including concrete or stone masonry head walls.

For construction of concrete culverts and bridges built according to the standard of the Bureau of Township Highways or from plans approved by the bureau.

For construction of steel bridges, plans for which have been made or approved by the Bureau of Township Highways.

For permanent improvement of alignment of road.

For permanent improvement of grade of road.

For permanently widening the road.

For construction of concrete road macadam roads.

For construction of bituminous macadam roads.

For construction of slag roads.

For construction of flint roads.

For construction of concrete and stone masonry retaining walls to support the construction of State-aid roads.

Mr. Hunter explains to the supervisors that in the construction of water bound macadam, slag, gravel and flint roads, it must be understood that the construction does not mean the patching of holes in existing roads or spreading of material at disconnected points along the roads, but the building of uniform roads to conform with approved plans in continuous stretches, even if these stretches are only a few hundred feet in length.

With "Mystery Man" Three Men Steal $200,000 From Express Company

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 10.—With three men under arrest here to-day, one of whom is said to have confessed, detectives of the Wells Fargo Express Company claim to have uncovered a system of thefts through which the company has been robbed of merchandise totaling nearly $200,000 within the last twelve years.

The men under arrest are Frank Wilson, who is alleged to have disposed of the stolen goods; Benjamin Watkins, an employe of the express company, and a man known to the police only as the "mystery man," who is said to have traveled under as many as twenty aliases.

Watkins was employed by the United States Express Company, which was absorbed by the Wells Fargo more than a year ago. For eleven years preceding the time of his departure the United States company had been losing an average of $2,000 worth of goods a month. Watkins remained in the service when the United States company was absorbed.

Packages containing valuables would be wrapped into one large parcel by Watkins, it is charged, and addressed to the "mystery man" at some suburb of Chicago, where it would be claimed by him under the alias which happened to be on the label.
