Mifflin County Farmer Holds Up Travel on State Highway While Threshing

Special to The Telegraph. Lewistown, Pa., Aug. 20.—Some people were fooled when they had come to the conclusion that John Miller had tired of his controversy with the State. The fight is still on. Mr. Miller owns a farm a short distance east of Lewistown through which the State road passes and the barn is located just a few feet off the State highway. Miller has been threshing his oats and wheat crop and the belt that operates the threshing machine crosses the highway, completely blocking it. Miller opposed the operations of the State in constructing the highway through his farm and after a fight against the courts of Mifflin county he was awarded a sum of damages which he would not accept. Then he erected a large sign along the road at his farm bearing the words "Christians of Lewistown stole this right of way."

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL

Special to The Telegraph. Dauphin, Pa., Aug. 20.—Word was received yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. James Robb from the University Hospital, Philadelphia, that their nine-year-old daughter, Marian, who was operated on for a tumor of the brain, went through the operation successfully, and is expected to recover.

ENTERTAINED AT LUMBER CAMP

Dauphin, Pa., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Daniel Seiler entertained a party of friends at the lumber camp on Peter's Mountain on Thursday. The party was taken to the mountain on the Hartman Lumber railroad and the day was spent picnicking in the open.

DIXON DECLARES LESS HUSTLING

Commissioner of Health Gives Some Timely Hints Regarding Prolonging Our Lives

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, in the course of one of his weekly talks on health and happiness urges that people slow up, especially in summer time. The commissioner says in part: "More haste, less speed," is a venerable warning against misapplied energy. The summer season gives additional reason to consider the value of rational, well-directed activity as opposed to a spirit of competition. "The average city dweller, regardless of years, is apt to scurry about as if life depended upon his catching a particular train. Rushing to and fro with small consideration for those who impede his progress, he will risk life and limb to cross a street thirty seconds sooner and then gaze in a show window for ten minutes. "All this is extremely wearing on the nervous system and physically exhausting. It easily becomes a habit and if continued leads to loss of personal efficiency. A certain degree of deliberation usually insures more thoughtful and effective action and is better from the health standpoint. "To progress at moderate speed with due consideration for other people's 'rights of the road' results in benefits of no small value. Your physical machine is far more likely to successfully meet emergencies if it is not continually running on high gear. "Then, too, there is much in our daily conduct which he who runs may not read. If we are to live rationally and think broadly, it is well to make one's progress through life at a moderate pace. Your scurrying busybody is seldom even though it be unintentional. To have an eye for other people's desires and ambitions and a consideration for their ideals may help us to achieve our own. "To live peacefully and to live happily materially aid in maintaining our physical health and vice versa. Progress is not necessarily measured by rapidity of action; compare the squirrel in the revolving cage."

AMUSEMENTS

THE ETHERAL CITY AT THE REGENT

Most wonderful moving picture production ever witnessed in any theater in the city of Harrisburg. Was witnessed by large representative audiences to capacity. Will continue to be shown to-day and to-morrow. This moving picture play has been produced by Daniel Frohman at a great expense. To make this complete, the actors were sent to Rome to study the original scenes of Rome and other parts of England. Manager P. Magara, of the Regent Theater, has secured the admission price of this great photo-play. Played in other cities for 25c to 32c. Hall, Calais' story of the foster brother and sister, who after years of separation, meet again in Rome, where he is a Socialist agitator and she is the companion of the Prime Minister, grips the audience instantly. The inter-act grows constantly to the final scenes in which the founding's uncle, who has become Pope, is able to save the life of his nephew, who has killed the Italian Prime Minister. The young man has been led to the killing by his love for Donna, the foster sister. Her love, too, has reached great heights, and she assumes the guilt and stands trial for the murder—Advertisement.

THE CHALICE OF COURAGE AT THE COLONIAL

With the blue ribbon Vitaphone feature, "The Chalice of Courage," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, the Colonial Theater will be opened Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Right at the opening of the story the hero is placed in an extraordinary position: the horse being ridden by his wife makes a misstep and rolls down a steep cliff. The woman is mortally injured and the hero does the only human thing under the circumstances. Later the man becomes a recluse in the mountains. A young girl appears on the scene—the man who was indirectly responsible for the death of the mountain man's wife. After a long winter in which the hero is immured in a mountain hut, unable to get to civilization because of the impassable snows, the villain of the piece appears on the scene. A fight results, which clears the atmosphere and all turns out the right way. The acting is so vividly done that there is time for nothing but admiration while the photoplay is "on."

PAXTANG PARK VAUDEVILLE

If any one is to be believed, it is impossible to put on a real first-class vaudeville show at popular prices, the should take the opportunity of seeing the performance of the Paxtang Park Theater this week. The bill compares favorably with any vaudeville show that the town has had. Such acts as "The Box Car Duo," with their comedy songs and dialogue; Mae Daley with her funny monologue full of witty sayings and humorous stories; and The Krells, who do a high-class musical act, such as is only seen in the best theaters, make up a show that is hard to beat under any circumstances. The Tyrone Band will close the park season on Labor Day, with two free concerts in the park theater—Advertisement.
