SPENDING A VACATION IN THE CITY

[Philadelphia Inquirer.] State Commissioner of Health Dixon says that the man who lives in the country or the small town should spend his vacation amid the rush and toil of the large city. At first blush this would seem to be a strange if not extraordinary statement, but a careful perusal of Doctor Dixon's paper indicates that it is a sensible plea for a change of scene and thought, as well as of everyday routine, for the average man. The mind needs change as well as the body and hence the commissioner would have the city dweller go to the country and the countryman come to the city. Both, in this way, would receive a mental stimulus that would be helpful to them for the remainder of the year. A vacation, after all, is to get away from the everlasting sameness which confronts so many persons from the beginning of January to the end of December. Routine, of course, is as necessary as it is inevitable, but it is a wise man who plans to break away from it for at least a fortnight in each year. It is true that he has to return to it, but if he takes the right sort of vacation he will return refreshed and prepared to put new vigor into his work. Now in acquiring this renewed energy it is not necessary to take a vacation in the accepted meaning of the word. We should, as Doctor Dixon suggests, do something different, go to new places, see new faces, talk with strange persons, and we will have a fresh view of life, merely by the act of getting out of the rut. Even if the new places be disagreeable, a change of habitation will not have been profitless, for it will enable us to return home and to "the grind" with a better appreciation of our daily duties. This is the faculty of getting happiness by contrast, a thing that is not to be altogether despised.

LOAN SHARK LAWS BEING ENFORCED

Commissioner Smith Is Having All Applicants Examined by Experts of Department

In the neighborhood of fifty organizations, firms or individuals engaged in the business of loaning money without security, popularly known as "loan sharks," have applied for registration and licensure by the State Banking Department under the operations of the act of 1915. It is estimated that there are approximately 100 such concerns in Pennsylvania and State agents are looking them up. None of the licenses have been issued as yet as Commissioner William H. Smith is having every applicant examined as to business standing, assets and other details covered by the State licensing act. These examinations are being made by the agents of the department, men familiar with banking in all its details. The licenses will probably be issued in a short time to those which pass muster. Studying Crossings.—Members of the State Public Service Commission are actively taking hold of the grade crossing problem and have been inspecting the crossings in their home communities with a view to being conversant with the situation when they meet next month. The probabilities are that the commission will have a conference with railroad officials in regard to a program as the general proposition is one of the greatest ever undertaken by the Commonwealth involving as it does over 10,000 public crossings located in urban and rural communities. Big Hunting Ahead.—This is going to be a big hunting season if the number of applications being made to the Capitol for permission to place camps on State forest reserves is anything to go by. Some of the applicants have occupied the same sites on State lands for years, but there are a number of new ones. Going West.—Highway Commissioner Cunningham has gone west to make some road inspections. He will spend the week-end in Pittsburgh. The Major's Surprise.—Attaches of the Public Service Commission to-day sent their congratulations to Major E. M. Vale, one of the officers of the law bureau, on his marriage at Carlisle last night. Increase Filed.—The Monroe Coal Mining Company, of Philadelphia, to-day filed a notice of increase of stock from $126,750 to $214,150. Mr. Riddle Coming Here.—S. S. Riddle, the new editor of the publications of the Department of Labor and Industry, is expected to come here on No Reason to Rush.—Attorney General Brown in a letter to York people says that they should use moderation in dealing with the fishway in the McCall's Ferry dam. He says that it will take time to work out a practicable fishway and that he is informed tests are being made by the company. Governor to Speak.—Governor Brumbaugh will speak at the dedication of the new Guthrie school in Wilkes-Barre early in October. It is probable that the Governor will reach Wilkes-Barre on his swing around the State that month. At Mount Gretna.—Adjutant General Stewart went to Mount Gretna to-day to witness the close of the rifle matches. Giving Out the Bonds.—The bonds for about a score of State officials whose bonds are paid for by the State were made out to-day to the Vermont bonding company which scooped the cream of the State business. The older companies, which had kept up the rates, will probably make a big reduction next time. Stir Over Mine Cave-ins.—There appears to be considerable stir in Scranton as a result of the discussion following the damage to the Thirtieth Regiment armory because of a mine cave-in. The State will probably be asked to take some action. Going Ahead.—According to word from Coatesville, the company awarded the contract for constructing the dam is going ahead with the work. The State Water Supply Commission will give a decision on the application for a change next week. In Connecticut.—H. L. Hosford, secretary to Commissioner Dixon, is spending his vacation in Connecticut. READY FOR GOLF TOURNEY By Associated Press Detroit, Mich., Aug. 27.—One hundred and forty-two contestants, representing clubs which are scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, are officially ready to compete in the twenty-first national amateur golf tournament which will begin here to-morrow afternoon.

WHEN WAR BABIES ARE MEN

It is now twenty years since the China-Japan war, and those who were born at that time come of age this year. The effects of a war upon the birth rate and the physical condition of the children born in war time can now be known with accuracy, says a Japanese writer, if we study the number of those who are to be recruited for military service this year, and their physical condition. The health examination of those who are to enter the service this year has already begun in some places; so that we are in a position to know about their number and condition. The Kanda ward of Tokio this year says 635 candidates against 813 last year, a decrease of 22 per cent. Of 30 men who have finished their examination four passed Class A, three for first B class, five for second B class, and those put in Class C number thirteen. Three were disabled ones, and two were postponed till next year. Last year 194 were passed for Class A out of 813, or 42 per cent. So that in number and physical condition the falling off was remarkable in the war babies of 1895. After the war there was a large increase in births of vigorous children, which has been kept up. The opinion is naively advanced that "in time of war the fathers are old men or unfit persons, as able-bodied young men are fighting at the front. This will, in a measure, account for the bad condition of health of those who are to enter the army this year."

PERFECTLY WILLING

Wandering on some land belonging to Earl Derby, a collier chanced to meet the owner of Knowsley face to face. His lordship inquired if the collier knew he was walking on his land. "Why, land? Well, I've got no land myself," was the reply, "and I'm like to walk on somebody's. Where did that get it from?" "Oh," explained his lordship, "I got it from my ancestors." "An' wheer did they get it from?" queried the collier. "They got it from their ancestors," was the reply. "An' wheer did their ancestors get it from?" "They fought for it." "Well, begad," said the collier, squaring up to the noble earl, "I'll fight thee for it!"

LIKE MOTHER'S! "Billy, dear," remarked the young bride as hubby returned home at the usual hour, "I have made some lovely pies for supper. I was going to have sponge cake, too, but my plans were upset." "That's too bad," responded Billy, looking like real disappointment. "What was the trouble?" "It was all the druggist's fault," was the surprising rejoinder of wife. "He forgot to send around the sponges."
