INTERNATIONALS ON SEASON'S WIND-UP

Harrisburg in Sixth Place With Slim Chance to Get Back to First Division

Harrisburg winds up with Buffalo to-day. The Bisons are after first place in the International League race. They are just one and a half games behind Providence. The Grays will meet Montreal to-day. The Royals are also anxious to keep up in the race and promise to give Providence a hard battle.

The Grays go to Buffalo to-morrow for a series of four games. On the result will depend the pennant winner for this season. Winning the series from Providence will give the Bisons a lead that cannot be overcome.

This is the last week for the International League. Harrisburg is in sixth place and while all the big circuit clubs will try their luck in the draw, the various ball clubs declare that the cream of the minor organizations has been secured by sale or other arrangements.

The opening and closing dates for the minor leagues are as follows: Class AA, September 22-27; Class A, September 30-October 5; Class B, October 7-12; Class C, October 15-20. The major leagues will play from $2,500 down to $500 a player, according to the class of league from which he is drawn. RADIUM DEVELOPMENTS; By Frederic J. Haskin

It is being a substitute in all cases for the surgeon's knife. One of the first American surgeons to utilize radium in treating cancer was Dr. Robert Abbe, senior surgeon of St. Luke's Hospital, New York. He has been testing it in various forms of cancerous growths with so much success that he has spent thousands of dollars from his own pocket in securing the supply now in his possession. This is far from being sufficient to his needs and, for several years, he has been constantly in the market to increase it.

The most important quality of radium is its powerful radio-activity. It has not only the power to emit a continuous pale light but the emanations of radium are capable of imparting this luminous appearance to other bodies within range. It also emits continuous heat rays. More important than either of these are its powerful invisible rays which can penetrate visually opaque bodies and impress a photographic image upon a surface beneath them.

It is these invisible rays, rightly directed, which possess curative power. They have the peculiar property of penetrating healthy tissues without causing any unpleasant sensation but their action upon a malignant growth tends to annihilate it, turning its disease cells into healthy organisms.

In a recent lecture, Dr. Abbe exhibited a number of plaster and wax models of cancerous growths overcome by radium. They included all ages from a ten-year-old boy to a man of ninety. The boy had a sarcoma of bone tumor of the worst form upon his jaw. Radium was applied. The growth stopped and was gradually absorbed. Now, after nearly ten years, the boy, grown to manhood, is perfectly healthy. His teeth are solid and there is no difference in appearance between the two sides of his face.

Radium is applied in small glass or platinum tubes. After the initial outlay, its use is not so expensive because the radio-active properties of the metal remain unchanged for 2,000 years and after that diminish gradually. The hospital which invests in a gram or fraction of a gram of radium is benefiting future generations by adding a perpetual agent to its curative equipment.

While seemingly harmless, radium can become a dangerous element in the hands of one unfamiliar with its peculiar properties. Under certain conditions, the rays may injure the skin and even start the cancerous growths it is used to cure. Many of the early experiments suffered the loss of one or more fingers from cancer caused by the misuse of radium although no pain was felt at the time of the injury.

Even Professor Becquerel, the well-known French scientist, once placed a tube of radium in his pocket during a journey and carried it several hours before reaching the town where he was to lecture. A few days later a sore appeared upon his body directly under the place where the radium had been carried. The skin sloughed off and the flesh was for weeks painfully sore.

It is claimed that under some circumstances radium may retard natural development in both animal and plant cells. A Paris student placed in two tubes the larvae of a small moth which feeds upon flour in its caterpillar state. Those in one tube were left in their natural conditions while those in the other were exposed to radium rays. After several weeks, the larvae in the tube with the radium went through their usual metamorphosis, changing into moths which in their turn laid and hatched eggs. Most of the larvae exposed to radium influence died but those that were alive were still in the state of larvae. They lived as grubs about three times as long as normally.

The scientist suggests the fortune in store for the beauty specialist who becomes sufficiently dexterous in the use of radium to treat young women so that they maintain the appearance and nature of eighteen when they have grown to their third decade.

It is now believed that radium exists in other substances than the ores now being mined to secure it, although in such minute quantities as not to warrant the great expense of securing it. Many healing waters have been found to owe their curative power to radio-active properties. Radium water is now being experimented with by the Radium Institute of London and is credited with the capability of curing a number of ailments including gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism and neuritis. This liquid is prepared by permitting radium emanations to bubble through distilled water. It is costly and a continued use is necessary to produce results. A single glass is worth a dollar and the patient using radium water must expect to drink at least $100 worth before he can look for improvement.

Radium is also likely to develop many industrial uses. Agriculture is the only one as yet established. It is believed that the residue ore left after the radium has been extracted will still retain enough of its principle to be of great value to the farmer. Dr. H. H. Rusby, dean of the Columbia University College of Pharmacy, has been conducting a number of radium experiments in connection with plant life during the present year. He has made a study of the behavior of radishes grown in boxes, of field crops in Ohio and of gardens in Pittsburgh and at his own home, near Nutley, New Jersey. He has demonstrated that a judicious use of radium supplies a powerful plant stimulus although, if care is not taken, it may kill the plants. The radishes grown in radium-treated ground had smaller tops than those grown in ordinary soil a few feet away but the roots were considerably larger and exceptionally tender and fine flavored.

MINOR LEAGUE RACES NEAR FINISH LINE

Dauphin Is Still Strong Contender in Upper End Chase; New Cumberland Is Central Winner

Games scheduled for next Saturday will bring final decisions in the several minor leagues doing business in this vicinity. On Saturday in the Dauphin-Perry League the Dauphin team trimmed Hallfax and are now within one-half game of the lead. They have three games to play.

Marysville is making a strong fight and Duncannon has to go some pace to win out. If Dauphin's winning streak continues, the flag will be a certainty with a victory next Saturday. Dauphin meets Duncannon.

In the Central Pennsylvania League New Cumberland won over Steelton Saturday and practically clinched the flag. There are still two games to play but Lebanon is not likely to overtake the boys across the river. Steelton has a chance to win if Hant is sure to go to Williamstown.

On Saturday West End A. C. won from Linglestown score 16 to 6. It was the final game of the season. West End claims the City championship having given all other teams ample time to accept the challenge to decide the title.

HARRISBURG ELKS WIN
Harrisburg Elks trimmed the Sunbury Elks in the first of a series of Fall games on Saturday, score 11 to 2. Fred Dinger, the State champion live bird shooter, killed 15 men. He received excellent support. Before and after the game the Sunbury Elks were given royal entertainment. A dinner followed the game at the Harrisburg Elks' home in North Second street.

MAJORS LAST LAP; PHILLIES HOLD LEAD

Saturday Games Start Favorably For Eastern Teams; Dodgers Win Yesterday

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 13.—On the last lap of the championship race the Phillies, Brooklyn and Boston look the best in the two major leagues narrow down until to-day it looks as though it lies between three clubs in the National and two, possibly three, in the American. On present form the Phillies, Brooklyn and Boston look the class in the older organization and Boston and Detroit in the American.

The more interest centers in the National fight, where the Phillies continue to maintain the lead. The three Eastern contenders are on their final swing around the Western circuit, a trip that promises to prove the acid test of their staying qualities.

Two of the three got off to a good start on Saturday, and even Brooklyn, the only one of the trio to be beaten, showed marvellously fine form against what is undoubtedly the strongest of the Western teams. Yesterday the Trolley Dodgers beat the Cards, 4-2, so the three leading clubs may be considered to have secured a fairly even start on the last intersectional series, the results of which promise to have an important bearing on the determination of the pennant.

ENGINEHOUSE TEAM WINS
In the first of a series of games for the championship of Enola shops and roundhouses, the Enginehouse team on Saturday defeated the Shopmen, score 18 to 0. The game was played on the P. R. Y. M. C. A. field before a crowd of 1,500. The second game will be played next Saturday.

PICK GIBBONS AS WINNER
The McFarland-Gibbons battle is now a matter of history. No ring decision was given and sporting writers gave their own opinions. It was an even break as to honors according to the stories. One writer said it was a fake pure and simple. According to the description of rounds Gibbons had the best of the fight.
