WAGING NEW WAR ON AN OLD ENEMY

Like Old Wars, Too, It Brings Up Liquor Question; Strictly Modern

TEMPERANCE IS REJUVENATED

The International Sunday School Lesson For Sept. 19 Is "Defeat Through Drunkenness"

(By William T. Ellis)

Most of the careful students of the present world war point out not only its amazing modernity, with new weapons of death, but also its reveries to the most ancient type of warfare, with hand to hand fighting, the revival of barbaric methods, and even the use of steel helmets on the soldiers.

WHAT IS URIC ACID?

Does Uric Acid Cause Backache, Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble?

Dear Dr. Pierce: — What is uric acid? Does it cause kidney trouble? Not long ago I was examined for uric acid and an analysis of the kidney secretions showed an excess of uric acid.

I suffer from backache, and rheumatism in my limbs, but never before suspected my kidneys. I recognize you as an authority on these subjects, and wish you would give me this information.

LEWIS R.

Lewis R., My Dear Sir: Answering your letter, Uric Acid indicates poisoning of the system; it is also associated with several other poisons and forms of painful irritants in the cells of the system. Weak, tired and overworked kidneys fail to do this, hence the poisonous Uric Acid and its associated poisons contaminate the blood, causing backache, lumbago, rheumatism, dropsy and tired, worn-out feelings, of the truth that drink is the enemy's best ally. To be safe, a nation must be sober. This terrible war seems destined to enroll liquor among its victims, which is at least one wholly beneficent result of the conflict.

Signs multiply on every hand that a new war has been declared on this old foe of the human race. The temperance cause has been wonderfully rejuvenated, in the United States and in the rest of the world, although the most drastic anti-alcohol enactments are reported from Europe. Russia's losses in battle are so magnificent that her gains in social life through the abolition of vodka. Already we see the reasonableness of the statement of the actuary of the New York Life Insurance Company, that because of her new temperance Russia will make up within ten years all the losses of life and property incurred in the war.

When, a few years ago, the International Christian Endeavor Convention at Atlantic City raised the slogan "A saloonless nation by 1920," nobody in public life paid attention to what was regarded as the mere ebullition of fervor and fanaticism. Now, this summer in Chicago, the Endeavorers reported that this goal seems clearly in sight, by the admission of eminent politicians, and through the breeze of a new banner, "A saloonless world by 1930," the newspapers and general public took cognizance of the handwriting of doom has appeared on the wall of King Alcohol.

At his gate is an allied army above which we may discern such banners as "Economic Efficiency," "Social Justice," "The Cause of Labor," "The Sunday School," "Christian Endeavor," "Scientific Education," "The Woman Movement," "Human Welfare," "Children's Right," "A United Church," and "The New Patriotism." There never before was such a convergence of diverse forces in behalf of any reform as may be witnessed in the present war on strong drink.

Where Perseus Spade Dug The Old Testament story upon which the present temperance lesson is based links up interestingly with recent research in the field of archaeology. Archaeologists from Harvard have of late years been digging on the site of old Samaria and they have uncovered some wonderful ruins, including the foundations of Ahab's ivory palace.

A traveler in the present war has come an astounding record about which this present Sunday School lesson centers.

For Samaria, as we recall, was the capital of the northern kingdom and the home of King Ahab. Ben-hadad, king of Syria, was besieging it. Apparently he had caught the city poorly defended for there were only seven thousand soldiers that could be mustered for the grand rally. As for Syria, it was one of the mighty kingdoms of the time, with powerful Damascus for its capital. Lying east and north of Israel Syria fairly enveloped the kingdom of Ahab. His natural resources and his military strength were far superior to those of the king whom he so confidently and jauntily besieged.

Frightfulness in war is its oldest fashion. Loot, lust, cruelty, murder and nameless atrocities befall the records of all the great wars of antiquity. Ben-hadad was but following the path of Ahab when he dictated to Ahab terms of surrender which included confiscation of the city's treasures, and of its women for the conqueror's harems, and of its children for his own household. That sounds awful beyond words to our ears, but it was the price of Ahab's acquiescence in the demand for a better defense of his family — and he should die if he despised the punishment of his own people. Ahab's counselors advised him to accede to his family, rather than to accede to the demands of Ben-hadad's. Yet at first he yielded. He was willing to pay even this price for the safety of his city and himself. He failed to sense the eternal truth that all is gone when honor is gone. Better to die nobly than to live dishonored.
