Makes Wine, Not Grape Juice, Diplomatic Drink

MRS. ROBERT LANSING, WIFE OF SECRETARY OF STATE

Grape juice, the Nebraska drink, has been abolished from American diplomacy. Mrs. Robert Lansing, wife of Secretary of State Lansing, who was hostess at the formal dinner to Dr. Cardozo, minister from Brazil to Mexico, at her Washington home the other night, placed wine on her table. "Wine will be served at all diplomatic banquets where the Secretary of State is invited," she said, when she was asked about this change in diplomatic drink. "Mr. Lansing and I are not extremists in the advocacy of temperance." The grape juice which Secretary Bryan made a part of diplomatic etiquette when he became Secretary of State more than two years ago, has seen its last. Mrs. Lansing will permit any diplomat to drink it if he chooses, but she will not force it on him. Mrs. Lansing is the daughter of John W. Foster, the first among American diplomats and Secretary of State in the Cabinet of President Harrison. She has lived in Washington all her life, where she was brought up in diplomatic society. Not only is she one of the most popular women of society in Washington, but she is the handsomest matron it contains.

Packard Twin Six Will Be Here the Twelfth

The first shipments of Packard Twin-Six branch demonstrators have been received from the factory by the Packard Motor Car Company of New York and distributed to the branch dealers in the New York and Philadelphia territories.

With their arrival came word that initial shipments of regular allotments might be expected the latter part of this week and that subsequent shipments would go forward in rapid order. The factory production has now attained its scheduled volume and deliveries will be made in the order of their due. The local Packard branch has assurance that the small twin-six will be here for exhibition on the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th of this month.

The Philadelphia organization of the Packard company of New York Tuesday night gave a dinner to E. B. Jackson, former Philadelphia manager, and M. J. Budlong, whom he succeeded as president of the Packard company of New York. Sales Manager A. C. Harrington and T. P. Myers, of the New York headquarters, also attended. The dinner was given in the clubrooms of the Philadelphia Automobile Trade Association.

Since Mr. Jackson assumed the presidency of the New York company L. J. Eastman has been made acting manager of the Philadelphia branch, under the general direction of Mr. Jackson.

THE Harrisburg Polytechnic Dispensary will be open daily except Sunday, at 3 P. M., at its new location, front and rear entrances, for the free treatment of the worthy poor.
