Out of the Rear Car

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX
(Copyright, 1915, by Star Company.)

A man past middle age descended from an incoming train in a narrow passage leading to a large depot. He had occupied a rear car, and more than one hundred persons were in front of him when he reached the passage. Only two persons could walk abreast, and the train on the other made it necessary to keep to the narrow exit.

The man had important engagements awaiting him. He was well bred, a gentleman and considered the little courtesies of life.

Yet without violating one of these he reached the depot, and the trolley car first of all those hundred persons.

He watched his chances and availed himself of them.

A woman in the line at his left dropped her parcel and stooped to recover it. He slipped in front of her without delaying any one in either line of march.

A man on the right paused to shift his baggage from the right hand to the left, and this made another opening. Still another held up the whole procession to question a train official leaning from a car window, but instead of stopping with the throng our traveler pushed ahead and found a clear space, which soon enabled him to reach the trolley car two or three moments in advance of the first man who had descended from the train. He had moved rapidly, quietly, unobtrusively and without once inconveniencing a fellow traveler.

No doubt scores of passengers from the rear cars explained their tardy arrival home, and at places of business, as due to the procession in front of them.

This same man had begun life in the rear car. He had been a child on a Western prairie, without influence, and with meager opportunities for education.

Yet by this inborn trait, this determination to watch his opportunities and push ahead, he obtained an education and a desirable position in life before middle age — obtained it through his own efforts.

Many of his old comrades are living in the same meager environment of early youth, believing they were hindered by fate from attaining success.

The regard the good fortune of their old acquaintance as a stroke of luck.

"He was born to the lucky," they will tell you. "Things naturally went his way."

But they went his way merely because he watched his chance and slipped ahead when the opening came.

These chances come to every one of us along the highways of life. If we are not on the lookout the line closes up before we see the open space.

Every day I live I perceive more and more clearly how the real success of life comes from within and not from without.

An intense, unswerving, fixed purpose dominates all conditions. The mind which concentrates itself upon the one idea, I must do this thing, does it eventually, no matter what obstacles intervene.

The mind which says "The procession is so long ahead of me it is useless for me to try to hurry; I must just jog along," that is the mind which never gets beyond the jogging pace. The procession is always ahead.

A score of times it separates, opens, clears, but the man who says "it is no use" is not watching and does not see his opportunities.

And he lingers at the rear of the column, believing "he has had no chance."

We all have it. Few use it. Fewer still seize it.

8790 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Blouse with Over-Portion, 34 to 40 bust.

Every variation of the over-bodice is fashionable this autumn. Here is an extremely attractive blouse that can be made with an over-portion of half length as it is here, or with a full length over-portion extended to the shoulders. The model is an excellent one for many uses and besides being eminently fashionable and interesting, it is extremely simple and easy to make. The pattern gives both the seams and the basting line, so providing for easy cutting and easy sewing. The blouse is quite plain with hemmed edges that are buttoned together, and the over-portion, whether it is cut in full or in half length, is arranged over it and the two are gathered together at the waist line. The cuffs which suggest the gauntlet idea, make a notable feature. In the picture, the material is a plaid cloth combined with plain, but there are of course numberless combinations that can be made and the bodice is a good one for the gown and also for wear with the tailored suit or with the odd skirt.

For the medium size the blouse will require 3 1/4 yds. of material 27 in. wide, 2 1/2 yds. 36, 1 3/4 yds. 44, with 1 1/4 yds. 27 in. wide 3/4 yd. 36 or 44; for the half length over-bodice, 2 yds. 27 in. wide, 1 yd. 36 or 44 for the full length over-bodice.

The pattern No. 8790 is cut in sizes from 34 to 40 bust. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

PRISON LABOR TO BE GIVEN WORK

State Board Organizes to Carry on the System Outlined During Last Winter

The Pennsylvania State Prison Labor Board, created by the last Legislature to supervise the work of prisoners in State penal and reformatory institutions, was organized after a conference with Governor Brumbaugh at the Executive Mansion last evening.

The board was organized by electing John E. Honifon, Philadelphia, representing the inspectors of the Eastern penitentiary, as chairman, Col. C. A. Rook, Pittsburgh, representing inspectors of Western penitentiary, vice chairman John D. Dorris, Huntingdon, representing the board of managers of the Huntingdon Reformatory, secretary. In addition to the Governor, the organization meeting was attended by Representative Warren C. Graham, Philadelphia, who presented the bills for the commission's establishment, and John L. Kua, deputy attorney general, representing the attorney general.

Under the law the board is given an appropriation of $75,000 for purchase of machinery and supplies and for establishment of the system. The office will be located in Philadelphia. The supplies are to be sold only to State institutions and prisoners are to be paid from 10 cents to 50 cents per day. Three-fourths of the proceeds is to be retained for relief of dependents of prisoners and where there are no dependents to be put to the credit of the prisoners. When released one-third of the money to credit of the prisoners is to be paid, one-third three months later and one-third six months later.

At present only a small portion of the inmates can be employed, but it is expected that the new system will do away with idleness and also benefit the prisoners.

Money to defray expenses of court proceedings, should they be started, will be collected in a short time, it is said, from each of the petitioners, and members of the Smoke and Dirt Nuisance Association, who were endeavoring to overcome this trouble in All-
