Little Girl Snuggles Once Again in Arms of Her Mother

CASE STIRS DAUPHIN

Wife Tells Court of Husband's Cruelty and How She Left Him

For the first time in nearly a week, wee Elizabeth Nagle, aged 4, this morning snuggled happily in her pretty mother's arms, and kissed her, and smoothed her tress with tiny hands and told her how glad her little daughter was to be with her mamma again.

Tuesday morning of last week while the young mother was at work in a Dauphin factory to support herself and small child, George Nagle, the father and divorced husband of Mrs. Nagle, coaxed the baby from play in front of her home and drove off with her.

To-day the Dauphin county courts decreed that the mother and not the father was the proper person to care for the child and that the youngster should be restored to her mother's arms.

The decision followed an hour and a half's habeas corpus hearing which the sad-eyed mother had instituted to regain possession of her daughter. Hated George 2 Hours After Wedding

The Nagle's married life hadn't been entirely happy it developed on the witness stand, and the family disturbance became apparent soon after they were married back in 1908. Nagle had been cruel to her, Mrs. Nagle quietly explained, so cruel that she was forced to leave him with their youngest child, Elizabeth, two years ago. Mrs. Nagle admitted that she had told her mother-in-law that "she believed she grew to hate George two hours after the wedding." Divorce proceedings were begun by Nagle on the grounds of desertion and the case was heard last month. Since the separation Mrs. Nagle has been living with her parents at Dauphin, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Gilday.

How His Child

Witnesses told of the excellent home the hard-working mother had provided for the child, of the love that had always existed between the two, and of the frequent refusal of the father to permit his wife to come back. Then other witnesses told how Nagle last Tuesday drove up to the

Former Harrisburger Killed in Cyclone

Struck by a flying plank torn from a barn on the East Ranch at Great Bend, Kansas, by the cyclone last Tuesday, Frank Miller, until six years ago a resident of this city, died yesterday. The body will be brought here for burial.

Miller, who was 67 years of age, went West six years ago. Prior to that time he was an employe of the Harrisburg Railways Company and twenty-one years ago he drove a horse car in this city.

Surviving him are the following children: Joseph S. Miller, Mrs. R. B. Gerhard, of this city, and Robert Richard, of Sparrows Point, Md. T. M. Mauk and Son, undertakers, will bring the body here for burial.

Paving Across Last Open Stretch in Gap on River Front Wall

More than twenty blocks of concrete have been laid across the gap in the River Front wall at Market street and by the end of next week, weather and water permitting, the 300-foot stretch of Sparrows Point, Md. T. M. Mauk and Son, undertakers, will bring the body here for burial.

With the walk completed Harrisburg's "Front steps" from Iron alley to MacLay street will be finished with the exception of the several open blocks at "Harrisburgh city."

High water will probably prevent further work on the closing of the river dam but Commissioner W. H. Lynch will likely get busy with the few remaining slabs as soon as the river height permits this in the Spring.

The Cumberland Valley bridge job worked diligently all day yesterday to rescue the half submerged flat load of reinforcing steel that had jammed against the breast of the dam. The flat floated loose from its moorings a week ago.

German Seaman May Be Placed in Guarded Camp

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—Navy officials are so stirred at the escape of a seaman from the interned German cruisers at Norfolk, following closely on the recent escape of a party of noncommissioned officers, that to-day they asked the State Department to what lengths the marine guards stationed about the ships would be justified in going to stop the series of unauthorized departures. The possibility of bringing the Germans ashore and placing them in a guarded camp for safe keeping was being discussed again. The State Department will look up precedents to learn whether the marine guards have a right to shoot if necessary.

BUCKNELL MEETS GETTYSBURG ON ISLAND GROUNDS

Annual College Game Attracts Thousands to Gridiron; Battle For Blood

Harrisburg's annual college football game was to-day's big event on Island field. Bucknell and Gettysburg eleven furnished the big attraction which attracted a record crowd. It was an ideal day for a gridiron battle.

Activity started shortly before noon to-day when two special trains arrived, each bringing 300 students with a band. The Gettysburg train reached the city at 10 o'clock. Following a street parade the students took in the sights about the city until 1:30 when the procession started to the Island. Their headquarters are at the Commonwealth.

Lewisburg sent an enthusiastic crowd of rooters with its band. They, too, had a walk around and during their stay in Harrisburg will be quartered at Hotel Columbus. With the Bucknell crowd is George Cockill, former manager of the Harrisburg Tri-State team and now an umpire in the National League. He is assistant coach this season at Bucknell.

Lively Scenes at Island

At the Island the students furnished plenty of interest until the game started at 2:30. The contest looked like a battle for blood. Gettysburg and Bucknell have long been hated rivals. Gettysburg was the favorite to-day. Bucknell for the first time offered a team of mostly new material and a lightweight aggregation. The officials were:

Referee, Bennis, University of Pennsylvania; umpire, Washburn, Brown; head linesman, Palmer, Swarthmore. Each period was 15 minutes in length. A conference was held previous to the game regarding the appointment of a field judge. Officials were in favor of eliminating this extra official, but left it "up to the umpire. To-night the students will be the guests of C. Floyd Hopkins at the Orpheum theater. Gettysburg was scheduled to return home at 11 o'clock and Lewisburg at 11:30.

American Woman Tells of Attack on Ancona by Submarine

HER MAID WAS KILLED

Many Reported to Have Been Killed and Wounded by Gunfire

Paris, Nov. 13.—Passengers aboard the Italian liner Ancona were compelled to seek safety in the boats while the steamer was subjected to a cannonade from an Austrian submarine, according to a graphic story of the sea tragedy told by Dr. Cecile L. Grell of New York to the Havas correspondent at Perryville. The American woman escaped only through her ability as a gymnast. She tried vainly to find a place in two boats but there was no room for her. She saved herself by dropping from the deck into a launch which already was in the sea. Her maid was killed in their cabin by a gun shot.

Dr. Grell's story indicates that the torpedo which sent the Ancona to the bottom was not fired until the steamer
