

Tells Her Experience To Benefit Others

Mrs. Dunlap Sends a Letter Addressed to the Readers of the Paper

A sense of duty to others who might suffer as she had impelled Mrs. R. C. Dunlap, of Dekalb, Mo., to send the following signed statement to the St. Joseph, Mo., News Press:

"The readers of the News-Press, especially those suffering from gallstones, stomach trouble and appendicitis, will find in Frutola and Traxo a permanent cure. After suffering for three years the most excruciating pain from gallstones I found this wonderful remedy and am now in perfect health and have been for almost four years. Never have any symptoms of the old trouble. I had been told by three doctors that nothing but an operation would save me. I know several who have undergone an operation but still have gallstones. This medicine is an oil which softens the stones and cures the liver. It can be bought at any drug store."

Frutola is an intestinal lubricant that softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, and expels the accumulation to the patient's great relief. Traxo is a tonic-alterative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and removes bile from the general circulation.

Frutola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Harrisburg they can be obtained at Gorgas, the Druggist, 16 North Third street and P. R. R. Station.

FIRE ESCAPES TO BE KEPT CLEAN

Dr. Jackson Says That They Must Be Free From Snow and Ice at All Times

Fire escapes are put on the same plane as sidewalks and exits from buildings as far as being cleaned of ice and snow in winter time and being kept clear of boxes or junk by Commissioner of Labor and Industry John Price Jackson in a statement issued today.

Reports from factory inspectors have indicated trouble in getting people to realize the importance of keeping snow from fire escapes and the commissioner says: "A fire escape blocked by ice or snow or covered by fire as much a menace in time of fire as a fire escape to which the exits are locked or one that is obstructed by boxes."

All inspectors will get notice to enforce cleaning of fire escapes. The commissioner reviews the situation in his statement:

"At this season of the year, fire escapes are frequently rendered impassable by accumulations of snow and ice. These means of exit in case of fire are valuable only as long as they are ready for immediate use. It is absolutely necessary that they be kept clear at all times. After every snowstorm all escapes should be immediately cleared and thus it will be impossible for them to become slippery."

In many cases, owing to leaky spouts overhead, large accumulations of ice are found which render these escapes impassable. The obvious remedy for a condition of this kind is the immediate repair of the spout in question and the removal of the accumulations of ice.

A case which was recently brought to the attention of the officials of the department was in one of the large cities of the State where a fire escape, located on a school building, in which there were three hundred pupils, was rendered almost impassable by two stories by the large icicles which formed on the gratings of the escape. If a fire had occurred in that particular school and the fire escape had been the only means of exit, there would have been a great loss of life. Fortunately the condition was noticed and corrected before any fire occurred.

The owners of all buildings should carefully observe whether the fire escapes for which they are responsible are in a safe condition and are free from obstructions. If a catastrophe should ever occur and it should be shown that the fire escapes were impassable, owing to a blockage of any kind, the owner would be liable to prosecution. Furthermore, from a humanitarian standpoint these means of exit should always be kept ready for immediate use.

"The real efficient fire escape which is not subject to conditions as outlined above is one which has a covering supported by an extension of the vertical rods in the railing. A large number of the theaters installing fire escapes at this time are now adopting this type as it is only during exceptionally heavy blizzards that such an escape can be rendered unsafe for use."

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Lionel Abraham is the minority in a recent discussion at the Adelphi Theater, in Philadelphia, where Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" has been playing. Whiskers vs. Art was the dispute, Abraham declaring that the role of the giant Christian, Ferrovius, which he was playing, did not historically demand "whiskatorial" adornment. The stage director ruled otherwise, and so, in spite of the fact that the lion has no objection to whiskers, Mr. Abraham severed his connection with the company.

An actor playing the small town winedresser in a recent production in New York: "I have Christmas week booked. Send me $10. Fare. And he got this reply: "Cancel Christmas and book Easter week. Warner."

Anna Little, the American "Mustang" star, motored down to Los Angeles recently to deliver congratulations in person at the home of two old folk and to have a pink and white "little new arrival."

"Whom does the baby look like?" asked the mother.

Anna looked closely for a moment, then, in true diplomatic fashion, she replied: "I think he's neutral."

(Clipped from The Village News, Capacity business expected.)

"Miss Goldie Graves fell on the ice this morning directly in front of the postoffice, spraining her leg. The 'parson of the church will preach to-morrow on 'The Heavenly Vision.'"

The daily papers in New York City seem to be greatly worried as to who is the wresler using the press agent stunt as "The Masked Man" in January. Papers said it was Francis X. Bushman, some said it was Joe Raymond, a lot of people have an idea that it is the "masked athlete," formerly in vaudeville, will fill the bill when his name is called.

Donegal, from whose mountain valleys comes the Irish writer and lecturer, Seumas MacManus who is due to lecture at the Technical Auditorium, Tuesday evening, January 11, is the land of the Fairies. Every rock and every bush there has its own story to tell. In Donegal, as in all the other mountainous districts of Ireland, the fairies are still very real. They are gradually being pushed back farther into the hills by the advance of so-called civilization.

When the first little narrow-gauge railway line was projected into the hills of Donegal from the outer world, Owen Kieran, a shepherd, and neighbor of Seumas MacManus, out on the hills at dawn of day beheld a strange sight. The little men and little women, sadly, were rowfully taking their departure from the fairy-haunted glen through which the intruding railway was to run; and he told how he saw each little man and each little woman pluck and carry away a piece of heather, or a sprig of shamrock, or a leaf, as a memento of their sacred glen, not about to be desecrated, in which they had spent their childhood, by the wheels of the world.

The lives of these people among the Irish mountains are filled with fairy tales and poetry, and all their lovely old beliefs and old customs and old lore, keep their hearts ever soft and kind, and make them, moreover, the most spiritual of people.

Seumas MacManus' lecture upon "Fairy and Folk-Lore," Dr. Merle St. Felix Wright, president, The Comparative Literature Society of our country, writes: "His lecture before our society is a popular presentation of the mysticism and realism of his race with a way of looking at the world as if it were but an hour old. He moved a difficult audience to frequent laughter, and nobly touched them to silence by the simple dignity and human feeling of his theme, great and abiding as the quaint charm of idiom and accent that invested even familiar material with novel interest and local color."

The new vaudeville bill that will be uncovered at the Majestic for the first half of the week embraces two old-time favorites with local vaudeville followers, as the Majestic well as three other attractions, which, when they come here, are said to possess much talent and variety. Chief of the well-known players are Byron and Leney, a man and woman, who present a comedy sketch, in which Mr. Byron plays a "man" of a most hilarious funny type. The woman plays the part of an actress, who enters her apartment and discovers the strange man there, and a no end of side-splitting incidents follow until the fall of the curtain. Another popular act is that of the "Bert" boys, vaudeville's most celebrated gymnastic act. Several others of almost equal importance will contribute to the roster. Heading the vaudeville bill for the last half of the week will be Ralph Dunbar's Bell Ringers.

Charles Cherry, the Frohman star, makes his first appearance on the screen in a new adaptation of the celebrated dramatic success, "The Mummy and the Humming Bird" on the Paramount program at the Regent to-day and to-morrow. The drama is one of those plays which permits an actor of ability to display the full force of his histrionic power.

Later in the week Charles Frohman Company will present the emotional artistic, Pauline Frederick, in "Bella Donna," the celebrated novel and play which has been converted into a Paramount picture, with Pauline Frederick in the role that made Alla Nazimova famous. A striking combination of intense tragedy and exquisite Oriental settings.

Two Triangle features are headed for the Colonial for the first three days of the week, which, according to the Regent to-day and to-morrow. The first, "Fatty" and the comedy feature, called "Fatty and the Broadway Stars," takes second place to none. "Fatty" is a comic, up-buckle, and his associate players in this production include: William Collier, Sam Bernard, Lew Fields, Ben Weber, Mack Sennett and Joe Jackson. This is a galaxy of comedians which represents the best there is in theatre on the American stage. Joe Jackson, of this aggregation, will make a special appeal to local audiences. Twice this tramp comedian, with his troublesome bicycle, entertained audiences at the Orpheum. This will be the first opportunity local audiences have had to see him in the movies. There are reasons to believe, however, that the most interest will be centered in "Jordan Is a Hard Road." This is a Griffith production and its many thrilling incidents all lead up to the reformation of a bandit through the remarkably sweet little Miss Gish.

AL. G. FIELD

To feel again in full measure the delights of the old songs and learn the pleasures of the new ones each season it is but necessary to attend the performance of the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels, who come to the Orpheum to-morrow for a two-day engagement. In this, the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels are keeping up minstrel tradition. The folk songs of America—the songs of the home—were introduced and popularized by minstrels, and their very language is in the dialect of the minstrel stage. Most of them were written by Stephen Collins Foster—"Old Black Joe," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Folks at Home," "Massa in the Cold, Cold Ground," "Hard Times," etc.

Side by side with the new ones, one or more are always heard in the "first part" of the Al. G. Field minstrel program, which is making song history to-day just as the leading minstrel organizations of America always have.

DR. DIXON OPENS HEALTH BUREAU

Plan to Keep Sick People Out of Places Where Food Is Prepared For Public

A Bureau of Public Service has been created by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, to secure the State-wide enforcement of the Act of Assembly requiring the semiannual inspection of all cooks, waiters, chambermaids, kitchen help, or other house servants employed in hotels, restaurants, dining cars or other public eating places to exclude those suffering from certain communicable diseases from employment.

The State Department of Health has already notified all local Boards of Health throughout the Commonwealth of the provisions of this act and furnished them with copies of the law for distribution to the hotels and eating houses within their local jurisdiction. Returns have already been made by many of these giving the results of their work.

The rural districts will be covered as well as the municipalities through the department's seven hundred health officers and various special inspectors. A form of health certificate has been prepared for general use showing that employees have passed a satisfactory examination.

Commissioner of Health Dixon has had many commendatory letters from traveling men's organizations and others expressing appreciation of this protection which is being given to the traveling public.

HANDY STOMACH REMEDY TO HAVE ABOUT THE HOME

Instantly stops indigestion, gas, sourness, heartburn or acidity.

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress goes.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion, acid stomach, dyspepsia or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep Pape's Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy stomach in five minutes.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as belching of gas, eructations of sour undigested food, nausea, headaches, dizziness, constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of nervousness, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach, cancer.

Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, gas and stomach poison, which putrefies in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poisons the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.—Advertisement.
