FRITZ KREISLER HERE TONIGHT

World Famous Violinist at Orpheum; Special Traffic Rules Will Be Enforced

There has been a very large sale of seats for the Fritz Kreisler recital at the Orpheum Theater this evening, but the rumor that was circulated yesterday to the effect that the house had been sold out was untrue. There are still plenty of choice seats remaining for the latecomers, so it was announced by the management this morning.

Kreisler is known to crowd nightly the auditoriums and theaters of the great and small cities wherever he goes, which speaks well for the genius and popularity of the violinist. Music lovers in this city are fortunate to have the opportunity of hearing the master at this time, for Kreisler was engaged in the present great war as a lieutenant, until wounded by a cossack's lance in a hand-to-hand fight before Brest.

Special traffic rules will be in force to-night in order that the crowds may be handled efficiently and with dispatch. All carriages and automobiles will approach from the Second street side, and after receiving their number will pass on around the square, and park on the Second street side. The recital will begin at 8:30 o'clock. Requests for enclosures should be handed in at the box office in writing. No person will be seated during the rendition of any number.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

New York society girls and prominent actresses are rehearsing in Mrs. O. H. Belmont's suffrage play, "The High Life and Her Sisters," scheduled for an early production. The money which the play is expected to bring into the box office is to be devoted to "the cause."

Marie Doro, the beautiful actress of the stage and screen, who recently performed the very un-actress like deed of acquiring a husband and keeping her marriage secret for several weeks, will be the redoubtable Melinda, who shocks her family by being a suffragist.

Frances Starr will make her first appearance in a costume play, as it is called, when David Belasco produces her new comedy, "The Period," in 1850.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring, is enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

triumph in her new comedy, "Erstwhile Susan"—a play that has every element of entertainment one could ask of the theater, since humor, pathos, burlesque and even low comedy abound throughout its tremendous effective acts. No role in her celebrated repertoire of parts—certainly no comedy role—has ever afforded Mrs. Fiske such scopeful opportunities as that of the brilliantly eccentric, delightfully satirical "Erstwhile Susan."

LOCAL THEATERS

The artistic genealogy of Fritz Kreisler, the great violinist, who appears at the Orpheum this evening, is more than ordinarily interesting. It reaches back directly to Vercelli, the founder of the greatest school of violinists the world has known. While Kreisler, at the age of seven, was under the famous Massart in the Conservatoire of Paris, his principal teacher and the man to whom he owes the most, was Josef Helmsberger, of Vienna. Corelli was born in 1653, Kreisler in 1875, over 200 years later.

Perhaps it is owing to his very distinguished artistic descent that Kreisler has always been so fond of the old Italian masters. To him their memory owes much, for he has resurrected a quantity of their music which had long since been forgotten, buried in the dust of old European libraries.

Not least, Kreisler limited himself to the old violin music. He has taken many piano pieces, many forgotten songs and arias and has woven them into his instrument. As a result of his research the literature of the violin has been greatly doubled in the last few years, and all violinists, now that he had made a beginning, are following in his footsteps. The music, which from point of view of melody and sympathy for the instrument, is incomparable.

"The merriest and best all-around 'kidd' act that local vaudeville delectables are to see is the 'Royal Dragoons' this season in the Jesse L. Lasky production called 'At the Party'."

It will make its exit after to-day's performance at the Majestic. Seven girls and boys comprise the little company. And Pietro, the wizard of the accordion, whose lead is doubled in this evening's performance.

Ralph Dunbar's "Eight Royal Dragoons" are to end the vaudeville bill at the Majestic Theater for the week-end. The vocal and instrumental accompaniment of the seven girls and boys is materially enhanced by the appearance of the players. The triple act is costumed in the most elaborate forms used by the German Emperor's personal bodyguard. Other Keith hits will call in the evening, including the funny Keystone-Sennett comedy entitled "The Worst of Friends," with Weber and Fields.

To-day presents local moving picture lovers with their last opportunity to see "Good Triangles" see clever Helen Ware in "Cross Currents" and "Coming Out" at the Colonial.

The funny Keystone-Sennett comedy entitled "The Worst of Friends," with Weber and Fields.

The title of the week-end feature is "Between Men," produced by Thomas H. Ince, the famous producer of picture plays and it tells a story of Wall Street intrigue and physical combat. Ashley Hampton, a high school football star, has a lover named Lina. Gregg Lewiston (House Peters) wants to marry her, but seems to make poor progress at his wooing. She puts a scheme through to ruin Hampton in the market so that the old man will bring her a large sum of money. Hampton is distracted by his losses. While aimlessly looking over his papers he comes across a little note signed by Western mining man, Bob White. Hampton is told it is an offer to assist Hampton at any time and in any place, physically or financially. Hampton sends a message to White to come to New York at once. From this point on a most interesting and well planned romance is unraveled by the clever artists.

"Mr. Gex of Monte Carlo," Phillips Oppenheim's thrilling novel of European complications, will be seen in photoplay form at the Regent to-day and to-morrow, under the direction of the Jesse L. Lasky Company.

The story of "Mr. Gex of Monte Carlo" has the adventures of an impetuous young American millionaire in Monte Carlo and in love. It is a Paramount picture.

In the cast supporting Mr. Roberts are: Carlyle Blackwell, Miss Dorothy Davenport, and the New York Center, Frank Elliott and other members of the Lasky all-star organization.

When this story is published in serial form in the Saturday Evening Post, it created a great wave of comment throughout the world, and the photo-dramatic version is said to be unusually startling.

Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo, an acting pair who starred jointly in a stage success, "The Millionaire," are again in production at the Regent in "The Strange Case of Mary Page."

In fifteen episodes, from the serial of Frederick Lewis, author of "What Happened to Mary," each episode is a story complete in itself, yet there is a continuity preserved between each episode with one exception. Beginning to-day the Victoria will show one episode weekly for a period of fifteen weeks. For to-morrow the Victoria announces "The Misleading Lady," played by Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo.

CHAPTER 10

A hostile army has visited our shores and is now ruthlessly destroying our children. Shall we repel the slaughter?

We have learned with shocking surprise that in the last mortality statistics issued by the census director at Washington there were reported in the United States for one year the deaths of 376,870 children under ten years of age.

The record of these deaths was complete in what is known as the "Registration Area," which, in the year 1913, embraced only 65.1 per cent. of the total population of the United States, the other 34.9 per cent. lying outside the "Registration Area" as it is now composed.

The total deaths in the "Registration Area" in 1913 were 890,848, of which 820,204 were of white persons. The "Registration Area" contains as yet few Southern States in which the negro population is large. It is thus seen that the high mortality record among the negroes has in no manner affected the figures reported here, which would be still larger if the negro population were taken into consideration.

In 1910 the same authority reported the deaths of 235,200 children under ten years of age. The "Registration Area" was then much smaller.

While we were moaning and groaning over the fatalities of the most terrifying war that has ever cursed civilization, we were unmindful of the fact that during the past four years 1,500,000 children under ten years of age have been allowed to die in pain in the United States of America.

If these children, a million and a half of them, had lost their lives in an epidemic or in a massacre it would have indeed aroused the nation. Are we not all wonderfully fed? Never was a nation better fed, they tell us. Yet here are the facts:

When the Titanic and the Lusitania went down with a few more than 2,000 souls aboard the cities of civilization put on a cloak of sorrow. A few thousand perished, but they perished in a heap. Man's power for them had come to an end. These two tragedies were strange and sudden. The slow-moving, deadlier perils that walk with us by day and lie with us at night arouse no man.

While we are forgetful of facts and congratulating ourselves without cause, let us see upon what foundation our happiness rests.

A bulletin prepared as long ago as 1912 by the United States Bureau of Education declares that:

400,000 children have organic heart disease.

1,000,000 children have tuberculosis in some form.

WHERE BEING SUE IS A WIFELY PRIVILEGE

In the February American Magazine United States Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, says of his native State:

"Before the war, South Carolina was the 'Initiative State of the South,' now Mississippi is. She initiates for all the Union a woman's university (called an institute) — not an annex to, nor an adjunct of, a man's institution—laws making woman independent of her husband and protecting her interest in his estate. She can sue him in court if she will, and she may enjoy the precious 'privilege' of being sued by him. That's a woman's right for you!"

PREVENT RELAPSES OF GRIP

This is the time of year when those who have had the form of influenza known as "the grip" are suffering from the condition in which the disease invariably leaves its victims.

Grip leaves the blood thin and this anemia which follows grip is a very stubborn one in resisting treatment. It must be corrected however before any cure can be considered permanent. As long as the blood remains thin there will continue the relapses with which most sufferers from grip are familiar. Warmth and quiet alone give comfort and these not for long at a time. Sleep is restless and does not refresh the nerves which are always at high tension.

The best way to correct this after-effect of the grip is to build up the blood and there is no better blood builder than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

As soon as the revitalized blood courses through the system you are aware of its soothing influence. Gradually the color returns to the pale cheeks, appetite and digestion improve and you are on the road to health.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."

N. Y. Guard to Get Armored Equipment

An armored train and an armored airplane soon will be added to the equipment of the New York National Guard through the generosity of certain public-spirited citizens. The governor of the State has approved of a request for a $10,000 appropriation to be used in maintaining the train; a similar amount is asked for the airplane. It is said that this will be the first armored train in this country. One of its units will be a battle car carrying nine or ten men and resting on especially constructed trucks equipped with motor apparatus and steering gear at either end so that it can be run in either direction without reversing control. There will be seven lightly armored fast motor cars for carrying machine guns and suitable for scout work or bringing up ammunition. Twelve motorcycles also will be equipped with machine guns. The train, bought in the open market, would cost approximately $150,000. It will need the services of fully 100 men. The armored air craft is the gift of several prominent citizens who are especially interested in military aviation. From the February Popular Mechanics Magazine.
