NATIONAL GUARD TO STOP BORDER RAIDS

[Continued From First Page] suit of the outlaws who raided Glenn Springs and Boquillas. While Secretary Baker's statement said only two regiments of regulars had been ordered, it is reported that actually were sent to three regiments. The secretary said an error had been made in preparation of the statement.

No Demand to Withdraw After an early conference with Secretary of War Woodrow Wilson, Eliseo Arredondo, General Carranza's ambassador, said he had told the Secretary "there is not a lot of truth" in reports from the border that General Obregon had demanded the withdrawal of American troops. The ambassador denied also that Mexican troops had been disposed during the El Paso conference so as to threaten General Pershing's line of communication.

Attack Organized in U. S. "The de facto government," Mr. Arredondo said, "has official and accurate information that the attack on Glenn Springs was ordered by the United States. It is feared that other similar movements might occur. I have laid our information before Secretary Lansing. We have accurate information of at least two separate places on the border, where raids are now being planned by these interests."

Arredondo declared Antonio Villareal was the principal instigator of the Glenn Springs raid, according to his information. Villareal recently visited Nuevo Laredo, he said, in an effort to form a military "Carranza garrison. The ambassador described the object of these factionists as being in accord with the Mason propaganda in Mexico, which is said to be a radical organization with which Villareal had been affiliated twenty years.

Secretary Lansing promised to discuss that feature with Secretary Baker. Before the conference at the State Department had concluded, however, Secretary Baker had announced that he would not send the additional troops to General Funston. Mr. Arredondo was informed of these orders.

"I am glad to hear that," he said. "It is exactly what is needed." A message from General Scott at El Paso reached the War Department early to-day and Secretary Baker dispatched a reply immediately. The contents of neither dispatch was disclosed.

Men Must Serve The National Guardsmen are ordered under the Dick law authorizing their service anywhere in the United States but not beyond the border. Under that law every man enrolled in the regiments who is physically able may be forced to serve. If service beyond the border was contemplated the regiments would be mustered into the Federal service as volunteers, and it would be optional with the men whether they would serve.

According to the last reports to the War Department the Arizona Guard is composed of eleven companies of infantry, with a total of 56 officers and 806 men. The incomplete regiment has no machine gun supply company. The total force is scattered through the State.

The New Mexico Guard is composed of one battery of field artillery located at Roswell and a regiment of infantry without machine guns or a supply company. The total enrolled strength is 62 officers and 908 men.

The Texas Guard consists of one field hospital, four squadrons of cavalry, one battery of field artillery and three regiments of infantry, of which only one has a machine gun company and none of which has a supply company. The total force is 181 officers and 2,956 men.

The grand total enrollment of this force in October, 1915, according to these figures, was 4,679 officers and 47,700 men. Because of border conditions, officials here feel certain that the force will be increased a third or more in the course of the next few days.

May Call More Militiamen The disposition of the militia and of the regulars along the border is entirely in General Funston's hands. While only the guardsmen from the three States mentioned have actually been ordered out, the War Department is prepared to send similar orders to other nearby States, should the necessity arise. Recommendations by General Scott and General Funston will govern the sending of any additional guardsmen.

All U. S. Army on Border With the despatch of the four additional regular regiments to the border, the entire mobile army of the United States with the exception of five troops of cavalry is either mobilized upon the border or in Mexico in pursuit of bandits. Every infantryman in the country is either on the border, enroute there, or in Mexico. The remainder of the infantry and cavalry is on foreign service or in Alaska.

Application will be made shortly for a charter for the Camp Curtin Trust Company, in which stockholders of the Sixth Street Bank are interested. Announce After Cabinet Meeting That No More Troop Movements Contemplated

Washington, D. C., May 9.—After a brief cabinet meeting to-day at which the Mexican situation was very thoroughly discussed Secretary Baker announced that no more movements of troops or regular troops to the border was in contemplation.

Secretary Baker said he expected Generals Scott and Obregon to meet again to-day on the border to "exchange papers" or confer further. While cabinet members admitted there was serious possibilities in the situation, most of them took the view that the present difficulty would be smoothed out. It was indicated that the attitude of General Obregon was causing dissatisfaction, although it was expected that General Scott would be able to handle the situation.

Some officials were pessimistic over the trend of the border conference, confessing that the tentative agreement already made by the President Wilson would not be signed. Most of the cabinet members, however, believed the situation not so serious.

HEALTH BOARD SHARPLY RAPPED

[Continued From First Page] Fred Wigfield, Highway Commissioner Jack Meshey, Chief of Police H. P. Longaker and Councilmen T. T. McEntee, Charles E. Reisch and Charles E. Keim members of the sanitary committee, following the "clean-up week," conditions were found in sections of the borough that would shame the filthiest of Mexican villages, according to the report made by the sanitary committee last evening.

Some of the conditions revealed by the report are so revolting that they may not be described in a newspaper. At 252 Franklin street, the report declares Petre Fazioff, is owner of a stable and bake shop which are under the same roof. Manure, the report continues, is piled around the bake oven and some of the refuse is in the room where the baking is done.

Conditions Unprintable "But this is mild compared to what the committee found in the 'Bear Pit,' a row of frame shacks within a stone's throw of the home of Edward Lewis, secretary of the Board of Health, is known. This part of the committee report is unprintable. Suffice to pick out a few items.

Says the report: "We had the shanties owned by J. Wilson Wlack, at Steel and Canal alleys, known as the 'Bee Pit' to be the worst eyesore in the borough. These people have no water and must get water from their neighbors. The cesspool is filled and running over. There is an abandoned organ and cow manure used for a toilet.

"At Buser's Run," the report relates, "the usual filthy and unsanitary condition is found. Blood and other refuse from butcher shops, night soil and other sewage is being emptied into the Pennsylvania Canal.

"We also inspected part of Cameron's field where the borough and some of the businessmen of town dump their garbage. We find where butchers and storekeepers have dumped decayed meat, wrapped in paper, chicken skins and pieces in their places of business, making this section very unsanitary. We also find a quantity of broken beer bottles dumped along Main street, partly within the borough and partly outside the borough.

Where Ice Cream Is Sold "The condition at Melman's stable in Frederick street is very unsanitary. Brine from the horse and cow manure runs across the sidewalk into the gutter and from there to the storm sewer. They keep horses, cows, dogs, cats, chicken skins and pieces in this stable and they sell bread, milk and ice cream.

"We find the cesspools at several brick rows owned by the Pennsylvania Steel Company, fronting on Furnace and Frederick streets, are not on the sanitary sewer, are filled and running over. The drainage is improper and not sufficient and conditions are unsanitary in general. The storm sewer, in sufficient to cause an epidemic of smallpox, typhoid fever and most any disease.

In closing the committee suggested that the Health Officer be instructed to investigate conditions cited in the report and have them eliminated with a reasonable dispatch.

"This matter is purely up to the Board of Health," declared Mr. McEntee following reading of the report and this opinion was shared by the council when it was unanimously agreed that the health authorities should be instructed to get busy at once.

The municipal circles the sanitary committee's report is viewed with significance. It is taken to mean that the council wants to see some action on the part of the Health Board which hitherto has been rather independent of council.

It was on a few months ago that Edward Lewis, who has served the borough in many capacities, was appointed by council as secretary of the board of health with a view to giving the board sufficient men to enable sanitary affairs to be administered efficiently. Mr. Lewis also gives the powers of plumbing inspector with a view to remedying conditions similar to some of those reported last evening.
