CAPITOL PEOPLE ARE SHIVERING

Conditions which have been under discussion for some time.

Reports that men were to be dropped from the Labor and Industry, Fire Marshal, Highway, Mines and other departments could not be verified as of to-day, but those who spoke about them were careful to limit their statements to to-day only.

Governor Brumbaugh did not return to the city until early this afternoon, and Attorney General Brown, who is said to have the list of men complained of, was not expected until later. The general belief is that June 1, which will be the next business day, to-morrow being a holiday, will be a fatal occasion for some people on Capitol Hill.

The Governor plans to go to Mercersburg to-morrow to speak at the Academy Memorial Day and Chairman Ainey of the Public Service Commission will speak at Montrose, Secretary of Internal Affairs Henry Houck having a Lebanon county date. F. A. Godcharles, Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth, will speak at Milton, and Deputy Attorney General Hargest in Virginia.

OBJECT TO TYPE OF SLOPING WALK

rapped by the Park Department and it understood that the State authorities want to familiarize themselves with the type of construction before any further attempts of the kind are begun. The street ramp was intended to serve as a trial job.

To make any changes in the original plans for the construction of the ramps permission must be obtained from the State Water Supply Commission, according to an official of that body to-day. To date, no such request has been made nor have any plans showing proposed changes been submitted. Complaints as to the method of construction have been numerous although no formal objections have yet been filed with the State authorities.

In the reconstruction of the Muench street ramp however the slope was not only riprapped but the path was broadened somewhat, the slopes extended, and the walkway smoothed with cement to cover protruding stones.

HILLES OUTLINES PARTY PLATFORM

Republican Chairman Names Five Planks Certain to Be Incorporated

Chicago, Ill., May 29.—Chairman Charles D. Hilles, of the Republican national committee, said that from information obtained in talking with party leaders he believes the principal planks in the platform will include the following:

First—A statement on Americanism.
Second—A statement on preparedness for adequate military and naval defense.
Third—A declaration in favor of a protective tariff, to be prepared by a nonpartisan tariff commission created by Congress, with special attention to the needs of American industries after the close of the European war.
A declaration in favor of a merchant marine.
A statement dealing with the alleged shortcomings of the Democratic national administration.

On the question of national woman suffrage Chairman Hilles said there was a difference of opinion among the party leaders.
Diseases Moose Plans
In speaking of the probable action of the Progressive national convention, which meets simultaneously with the Republican national convention, Chairman Hilles said:
"If the Republican convention adopts a straightforward, sincere, ringing declaration of the vital public questions now being discussed, and nominates a man clearly equal to the important tasks which will confront the next President, Roosevelt might not think that there was any need of his entering the field. But if the Republicans nominate a man who Mr. Roosevelt thinks is a misfortune and adopts a platform which he regards as bunk, he may feel so outraged as to run, and perhaps help re-elect President Wilson."

Denies Steam-Roller Plan
Chairman Hilles denied a report that the organization had ever thought of attempting to force the nomination of a candidate for President the first day of the convention.
"Such a plan has never even been discussed," he said. "The convention will follow precedent. We hope to get through Saturday, but if there is a delay the convention may go over to Monday."

MILK PRODUCTS CO. WILL BUILD

on Fourth street near Maclay, adjoining the present buildings which are now too small for the increasing business.

Modern Building
The building throughout will be of brick and reinforced concrete. The exterior will be pressed brick with stone trimmings and the interior with its steel girders and concrete will be as fireproof as possible. Sanitation will be the main consideration, and to exclude any possibility of dust accumulations there will be no sharp corners, but the ends of window frames and sills will be sloping and all corners rounded on walls and floors to make cleanliness an easy matter. The equipment throughout will be new as well as the latest and most approved type of machinery will be installed.

Martin R. Nissly, the general manager, says the new building has received serious consideration for several months because of the enormous increase in the company's business, and inspection trips have been made to a number of the most modern dairy plants in the country.
Big Distributing Center
The local plant will be the distributing center for the company's Harrisburg business.
The Pennsylvania Milk Products company, while generally regarded as local in its scope of operations, has for some time been doing not only a national but an international business. Milk from its condenseries at Shippensburg, Newville and Williamson is now being shipped to Mississippi valley and far western points as well as consigned to European purchasers.

The contemplated improvements in this city, however, are designed to serve the needs of the growing distributing business. The company handles nearly fifteen million quarts of milk a year and feels that such a volume of business justifies the installation of the best sanitary equipment obtainable.

The recent developments in the dairy business are illustrated by the present plan of operations of the Pennsylvania Milk Products Company. At the present time the corporation distributes the product from nearly 2,000 farms. Covering such an extended territory, the management, in order to be in a position to protect the ultimate consumer, makes it a practice to supervise the sources of supply as carefully as though each farm were operating under its own control. A number of the herds are tested regularly for tuberculosis, the company employing its own veterinary surgeons. Besides this, inspectors make the rounds regularly for the purpose of giving practical advice to help the farmer spot the unprofitable cows in his herd to a price to be paid for proper rations for his cows, and to give instruction wherever needed to insure a high quality of milk.

It is only the co-operation of the farmers and our inspectors complying with these regulations that produce a milk of high quality.
The Pennsylvania Milk Products Company's regulations governing the producing and caring for the milk from the producer to the consumer is more stringent than any board of health regulation of any city in the State, which accounts for the prompt sale of milk products into the city of New York and the District of Columbia, which have the most stringent milk regulations in the United States.

The Pennsylvania Milk Products Company realized the necessity of having a certified milk for the convalescent people and infants of Harrisburg and immediately set about, and did secure a supply that could be depended upon by the Milk Commission of Harrisburg. This is produced under special regulations and are delivering thousands of quarts per day in the city.

Resinol Soap does far more than remove the dirt. Any soap will clean your skin—a bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap usually contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet. Poorly made toilet soaps contain this same injurious chemical. Resinol Soap has absolutely no free alkali, while to it is added the Resinol medication, which physicians prescribe regularly for skin affections. This gives it soothing, healing properties which improve the complexion, protect tender skins from irritations, and keep the hair rich, lustrous and free from dandruff. Resinol Soap is sold by all druggists. For a trial size cake, write to Dept. 15-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.
