PLAN TO DEFINE WILLIAM PENN ROUTE

Harrisburg this week by the permanent secretary, M. H. James, of Ebensburg, is the first step in a campaign which is not to end until the William Penn is permanentized throughout its entire length.

The Pittsburgh meeting is to be held at the William Penn Hotel and J. W. Donahy, Allegheny county governor of the association, will be host to the road association at dinner. A number of prominent Allegheny county road boosters will also be Mr. Donahy's guests. An effort will be made to have present, also, representatives of the Pike's Peak Ocean-to-Ocean route, of which the William Penn highway is the Pennsylvania link.

Since the organization meeting in Harrisburg last March, the road governors have been giving particular attention to the final routing of the highway, to the end that the thoroughfare will serve the greatest number of people possible and traverse Pennsylvania in as direct a manner as possible. Several county disputes over the routing have been adjusted amicably.

Interest Grows in West Penna.

Interest in the William Penn highway in Western Pennsylvania is growing constantly; and as evidence of this there is the fact that in Cambria county, twelve miles of the thoroughfare are being bricked or macadamized by the State and by the Cambria county commissioners. In Indiana and Westmoreland county, the officials are also spending money on the road; and a conference is being held in Pittsburgh to-day at which the permanentizing of the ten miles in Allegheny county is being discussed.

The Harrisburg Motor Club will find the "going" excellent on its run to Johnstown June 19. The noonday stop will be at Alfarretta Park, where a "picnic" lunch will be served. The night stop will be at Johnstown where the tourists will find a welcome waiting from the Johnstown Chamber of Commerce. The entire William Penn route between Harrisburg and Johnstown is in excellent condition.

The first "boosting" tour of Western Pennsylvanians over the new road will be that of the Johnstown Ad-Press Club, which is going overland to the Philadelphia convention of the advertising clubs of the world, the latter part of June. A dozen machines will carry the Johnstown club, and each machine will bear banners "boosting" the Penn road.

Particular interest in the highway is being taken by Grangers of Pennsylvania, who recognize the fact that the construction of a main thoroughfare through the central tier of Pennsylvania counties will mean the speedy building of connecting lateral roads.

BEING VALET TO LION IS JOB OF MAN MORE THAN SIXTY

Manicuring, brushing and doing valet work for a lion doesn't sound like a particularly safe occupation for a man more than sixty years old, but there is such a man with the Ringling Brothers' circus, coming to Harrisburg next Wednesday, who does nothing else but serve as valet for the eighteen big lions and lionesses and three tiny lion cubs in the big menagerie.

Every lion in the Ringling zoo requires a certain amount of attention every day. At least once a week each one must have his nails clipped, for otherwise the nails become long, sharp and dangerous. Manicuring wild animals is like carrying civilization into the jungle, and, for the men who do the work, it is almost as exciting as hunting big game. Animals prefer to keep clean in their own way, and even a sedate old lion resents the artificial cleansing processes of civilization occasionally.

There are frequently some exciting times during the hours that "Jimmy" Pacer, the lion valet, is at work, which is generally in the late afternoon, in the interim between the matinee and evening performances of the circus. Occasionally a lion will become so obstreperous that it will require the combined efforts of several men to hold him while Jimmy brushes out his coat and files his nails.

In the accompanying picture Jimmy Pacer is seen brushing the glossy mane of Consul, one of the largest lions in the Ringling zoo. Consul, however, is an exceptional lion, for he never protests against these attentions, and, in fact, receives them so peacefully that Pacer performs his duties within the cage with no steel bars for protection. Consul actually enjoys it, as can readily be seen by the peaceful expression.

Fleet of Motorcars Inspected by Heiges

The Lemoyne Auto Shop has had charge of the repair and mechanical adjustment of the motor delivery cars for Bricker's Bakery. A fleet of twelve automobiles are required in addition to the many horse-drawn vehicles.

Irvn H. Heiges conducts a repair shop at Lemoyne with complete mechanical equipment, and his experience as a tool and die maker previous to entering the automobile business has qualified him for the most delicate mechanical work. Mr. Heiges was foreman of the Lemoyne in 1913, and when the first automobiles were being introduced Mr. Heiges built on of the first cars seen in this section. This was in the experimental days of the industry. In 1902 the first single cylinder machine came to this section which led into the automobile repair business of today. The business of the Lemoyne Auto Shop increased rapidly until the fire of 1914 burned the place in Herman avenue. Then he built the present building of brick, 60x102 feet.

Mr. Heiges was foreman of the Toledo Tool and Die Works and held the foremanship of similar mechanical establishments at Cleveland and Brooklyn prior to establishing himself at Lemoyne.
