CIRCUS ATTRACTS MANY THOUSANDS

back, drinking in the myriad of colors and glittering tinsel of the banners, flags and costumes and the tons of goldleaf paint that decorated the vans and cages.

It was one of the longest parades that has ever meandered over the pavements in Harrisburg, and many thought this best. It started with a score of cavaliers and cavalieresses tooting fanfares on trumpets and wound up with the steam piano tooting "Circus Day," while 257 kiddies in knickerbockers trailed along behind the callopo, having followed the parade for blocks and blocks. The genius at the callopo was a master of the touch system.

Music, Camels, Elephants

Blaze musicians ripped out popular airs as they perched a-top the gilded band wagons encrusted with crested banners, and there was one company of players, bass drum and all, mounted on horses that didn't seem to mind their tooting at all—real.

Then came six ships of the desert, camels, slouching along four abreast, drawing the biggest scores of tableau barges. Following closely this flotilla shuffled leathery hided elephants, thirty strong, and led by a monster pachyderm that all the youngsters were certain must be "Big Bingo." The only time the elephants stopped, looked, sniffed and listened was when they passed a corner where a fruit dealer was roasting peanuts and the tempting odor floated in the ambient breeze.

Also not to be overlooked were the clowns, with their motley makeups and grotesque musical instruments. All in all, it was a circus procession that will be remembered for many a long day.

The Ringling circus arrived in the city bright and early this morning, coming on eighty-nine cars, divided into four train sections. It is undoubtedly the largest traveling amusement organization, and local railroad men say that its equipment is much larger and heavier than when it visited this city last time.

The new, fairyland spectacle, "Cinderella," is partly responsible for the increased size of the circus this year, for it is said that nothing so stupendous as this production has ever been presented under canvas before. One entire train is required to carry special scenery and mechanical and lighting effects, and the 4,500 costumes used in the various scenes of this wonderful pantomime play. More than 1,300 characters appear in the production, as well as several hundred horses, a special orchestra of 90 pieces and a wonderful ballet of 300 girls.

The spectacle is presented in the main tent on a specially constructed stage and is the opening feature of each performance.

When the gates to the big show were thrown open at 1 o'clock it was estimated that a crowd of several thousand had already gathered on the show grounds, and every car and conveyance in the city seemed to be headed toward the circus, loaded with humanity.

Another performance will be presented to-night, beginning at 8 o'clock, the doors of the main tents opening an hour earlier to allow time for patrons to visit the big Ringling menagerie, which this season queues 108 cages of wild animals, a family of giraffes, 41 elephants and a caravan of 35 camels.

Trains Held Up

Circus trains en route from Altoona to Harrisburg did not arrive in this city on schedule time. There were short delays on the Middlesex and on the arrival here the horse train, which is always the first to be unloaded, came in second. Passenger trains were held up, getting the second train on the sidings at Paxton street before 5 o'clock this morning, and the unloading of the trains was not completed until noon to-day. This caused a delay in the parade.

Railroad Preparedness to Come Before Car Builders

Special to the Telegraph Atlantic City, June 14.—Preparedness, with particular reference to the part the railroads of the United States would play in mobilizing troops and prompt movement of supplies in the event of an attempted invasion, is expected to be an important topic before the annual Railroad Congress, which opened here to-day with the convention of the American Car Builders' Association.

Award of 2000 heads of the mechanical departments of the greatest American railway systems are here to-night and 1,200 more are due to-morrow. The Marlborough-Bienheim is headquarters for the convention, but railway men are thronging all of the Boardwalk caravansaries. Canada and Mexico are represented, as well as all of the States.

CAR BUILDERS MEET

By Associated Press Atlantic City, N. J., June 14.—The annual joint conventions of the Master Car Builders, Master Mechanics and Railway Supply Manufacturers' Associations opened here to-day and will continue for two weeks.

DEAF MUTE HAD BEST OF ALIBIS

One of Pair Charged With Stealing Watch Was in Blackwell's Island Prison

Tom Meehan, deaf mute, charged with having helped steal a $40 watch from F. G. Diener's jewelry store, signaled the jury in June criminal court yesterday afternoon that he had a wonderful alibi that admitted of no dispute.

On the day of the crime Tom was a prisoner in New York city prison on Blackwell's island. John Woolley, a fellow mute, who was accused along with Meehan, was equally positive that he didn't steal the watch—and the jury believed their defense. The whole defense was based on the plea of mistaken identity. And the jury this morning acquitted both.

Only Meehan took the stand in his own behalf. He told his whole story via active fingers and an interpreter. The only other thrill of to-day's sessions was the trial of James Washington on a charge of feloniously assaulting Cornelius Shepherd. Both are negroes. Cornelius charged Washington with having fired a load of shot from a shotgun into him following a little difference of opinion in a "crap" game in the Walton stone quarries.

Incidentally while on the stand Cornelius offered President Judge Kunkel some first hand tips as to the technicalities of crap; the president judge was advised as to the mysterious advantages of "fadin" and "hitin'" and so on.

The whole row, it developed, grew out of a difference of opinion over whether or not Cornelius had rightfully acquired a dollar that Washington claimed. The fuss was abruptly ended by Washington who went to the house for his shotgun and fired one barrel at Cornelius.

The defense alleged that Cornelius brought retribution upon himself for cheating. He was a hard sharp and crook, counsel declared. "Suppose he is?" inquired President Judge Kunkel. "That isn't an excuse for assaulting him. The way to avoid playing with a card sharp is to keep away from him. You can't play with a card sharp — and then shoot him."

Other cases disposed of to-day included the following:

William S. Nicholas, Steelton, attempted burglary, convicted, no sentence. Harvey Fortney, indecent assault upon small Middletown girl, $5 fine and ten months in jail. Portney in 1911 served nine months for a similar offense and Judge Kunkel told him to call that the court was sorry it couldn't send him to the penitentiary. As Fortney was being led away his wife slipped from the crowded courtroom, intercepted him in the corridor and kissed him goodby.

William Saur and Abraham Cooper were convicted of stealing brass from the Pennsylvania Steel Company and Leonard Holland was convicted of shooting Brooks. Brooks narrowly escaped serious and perhaps fatal injury because he carried a brass pay check in his vest pocket. He was fired by Holland and deflected by the tiny tag.

HUGHES CONFERS ON CHAIRMANSHIP

see him was larger than yesterday. Early to call that the Hon. John Hays Hammond and George W. Wickert, Jr., and a number of western Republicans.

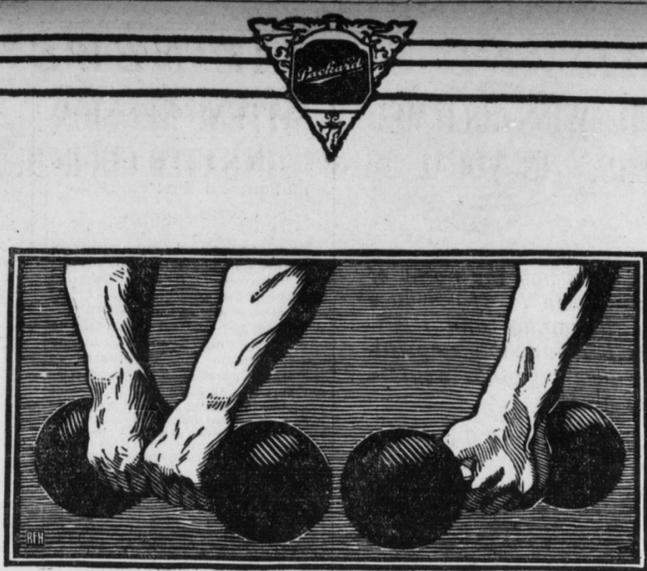

Mr. Hughes' campaign plans were still indefinite to-day. He will remain here until Saturday afternoon, when he will go out of town over the weekend, returning late Sunday night or early Monday, and on Monday will start for Leavenworth to address the Brown University graduates.

Everett Colby, of New Jersey, a Progressive leader, was expected to call on Mr. Hughes to-day. He visited headquarters yesterday, but found the candidate out.

There was an insistent report to-day that Mr. Colby, Oscar S. Straus, Progressive candidate for governor of New York in 1912, and Samuel W. Fairchild, president of the Union League Club and a personal friend of both Mr. Hughes and Mr. Roosevelt, were working hard to bring the candidate and the Colonel together.

Among the subjects which Mr. Hughes is discussing with callers is the problem of selecting a national chairman. Men understood to be under consideration include Herbert Parsons, national committeeman from New York; Frederick C. Tanner, New York state chairman; Frank H. Hitchcock, a leader of the Hughes forces at Chicago; William Hayward, a public service commissioner of this city, and Ralph F. Williams, national committeeman from Oregon.

Mr. Hughes to-day reconsidered his decision of yesterday not to meet suffrage leaders before making his speech at the notification ceremonies and indicated his willingness to meet representatives of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage. He will see them within a day or two, it was announced to-day.

It's easier to lift a load—much easier—with two strong arms than with one—and it's speedier

Split the stress—divide the strain—and you more evenly distribute the load.

That's the way to do the task quickly—and with the expenditure of less effort.

And that's just what we have done with the Packard motive power.

Two strong and nimble little arms now do the work which was done by one rather cumbersome and heavy arm.

We have made twelve small cylinders do the work of six larger ones.

It's six pairs of lively twins—all light—sturdy—strong—ready for instant and concerted action.

The result is not only greater power—but truly wonderful smoothness and sprightliness.

It's the Packard idea—this Twin Six. It is ours. And all motordom knows that it's a world achievement.

Time tested! Six thousand delighted owners emphasize the conspicuous success of the Twin Six idea.

And this refined Packard sells for $2750—$3150 and upward—f.o.b. Detroit.

You'll want a Packard now—more than ever before. See the Twin Six at Packard Motor Car Company of Philadelphia, 107 Market Street, or telephone for demonstration.

Illinois Back in Fold; Indiana Believed Safe

Chicago, June 13.—More important and interesting than waiting in St. Louis for the one ring Wilson circus to commence is a survey of remarkable Republican revival in Illinois and Indiana, following the nomination of Hughes and Fairbanks.

Nothing approaching this transformation has been witnessed in the past ten years, according to Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, and other leaders of Middle West.

"You may write Illinois back in the Republican column from which she deserted four years ago," said Mayor Thompson. The Fairbanks nomination unquestionably has helped the party immensely in Indiana. "Count the Hoosier State safe," said "Big Jim" Keating, leader of the Fairbanks forces, just before taking a train for Indianapolis. "We have only Tom Taggart and the Bryanite, Kern, to beat, and we can trim them, now that we have such national banner bearers as Hughes and Fairbanks."

From National Committee sources it has been learned that the Republican campaign, while nation-wide in a general sense, will be concentrated in New York, Indiana, Connecticut, West Virginia, California, Maryland, Wisconsin, Missouri and Nebraska.

PATIENCE URGED BY PROGRESSIVE HEADS

Chicago, Ill., June 13.—Raymond Robins, chairman of the Progressive national convention, and Harold Ickes, Progressive national committeeman for Illinois, in a joint statement counseled Progressives to await patiently the meeting of the national committee on June 26, when it will be decided what action the party will take. The statement said: "Wise and loyal Progressives will wait until their national committee reports June 26 before taking individual action in the present crisis. Let us be patient. Resentment is a poor counselor. The needs of the country demand judgment as well as enthusiasm."

"YES SIR! CADOMENE IS MY FRIEND" IT PROVED ITS WORTH---

I can honestly say that I had only taken about 30 Cadomene Tablets when I could notice a change in my condition and then gradually my health came back. Every tablet I took seemed to advance and improve my condition, and every step taken was held, no sliding back.

Now I sleep, eat, enjoy life, have strength in my tissues, do not feel nervous any more, and the pains have disappeared from my head and back—all told I feel fine—a new man—able and glad to meet my duties, whether business, social or domestic. Life looks good now from every angle, and I owe my abounding strength, my keen enjoyment and my health to Cadomene Tablets, and I don't think I am overstating it when I say that Cadomene Tablets actually saved my life, for I could never have continued the way I felt, and it would not have been desirable to continue a life of blasted hopes and ambition and wholly devoid of energy.

IT'S GOOD TO BE ALIVE, and Cadomene Tablets are my best friend. They'll be YOUR BEST FRIEND, TOO, if your condition requires them.

I have told many fellow-men about Cadomene Tablets, and they are just as glad to know about them as I am.

Cadomene Tablets is a preparation which will supply proper strength and energy to the flesh and muscles of body, and at the same time, to the highly complex and delicate nervous system.

Don't put off using Cadomene Tablets (3 grain). You can't lose, for if they do not give complete satisfaction you may have your money back. Obtain any live druggist in sealed tubes with full directions.

Several years ago, at one time — when I was a nervous wreck, mentally and physically—I guess morally, too. It made a well man of me; and I was "down and out" as the saying goes. Why, I couldn't sleep, was weak, nervous, irritable, sick—the result of dissipation, hard work and worry, too, for after I realized my condition I did worry, any man would, or woman, either, if they found themselves in a similar condition. Well, 'twas like this, a friend of mine said: "Look here, fellow, you can't go on like this, you'll be a dead man 'fore long," and then he told me of Cadomene Tablets. I decided to "try" Cadomene Tablets, but I had not much faith in them, for I had taken nearly everything I had ever heard of—all alike—they did me no good.
