Stine, with a view to installing the posts as soon as possible. The recent annexation of a new suburban section just east of Nineteenth street and south of the Reading "cut" has increased the importance of the bridge as an urban artery and the county authorities are anxious to have Harrisburg's latest citizens provided with all possible urban conveniences. While the county will pay for the installation of the standards, the city it is understood, will co-operate by furnishing the electric current. Mr. Stine said the commissioners expect within a few days to complete an arrangement to that effect with City Commissioner Harry F. Bowman, superintendent of public safety. The standards will be of the four-globe cluster type and one will be placed on each side of the two approaches.

KEPHART TIED ON NOMINATION. He and Clark Must Pull Straws to Determine Who Wins One Advantage. They Will Be Put on Farms as an Experiment and Results Noted. Five thousand sheep are to be placed on 500 Pennsylvania farms at a cost of fifty thousand dollars, according to a plan which has been worked out by Secretary of Agriculture Charles E. Patton, with a committee of Philadelphia bankers, wool growers and merchants and textile manufacturers. The plan is to encourage the growing of sheep, which has shown a startling decline, and the State authorities and businessmen will first move to have the dog license laws enforced and then offer to give farmers half of the wool raised and all of the lambs. The businessmen want more native wool and also figure out that the market will be helped as well as interest advanced in agriculture, about which so much has been said in speeches in the last year and a half. Mr. Patton says that the experiment will demonstrate to the farmers that the State can be a big wool producer and he plans to have ewes bought outside of the State and inspected by the State Sanitary Board, and then distributed to the farmers at reduced cost of distribution and at the same time make observation easy and shipment.
