

CARRANZA GIVEN 48 HOURS; FIRST BRIGADE IS DELAYED

If Captured Cavalrymen Are Not Released Within Next Two Days Action Will Be Taken by U. S.; Wilson Will Not Wait Until Later Than Thursday For Declaration of Intentions

HURRYING EFFORTS TO GET GUARD TO BORDER

War Department Must Have Militiamen to Back Up Regulars; First Step by President Will Be to Lay Whole Situation Before Congress in Joint Session; Specific Authority Needed

Washington, D. C., June 27.—There were clear indications to-day that if American cavalrymen captured by Mexican troops at Carranza were not released within 48 hours, action would be taken by the United States. The impression prevailed in official circles that President Wilson would not wait beyond Thursday at the latest and possibly not beyond to-morrow afternoon for a definite reply from the Carranza government to the note demanding the immediate release of the prisoners and a declaration of intentions.

Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City reported in an overnight message received early to-day that he had delivered the note to the Mexican foreign office yesterday morning. He did not indicate how it had been received or when a reply is expected.

While the diplomatic aspects of the crisis awaited Carranza's action, the War Department drove forward its efforts to hasten mobilization of the National Guard on the border. It is certain that no aggressive military operations can be undertaken until a substantial number of State troops is available to back up General Funston's regulars who unquestionably would lead any movement.

President Wilson's first step, should he decide to force the issue, probably would be to lay the whole situation before Congress in joint session. It is believed he so informed members of the foreign committees of both Houses in his conference with them Sunday night.

Specific authority under which the National Guard could be employed beyond the border and also authorization for calling out volunteers would be needed.

It is regarded as certain also that any resolution presented for action would include a reaffirmation of the position of the administration that it is being forced into military action for the defense of its own territory from outlaws, and has no purpose of territorial aggrandizement.

Mexican officials here have expressed the opinion that General Carranza would surrender the American prisoners, whatever reply he might make to the demand for formal diplomatic expression of his purposes.

Army in Good Shape
Every day's delay in what seems the inevitable break in relations with the Mexican government seems to be in better position for the swift action that may follow. This has influenced against pressing matters to an immediate issue. Had the border forces been sufficient to release the regulars

Requirements of War Department Relative to Descriptive Matter on Muster Rolls and Medical Examinations Hold Pennsylvania Guardsmen From Leaving For Border

WILL NOT ENTRAIN BEFORE TOMORROW

Disappointment of Men Is Keen; Second Brigade Expected to Go Thursday Followed by Fourth on Saturday; Cavalry and Artillery Organizations Scheduled to Entain Monday

Camp Brumbaugh, Mt. Gretna, Pa., June 27.—The departure of the First Brigade for the border, officially ordered for to-day, will in all probability be postponed until to-morrow morning or later.

Orders from Washington, demanding that a complete muster roll of the division be submitted to army headquarters is responsible for the expected delay. The orders require complete identification descriptions of every soldier, similar to that of the regular army. The taking of finger prints alone will be dispensed with.

Although the original orders to move to-night have not been recalled, hope of fulfilling them under the command of officers seen little hope of fulfilling them under the conditions which demand so detailed a statistical report on every soldier. The disappointment of both enlisted men and officers is keen.

Governor Brumbaugh motored to the camp immediately after the order had been received and engaged in a lengthy discussion Major-General Clement, commanding the division. At its conclusion, the Governor expressed himself as frankly dubious of the departure of the brigade until to-morrow.

With his secretary and members of the Major-General's staff, the Governor made an unofficial inspection of the encampment expressing himself as delighted with the progress shown, and the spirit of the men who have hastened to the mobilization in time of their nation's need. With the demand for muster rolls, United States army headquarters sent an official order for the immediate discharge of all the colored cooks. It will go into effect at once. Under army regulations, which now control what was the National Guard, white and colored soldiers may not be enlisted in the same regiment.

The First Brigade, already short on ration packs, the possibility of being without cooks until the recruiting officers in Philadelphia, acting under prompt messages from headquarters here, enlist and hasten white cooks to the camp.

The tentative schedule is that the Second Brigade, the next in seniority of its command to the First, may move on Thursday and be followed by the Third Brigade on Friday with the cavalry and artillery going out on Monday, but this may be changed.

Arrival of recruits kept the camps lively during the morning as men of regiments paraded to the station to welcome the parties. In the regimental camps medical examinations, vaccination and everlasting drills were the order of the day, the monotony being varied by practice by bands.

Colored Cooks Discharged
Orders were issued from headquarters to-day discharging all colored cooks and some vigorous scurrying about to get men in their places resulted. In the First Brigade, which is to go out within 24 hours the order caused considerable stir.

Even if the First Brigade is delayed in going away from here, it is the opinion that the Second Brigade will be able to start on Thursday, if a movement that day is approved by the Department of the East. The men of the Second have kept wires hot to get early orders to move.

The news that New Jersey regiments had been passing through Pennsylvania to-day on their way to the border was received with cheers for the lucky Jerseymen at several camps.

Major-General Dougherty in Camp
Major-General C. B. Dougherty, who commanded the National Guard for five years, arrived during the morning and made a visit of inspection of the camp after calling upon the Major-General Clement, commander of the division. General Dougherty commanded the Ninth regiment during the Spanish war.

Get Ammunition
Thirteen trains on the railroad sidings ready to carry the First Brigade and auxiliary organizations. Five days' rations and 200 rounds of ammunition were issued for each of the 3,200 men comprising the brigade last night.

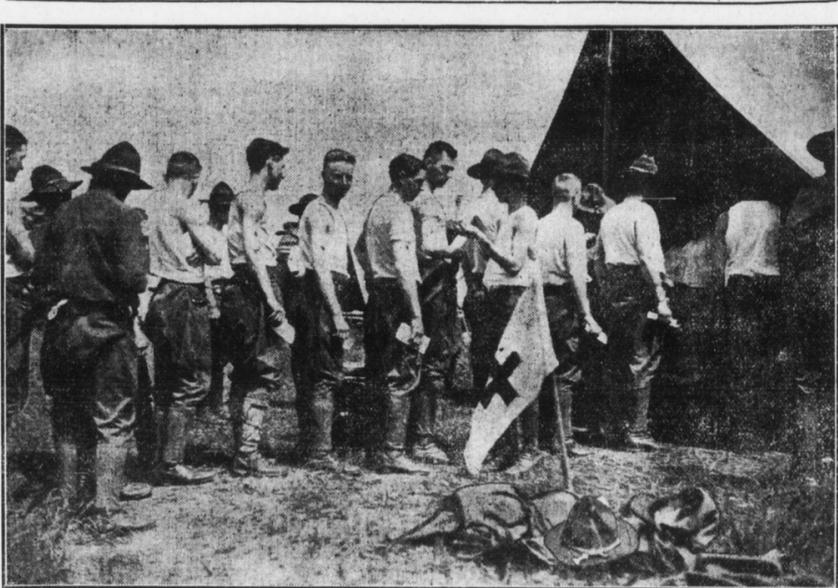

The two companies of engineers, which were the first to establish the mobilization camp here, were the first to strike tents when the order to move was issued. All their paraphernalia was loaded on freight cars last night. The members of the companies sleeping in dog tents with their feet protruding into the open. They expect to be the first to get away.

Brigadier-General G. Price, commander of the First Brigade, and his staff will go with his men. He probably will leave with the last detachment. The destination of the troops has not been announced.

Recruits Drilling
Many recruits from regimental headquarters throughout the State have arrived here in the last twelve hours and are being put through strenuous exercises and severe examinations. The recruits were in hopes

LONG THREATENED DRIVE ON GERMANS BY ALLIES STARTS

Latest Advices Lend Color to Prevalent Belief That Concerted Attack Is Under Way

RUSSIANS PUSHING AHEAD

Sweeping Toward Kolomea; Turks Claim to Be Holding Them; U-Boats Active

By Associated Press
To-day's dispatches give little indication of the general course of events within the past few hours along the Franco-Belgian front where the British artillery has been notably active for two or three days. The latest reports from both Berlin and London, however, lend color to the somewhat prevalent belief that the long threatened concerted attack by the entente allies on the various fronts is in preparation, if not in actual process of execution.

At Verdun the situation has not materially changed over night. Paris reports further progress for the French in regaining ground in the region of the Thiaumont work, north of the citadel. Rather spirited fighting also has been in progress in the region of Fleury, with no alterations in position.

Operations by Teutonic submarines are being continued in the Mediterranean where the British steamer Cardiff and the French steamer Fournel have been sunk.

Constantinople reports successes in Turkish Armenia where the Russians in some sectors north of the river Tchouk are said to be retreating toward the Black Sea coast after a defeat at the hands of the Turks.

In the east the Russians, while still held up in their advance on Kovel by the Germans, are continuing their advance against the Austrians in the south. Their flank now protected by the Carpathians, they have turned northward in their sweep through Bukovina and are now approaching Kolomea. They are already within ten miles of the town.

Strategy of the Allies
The allies' plan, as it is understood by military men, is not for any combined assault on all fronts at once. Instead they are perfectly content to allow events to take their course, and as weak links in the Teuton defense dis-
