HUGHES VICTORY LEADERS PREDICT

Democrats Must Get 140 Electoral Votes Outside of Solid South to Win

Washington, D. C., June 28.—With the chairman of the Republican National committee named by Charles E. Hughes, with the Progressive party completely eliminated, and with Hughes and Roosevelt in complete accord, Republican leaders in Washington predicted that there would be a landslide for the Republican party at the polls next November.

The Mexican situation, these leaders said, doubtless would be the chief issue of the campaign. They admitted that if the landslide did not materialize, New York would prove the pivotal State. Speculating upon the claims of the Democrats, the Republican leaders said that without New York it would be almost impossible for the Democratic party to be continued in power.

It was stated by leading Republicans that they did not underestimate the strength that comes to a party in control of the government. They were aware that the changing situation with Mexico might have an effect on the election, but asserted that the present indecision of the administration was causing resentment throughout the Nation.

Wilson Needs New York It is inconceivable that the Republicans might develop such strength that New York would not be necessary to them in order to win. On the other hand, the indications now are that President Wilson cannot be elected again unless he wins New York, the Empire State, with its plianx of 45 electoral votes. Here again, land-slides are not taken into account.

Politicians assert that, with Roosevelt and a large share of the Bull Moose supporting Hughes, Wilson will not have any such walk-away, as in 1912, even though he should be destined once more to win.

The Democratic campaign management is going to scatter its ammunition so far as the national campaign is concerned.

It will center on New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana and a small number of other States.

Building on the foundation of the solid South, the Democrats will try to capture enough electoral votes outside that domain to win.

The electoral vote of the States follows:

Table listing electoral votes for various states: Alabama 9, Arizona 3, California 13, Colorado 6, Connecticut 7, Delaware 3, Florida 14, Georgia 15, Idaho 4, Illinois 29, Indiana 15, Iowa 13, Kansas 10, Kentucky 12, Louisiana 10, Maine 4, Maryland 10, Massachusetts 11, Michigan 15, Minnesota 12, Mississippi 10, Missouri 12, Montana 4, Nebraska 5, Nevada 3, New Hampshire 4, New Jersey 14, New Mexico 3, New York 45, North Carolina 12, North Dakota 3, Ohio 24, Oklahoma 10, Oregon 5, Pennsylvania 38, Rhode Island 5, South Carolina 12, South Dakota 3, Tennessee 12, Texas 20, Utah 4, Vermont 4, Virginia 12, Washington 8, West Virginia 6, Wisconsin 13, Wyoming 7.

Total 531 Necessary to elect, 266. The Democratic Task In the States of the solid South, that is, in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, there are 126 electoral votes.

This means the Democrats, to elect Wilson again, must get 140 electoral votes outside the South.

It is admitted by the political wise men that they may win the election if they can carry New York. Here, for instance, is a group of electoral votes which would elect:

Table listing electoral votes for a group of states: Solid South 126, New York 45, New Jersey 14, Indiana 15, Missouri 12, Kentucky 12, Oklahoma 10, Maryland 10, California 13, Colorado 6.

Total 265 This gives the Democrats the benefit of the doubt in the border States of Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri and Oklahoma. Nearly all, if not all, are fairly doubtful.

If New York be eliminated from the Democratic list, then the prophets declare the Democratic chances are extremely slim.

On paper, one can figure out where they might make up for the deficiency. For instance, they might capture the twenty-four electoral votes of Ohio, get the rest of the States enumerated in the list just given, and several small States, having enough electoral votes with Ohio to overcome the loss of the Empire State.

It is a fair assumption, however, that if the Republicans sweep New York they will carry New Jersey whose fourteen votes in the electoral college are not to be despised.

Republicans believe they will carry New York "hands down." The word borne here from New York is that the leaders there are highly confident of winning.

If their calculations should prove to be well founded, Mr. Hughes should be in the White House afternoon of March 4.

REPAIR CARS ON DECREASE

A statement covering the number of freight cars on the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad east and west of Pittsburgh stored and awaiting repairs on June 24, 1916, shows that there were 7,604 bad-order cars on the lines east of Pittsburgh. The lines west, a total of 14,137 cars awaiting repairs as of that date; a decrease of 20,119 cars, or 58 per cent, as compared with those of April 1, 1915. There are less than 7,000 bad-order freight cars on the lines east of Pittsburgh, which represents only 4 1/2 per cent of the total freight car equipment, an unusually low figure, considering that all of the freight cars are in active service.

Operator's Sandwich

Cost Firm $89,698.76

Kansas City, Mo.—A jury in the Federal Court charged the Missouri District Telegraph Company $89,698.76 for one sandwich. That is what the company must pay Morris & Co., packers because an operator for the telegraph company was out eating a sandwich when a fire alarm came in from the packing plant, July 7, 1912.

The alarm did not reach the fire department immediately, the packing company charged, and because of the delay, the fire was disastrous. The packing company sued for $140,000. The jury awarded the verdict on a basis of the actual loss.
