STATE FAIR PROJECT FULLY EXPLAINED

W. J. STEWART

Originator of Keystone State Fair Idea of the fair idea, made a report and the financial statement of the company was submitted. J. William Bowman presided.

Among the out-of-town speakers were Lewis H. Myers, manager for James L. Stewart, Pittsburg; Col. James Bennett, Greensburg; E. H. Bair, Greensburg; Pierce Anderson, of Graham-Burnham and Company, Chicago, architects for the fair company; A. P. Sandles, Ohio fair expert; Israel H. Supplee, Bryn Mawr; J. C. F. Groh, Chambersburg, and a number of men prominent in financial affairs of Harrisburg. Of the Harrisburgers present were Edward Bailey, the well-known banker; David E. Tracy, president of the Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Company; W. B. McCaleb, superintendent of the Philadelphia division of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; J. C. Motter, of the Mechanics Trust Company. A. P. Sandles, who will be remembered as the man who brought the Ohio Corn Boys through Harrisburg on their trip to Washington and other cities and who was offered a place on the Federal Reserve Board, made a vigorous plea for the establishment of a State Fair in Pennsylvania.

"Some men prefer to invest in 'Blue Sky' far away, rather than give a helping hand to a home proposition that is reasonably sure to return a profit," said he.

"Pennsylvania is a great and splendid Commonwealth. It is a laggard in State fair matters. It is the only big State of the Union that does not support a great State fair or exposition."

"President McKinley in his Buffalo Exposition speech, made on the day he was shot, said, 'Fairs and expositions are the time-pieces which mark the progress of nations.'"

"The site selected for the Keystone State Fair is ideal. It is located on one of the world's greatest highways, the Pennsylvania Railway. It fronts on one of the most picturesque rivers of America. A town of the landscape artist will make these grounds a wonder picture. Every foot of real estate within a wide radius will have a marvelous rising value."

"A capital city is a natural and logical cross-roads of a State. A State fair will make it more so. It's the place where those who have something to sell and those who have something to buy meet and shake hands. "A State fair is a battle ground of breeds, speeds, and the products of soil and toil. Contrast and comparison are educational factors."

Fair and Speedway

"Thousands flock to county fairs. A vast population is within easy reach of the proposed Keystone State Fair. The world is crazy for speed and red-blooded entertainment. Many citizens of Pennsylvania annually attend the auto races of Indianapolis. Pennsylvania has the ability to make Indiana folks travel eastward."

"The Ohio State Fair has been a money-maker. The City of Columbus is taxed to its capacity to take care of the crowds. Special trains from all directions bring thousands to our Capital City. Every business is stimulated and hundreds of thousands of outside money is left in Columbus. Trainloads of exhibits from everywhere show to the public the progress of the world. Forty acres of machinery, several thousand pure bred animals, products of farm and field, brush and needle, contribute to make up an exposition that compels a tendency toward better things."

"Pennsylvania people go to Lexington and elsewhere to see horse racing. Home appreciation and home industry are proper things to encourage."

"Gibbon, the historian, has said that agriculture is the foundation of civilization. The enterprise that will encourage better agriculture and better livestock is worthy the help and attention of all good citizens."

"Fam and eggs, bread and butter, will always be fashionable. "In the past fifteen years the population of the United States increased 23 million. During this time the food supply production did not increase a pound or bushel. There is a red light warning in these facts. The high cost of living is no accident. Big men must give attention. Increase your production a command."

"In Erie, Pa., the Chamber of Commerce, this year, took hold of the proposition of building an exposition for Erie. It is now well under way. An exposition will be given this year. Its success is assured."

"A State Fair for Pennsylvania must be built on broad lines and by men who have the vision of the future. Plant the acorn and an oak will grow. Once established, it will grow and endure. It will become a great educational factor of your State. Those who blaze the way for the future will have won honor for themselves and builded better than they knew."

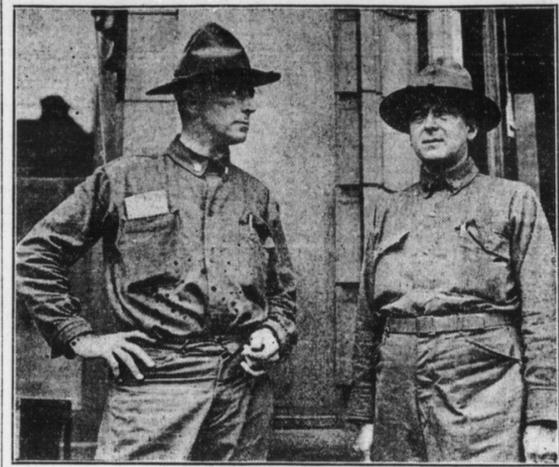

W. M. Stewart, speaking for the fair association, said:

"Realizing the strength of the banks and business men of Harrisburg, who should we allow this organization to fall into the hands of a lot of promoting leeches and allow them to take away our stockholders' money that which rightfully belongs to them. Consider the hardest part of this work has been done, and if the good citizens of Harrisburg and Dauphin county will put their shoulders to the wheel and help to support this proposition as they should and through advertising periodicals spread the news throughout the State of Pennsylvania, it will be but a question of a short time until you will see looming up before you on the Keystone State Fair site speedway and State fair buildings."

"The company has been fortunate in securing the services of such renowned architects as Graham, Burnham & Co., of Chicago, who, with a force of experienced designers, have designed and laid out plans for one of the greatest speedway and fair propositions of America."

"The contract for grading the entire site has been let and the work started over two months ago with an equipment of three steam shovels, three locomotives, thirty cars and about twenty teams, with a large force of men and at this time the work of grading the speedway is about two-thirds finished, while bids are being

MAJOR SHUMBERGER AND LT. COL. KEMPER HAVE FINE RECORDS

Reading from left to right, here are the pictures of Lieutenant-Colonel James B. Kemper, of the Eighth Regiment, Pennsylvania Infantry, and Major J. C. Shumberger, of the new quartermaster's department at Mount Gretna. The pictures were taken at the telegraph building on a brief visit to Harrisburg last Monday to attend the Rotary Club luncheon, both being members of that organization. "You can't get it away from the Rotary Club," said President Fry when he introduced them, referring to the fact that it was Shumberger's duty at Mount Gretna to turn the property of the Guard over to the national government and Kemper's duty as a regular army man to receive it. It was largely due to the work of these two, and especially the system evolved by Kemper as chief quartermaster officer, that Pennsylvania was the first

State in the eastern department to get all of its troops on the way to the border, where more than one-third of all the men now on duty are Pennsylvanians. Kemper went to Gretna as a regular army captain, but was appointed lieutenant-colonel of the Eighth, and Shumberger was first promoted to captain from the Governor's staff and then made major. The degree of major was conferred on him only a few minutes before this picture was made. Shumberger started the School of Commerce here and is an expert accountant. He is also prominent in Masonic circles. Kemper has turned the property of the Guard over to the national government and Kemper's duty as a regular army man to receive it. It was largely due to the work of these two, and especially the system evolved by Kemper as chief quartermaster officer, that Pennsylvania was the first taken for speedway, grandstands and garages. At the same time the architects are having the work of preparing plans for the buildings executed.

Prosperity for City

"This proposition, if carried out successfully (and there is no reason why it cannot be), will mean for Harrisburg great prosperity from the fact that it will bring hundreds of thousands of people to Harrisburg who will spend hundreds of thousands of dollars, of which the bankers, business men and the people generally will share in the good it will do the community, as has been fully demonstrated by other speedways and State fairs."

"It will be three years on the 10th of next November since the work of securing a site for the Keystone State Fair and Industrial Exposition was started, and now we are meeting with the business men of Harrisburg to present to them our proposition and lay before them the progress made and the financial condition of our company, which we take great pleasure in going."

"Since our organization we have had two or three propositions laid before our company from promoters. One of the propositions made was $750,000 upon the following terms and conditions, namely: if our company has sold $200,000 of the company's stock they would put up $500,000, and as our salesmen were selling stock they would put up in equal proportions to the amount sold, and for their services they would receive $75,000 in cash and a bonus of $250,000 in stock."

Only Endorsement Needed "I did not agree in this, although I understood some were in favor of it. If a few of the best representative people of Harrisburg will take the management of this proposition and place the Chamber of Commerce of Harrisburg in a position to notify the other Chambers of Commerce throughout the state that the proposition is founded upon honest business is now under careful, strict, conservative management, and the Motor Club of Harrisburg do likewise with the motor clubs throughout the state, and our banks placed in a position to answer inquiries from other banks throughout the state in a satisfactory way, it will not take our organization long to float its full capital."

Dr. Seibert's Letter "A letter was read from Dr. W. L. Seibert, of Steelton, as follows: "I thank you very sincerely for the kind invitation to attend a meeting to be held in the interest of the Keystone State Fair and Industrial Exposition July 11. "I am sorry to decline the invitation, as my vacation occurs next two weeks."

"However, I will add that it speaks well for this great local enterprise that the Chamber of Commerce takes up the matter in a business manner. "This enterprise means much more for Harrisburg and this locality around Harrisburg than the community comprehends."

"I fancy thousands of strangers will gather here and remain for days once the enterprise gets into operation and in a way it will help to put Harrisburg still more prominently on the map of the United States."

W. E. Skinner, general manager of the National Dairy Show Association, sent a letter telling what is being done in this line in New England. He said: "The twenty-five men who came out to invite us hold our convention in the East on their return journey pledged the purchase of price of 70 acres of land upon which the buildings were to be constructed for the purpose of holding an annual agricultural and industrial exposition, and in six weeks' time had $600,000 subscribed practically by the citizens of two communities to construct the equipment and finance the work, and there is now in course of erection a beautiful coliseum and adequate buildings for the housing of our show this year as a starter. By 1917 they will have one of the show places of the country—I mean by this one of the beautiful exhibition grounds and plants of the United States."

The scheme is wonderful and they are carrying it through, making of it one of the spots that tourists through New England will all visit; and it seems to me that the people of Pennsylvania, under the present agricultural conditions of our country, owe to the wealth-producing interests of the State that they have at some place within the boundaries of the State a fair grounds that would not only be an attraction within itself, but a useful builder of the spirit of enterprise and emulation.

"I would not presume to intrude my views as to the location for such a plant, but I do not hesitate to endorse the movement for an exhibition grounds somewhere in your great Commonwealth, to be built at once, for the holding of a regular annual fair and exposition for the benefit of the whole people of your State."

Mr. Anderson of Graham, Burnham & Co., displayed a large map of the fair site, showing the work already done and said that the possibilities are for the most beautiful fair and exposition in the United States.

To Create 2,000,000 H. P. Niagara Power Plant Without Marring Falls

Ottawa, July 12. — The development of 2,000,000 horsepower of electric energy below Niagara Falls without disturbing the Horseshoe or the American Falls, and the expenditure of $100,000,000 in the work, are proposed in a scheme that has been submitted to the Dominion Government for approval.

The promoters are an incorporated company, the Thomson-Porter Cataract Company, headed by J. Porter Thomson and Peter A. Porter, two Americans. They propose to place a dam in the rapids below the falls to raise the water 100 feet. Half the power developed would go to Ontario and the company would agree to sell the Canadian half of the dam to Canada at the initial cost, plus a percentage, and to make an agreement as to the charge to be made for power. The government will appoint a committee of engineers to look into the scheme.

WIFE MURDERER EXPECTED TO DIE

o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of John O. Hughes, of 347 South Thirteenth street, in the presence of three women. Christley walked into the kitchen of the Hughes home, where Mrs. Christley, Mrs. Hughes and her daughter, Vera Hughes, and Mrs. Harriet Geiger, Mrs. Hughes' mother, were sitting.

The Murder According to their story, he stepped toward his wife and as she retreated screaming, he fired twice from a 32-caliber revolver. As she sank to the floor, Mr. Hughes rushed into the house and Christley then shot himself.

The police were summoned and rushed Christley to the hospital. His wife died almost instantly and the body was turned over by Coroner Eckinger to Undertaker C. H. Mauk. Just as Christley shot himself, his 10-year-old daughter, Evelyn Christley, came into the kitchen and saw her father and mother lying on the floor in pools of blood. The motive for the tragedy, according to neighbors, was groundless jealousy. On Monday Christley was ordered by the court to pay his wife $70 a month for maintenance. She left him about April 1 according to neighbors, and had been staying with a brother.

Christley was delirious to-day at the hospital, and no statement could be obtained from him.

Christley was placed in a straight jacket this morning because of his mental condition. Last night District Attorney Stroup attempted to get a statement from him, when Christley asked to have the attorney sent to him. When Mr. Stroup called, however, Christley was in a semiconscious condition and delirious.

Mrs. Christley is survived by two daughters, Marie and Evelyn, and a son, Edward; her mother, Mrs. Mary Thomas, of Lemoyne; three sisters, Mrs. Agnes Deitrich, of Harrisburg; Mrs. Lillian Linebaugh and Mrs. Minnie Dunkelberger, both of New Cumberland, and three brothers, Richard Thomas, of Lemoyne; Richard Thomas, of New Bloomfield, and Charles Thomas, of the United States National Guard. Burial will be made in the Mt. Olivet Cemetery, New Cumberland. Final funeral arrangements have not been completed.

SCHOOL LOAN CARRIED

Special to the Telegraph New Cumberland, Pa., July 12.—Little interest seemed to be taken by the voters of New Cumberland in the special election on the question of a $15,000 loan for an addition and improvements to the high school building. A light vote was polled, but the proposition carried by a big majority. The vote stood: For, 38; against, 4.
