WHARTON HONOR MEN ARE NAMED

Elvin C. Frey First of Second Year Men; Kishpaugh Is Next

The long looked for honor list of the Harrisburg branch of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania was announced this morning for the first time by the university authorities, and includes the names of the ten students in each class who had the highest general average for the past year. Delay in the publication of these lists resulted from some of the professors being absent on their vacations.

W. P. Raine, of the university faculty, in making public the lists, said: "I heartily congratulate the students of both the second and first year classes on the unusually high standard of scholarship attained in the last year, following the good record of the year previous. The general average of the classes as a whole comes very close to those made by the students of the longer established day and evening classes in Philadelphia, and I hope for the return next Fall of all this year's students, and that the same high standard may be maintained."

First honors for the second year class were awarded to Elvin C. Frey, of 1106 Green street, Mr. Frey is assistant treasurer and a member of the board of directors of the Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Company. He is a graduate of the Millersville State Normal School, and of the public schools of Lancaster county. His average for the four courses last year was 93.

Second honors for the second year class go to T. J. S. Kishpaugh, 409 South 16th street, who was a member of the class of 1907 of the Technical High School. He is engaged in efficiency engineering work with the Elliott-Fisher Typewriter Company. His average for the year was 91.

Third honors were won by William F. Hoy, of 113 South street, a graduate of the Central High School class of 1911, and who is bookkeeper in the employ of the Bernard Schmidt Baking Company. His average was 90 for the year.

All the above three were on the honor list of the previous year also.

In the first year class first honors were awarded to Lee M. Hale, of Shippensburg. Mr. Hale is employed in the First National Bank of Shippensburg, and was graduated in 1910 from the Cumberland Valley State Normal School. His average for the year was 88. In taking the first honors, Mr. Hale's record is especially commendable for the reason that he has the greatest distance to travel back and forth from school of any of the students. He makes a journey of 41 miles each way from Shippensburg every evening to attend the classes and declares that he feels well repaid for this long journey every evening by the benefits derived from attending the Wharton School.

The second man in the first year class with an average for the year of 87 is Stanley G. Lemon, Middletown, Penn., bookkeeper for the Middletown Stove Works, and a graduate of Middletown High School.

The third man in the first year class, with an average of 86, is Gwin M. Harvey, 236 Muench street, a graduate of Tech in the class of 1915, and employed in the office of the Pipe Bending Works.

Other names on the honor roll include the following:

Fourth: Joseph E. Lehman, 701 Green street, civil engineer in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, graduated from the Lebanon High School in 1912, average 90.
Fifth: E. E. Baker, 1714 North 3rd street, head of the business department of the Central High School, a graduate of the Central in 1896 and of the Rochester Business Institute, average 89.

Sixth: J. Boyd Trostle, Lemoyne, Pa., employed by the Harrisburg Light and Power Company, a graduate of the Harrisburg School of Commerce, average 88.

Seventh: F. L. Albert Froehlich, 1236 Muench street, a graduate of the Harrisburg Business College, average 87.

Eighth: Richard McAllister, 272 Pennsylvania street, employed as clerk in the Pennsylvania Broad offices, Central High School 1911, average 87.

Ninth: Richard 66th and 14th streets, bookkeeper for the Paxton Flour and Feed Company, graduated from the School of Commerce 1914, average 87.

Tenth: Robert S. Meck, 1525 Green street, employed in the sales department of Roberts & Meck, stationers, graduated from Central High School in 1912, and attended the New York University School of Commerce, average 86.

Fourth Ralph Gingrich, Hummelstown clerk in the Harrisburg National Bank, Hummelstown High School 1911, average 85.

Fifth: Fred C. Burris, 2315 North 6th street, teacher of business subjects in Central High School, average 85.

Sixth: Ira L. Carroll, Steelton, Pa., Steelton High School 1909, bookkeeper for Detweiler Brothers, average 84.

Seventh: Forest L. Heberlig, 19 Evergreen street, employed in the Dauphin Depot, Company, graduated from Tech in 1914, average 84.

Eighth: B. Frank Morgel, Lebanon, Pa., accountant for the Public Service Commission, a graduate of the Washington Township High School and of the Lebanon Business College, average 84.

Ninth: Laurence A. Och, 626 Reley street, accountant for the Moorhead Knitting Company, average 83.

Tenth: Charles E. Fox, 211 Reley street, employed in the office of the Pipe Bending Works, average 82.

A noticeable fact about this list is the number of men who are from out of town and make a trip every night back and forth, and also the number appearing on the list who are employed by one firm, the Pipe Bending Works, under Mr. Frey, the first man in the second year class.

MORE APPEALS TO BE ENTERED SOON

Railroads Will Make Tests of the Full Crew Act Decisions by Public Service

More appeals from the decisions of the Public Service Commission in regard to questions raised under the full crew law are expected to be filed in the Superior court within a few days as attorneys have been busy looking up the decisions and data connected with the which were decided last month.

The railroads have all agreed to operate trains as required by the commission while appeals are pending and from what has been learned here no attempts to get out supercedens have been taken. The actions will be for court review of the decisions. The appeals filed thus far cover only the dining car cases, the big points being in the Pennsylvania railroad complaints, which were decided against the company. The railroad brotherhoods, which brought the actions, will not appeal in the cases they lost according to what has been learned here.

Wheat Pests Active. — Pennsylvania's winter wheat crop, which is now being reported, is suffering already from the Hessian fly and the rust. These are the two greatest enemies which the wheat has had to meet in the last half dozen years and while the damage has been cut down by adhering to scientific methods there is still a heavy annual loss. The rust seems to be worse in Washington and western counties and the Hessian fly has been spotted in Berks and York. On the whole the wheat crop has been big and oats is making a big improvement.

Pollution Work Expands. — Wardens of the State Department of Fisheries to-day undertook inspection of explosive plants along the West Branch of the Susquehanna and its tributaries and will also go into the Allegheny watershed to know why filters for industrial waters, deleterious to the fish, have not been installed as promised. The inspectors are working to-day on the Sinnahoning, Red Bank, Cowanesque, Pine, Driftwood and other creeks in the west central section. As rapidly as information regarding pollution is obtained, and especially in cases where previous notice had been given to install filters, the facts will be certified to the Attorney General's Department for prosecution. In the last month the names of eight companies have been certified as violators of the law forbidding pollution of streams. Probably a dozen more names will go to the Attorney General's office within the next forty-eight hours and be followed by others as fast as reports come in. The "reasonable time" in which to install filters has expired and there will now be action.

Plans Approved. — The State Department of Health has approved plans for the outfall of the storm water sewer in the Frankford creek district of Philadelphia. Time has been granted Hazleton in which to make comprehensive sewer plans.

Trustees Named. — The new board of trustees of the Bloomsburg State Normal School took office to-day. Dr. J. George Secht, secretary of the State Board of Education, attended the meeting. The new board is as follows: A. Z. Schoch, Bloomsburg; James C. Brown, Bloomsburg; M. G. Youngman, Danville; L. E. McGinness, Steelton; C. W. Miller, of Bloomsburg; Voris Auten, Mt. Carmel; Paul E. Wert, Bloomsburg; John M. Clark, Bloomsburg and Benjamin Apple, Sunbury.

Acting on Plans. — The Department of Labor and Industry approved seventy-nine plans for new theaters, etc., filed with it during July.

Reading Flies High. — The city of Reading has gone ahead and bought a site for its municipal hospital in spite of an adverse recommendation by the State Health authorities and popular objection. The State will require a sewage disposal plant before the hospital is established.

Examinations On. — The State Department of Labor and Industry is holding examinations for inspectors at the Capitol to-day. There were numerous applicants.

Six Cases Reported. — Six new cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the Department of Health last night.

Company to Fight. — The New-mans town electric company will fight complaints against it. The company says that its plant is modern, asking that much about it be dismissed.

MORE POTATOES GROWING IN STATE

Reports Received Here Indicate That Acreage Is Considerably Larger

Seven counties in the State report an increase in the acreage in potatoes this season, in returns to the State Department of Agriculture. Eleven other counties report the acreage up to the general average, but in the others there has been a decrease as low as 30 per cent in some instances. This has been brought about by the weather conditions during May and the early part of June.

The counties in which there has been an increase are Allegheny, Bedford, Carbon, Greene, Lancaster, Philadelphia and Schuylkill, while the counties showing the average acreage are Berks, Elk, Fayette, Forest, Pike, Somerset, Franklin, Lebanon, Lehigh, Montour and York.

York Metal Company Is on British Blacklist

York, Pa., Aug. 2. — Announcement of the name of the York Metal and Alloy Company appearing on a supplementary list of American firms blacklisted by the British Government came as a surprise to officials of the concern, which manufacturers an alloy for tool making and tungsten. While the company's business has grown remarkably since the European war began it has been confined to the domestic trade and the alleged blacklist does not disturb the manufacturers.

George Marlowe, secretary and treasurer of the company, in commenting on the action of the British government said:

"Our company has not been manufacturing munitions of war. Our business is all with companies with which we have dealt for the last 12 years. We furnish material for tool steel to the Bethlehem, Crucible, Colonial and some other big manufacturers. Maybe some of our product eventually finds its way into munitions manufacture, but if it does we do not know of it, and our connection with such manufacture is very indirect." Mr. Marlowe and his associate, Robert Emerson, are natives of England.
