

KIPONA PLANS ARE COMPLETED

aquatic events that will comprise the afternoon program is the largest that has ever been prepared; there are nearly 150 contestants for the canoe, swimming and specialty events.

Officials who will have charge of the big spectacle will be definitely selected to-night.

To Mark Courses The new red buoys which will mark the various courses were set out this afternoon. The flats which will mark the starts of the 100-yard, 50-yard and 25-yard distances will be placed tomorrow. The flats which will also serve to rope off the course will be located to-morrow or Sunday.

By to-morrow 200 little metal standards with the four Jap lantern equipment, provided gratuitously by the executive committee of the Navy to encourage canoeing, will be placed along the front steps of the Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart store float is being prepared to-day; over at the island the Jovian League float is practically complete.

Planning Floats Many of the business houses and others who are planning floats for the evening events are busily getting their displays in shape. Down along the "front steps" the Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart store float is being prepared to-day; over at the island the Jovian League float is practically complete.

Technical high school boys have been practicing for the last few days in their "war" canoe; the other three craft for the Central and Steelton high schools and the Harrisburg Academy are expected to-day.

"Mayor" Harry J. Berrier, who has planned a big float for the accommodation of forty or more of the photographers and clerks in the city and county offices, their girl chums and Mayor Ezra S. Meals, to-day obtained a ten-piece orchestra to furnish music that evening.

To Prepare Canoes The boat pavilion proprietors all announced to-day that they will cheerfully place canoes for the regatta which haven't the necessary places for the lantern standards.

The afternoon program Monday will begin at 1:30 o'clock with the 100-yard swim for boys under sixteen. The other events will be run off at 15-minute intervals so that by 5 o'clock the entire program will be run off.

Incidentally the course will be kept absolutely clear of all craft, with the outer side of the stretch roped off. The eastern side of the course will be the front steps of the city, which steps, incidentally, will form the great grandstand.

laughter. A comedy sketch, entitled "Don't Walk in Your Sleep," is full of laughs. Completing the bill are: New-hoop and Phelps, young couple in a singing and talking act; Fred and Adele Astaire, who present a singing and dancing act; and Jarroo, who does some clever slight-of-hand tricks.

In "The Sting of Victory," a photo-drama of Civil War Days, set amid Southern scenes, Henry B. Walthall will be seen at the Regent to-day only. He was a straight-thinking, clear-visioned Northern soldier, coming from a loyal Southern home.

His brother, an impassioned Southerner, stood by the tradition of his people. Both loved the same girl. Victorious in war, the Northerner comes to claim his bride, but instead of drinking the joys of love, he tastes the "sting of Victory." Henry B. Walthall, portrays this double role.

The eleventh chapter of "Gloria's Romance," featuring Billie Burke, will be on the same program. This week's episode is called "The Fugitive Witness." Gloria, still on the hunt for her fiancé's murderer, surprises her father by a sudden departure to be taken to Palm Beach, Fla., where she again meets the Indian who once threatened to make her his squaw. He is surprised and again requests her hand in marriage, quite in accordance with the white man's code. He is surprised and saddened by Gloria's refusal, and is about to turn away when he spies Dr. Royce. His face darkens with sudden hate, and Gloria, quick to see the sudden change, questions him. To her horror she learns from him that Dr. Royce, and not Frenau, was her rescuer.

To-morrow — Florence Turner in "Far From the Maddening Crowd," from Thomas Hardy's novel of the same name.

Frank Kennan, Chas. Ray and Louise Glau, three stars in the Ince Triologue at the Colonial Theatre to-day and to-morrow in a new five-part photoplay, entitled "Honor Thy Name." A story of a father's sacrifice to save his son from his dishonor. The startling climax to this drama shows a pair of horses, drawing a carriage with two occupants, dash madly over a precipice and fall a sheer hundred feet to the rocks below. Frank Kennan and Louise Glau are the occupants of the carriage, and four cameras were used to photograph the scene. On the same program will be shown a new funny Keystone comedy, entitled "Just in Time."

The Fall term of the Harrisburg Business College, day and night school, opens Sept. 4, 1916. Students under 18 years cannot enter until Sept. 29th. 323 Market St., Harrisburg, Pa.—adv.

There will be a street parade at noon and concerts in front of the theatre before the performance. The sale of seats opened to-day.

Al H. Wilson's quaint personality is said to be excellently fitted for the Irish character of Tom Carey. Wilson who is the soul of rollicking good humor in his new production, entitled "My Killarney Rose." The attraction is booked at the Orpheum next Tuesday, matinee and evening, for the benefit of the Knights of Columbus Building Fund.

"My Neighbor's Garden," a musical comedy "girl" act, appearing at the Majestic this week, provides a pleasing voice and singing entertainment that Harrisburg likes. There are picturesque stage settings, while the singing and comedy in the act is good. Miss Irene Law, one of the principals, possesses a pleasing voice and sings several selections in an entertaining fashion. Louis Winsch, in the leading role, is all that can be desired, while Billy Wilson, as the comedian, causes much
