

TO SET WHEELS MOVING UNDER HARDCRABBLE

Seitz Plans to Proceed to Take Over Properties; Won't Wait Appellants

MANY AGREED TO AWARD

Others Will Question Sums Allowed by Viewers; City's Victory Applauded

Acting on the presumption that the city's attitude in the "Hardcrabble" condemnation proceeding is legally correct, City Solicitor D. S. Seitz declared to-day that he will at once set in motion the machinery which will lead to the actual taking over of the property in question.

Whether or no appeal for the affected property owners will appeal to the higher courts from Additional Law Judge S. J. M. McCarrell's opinion on the technical phases of the proceeding has not been definitely determined by all the litigants although it is expected that some will carry the matter up.

The majority of them it is believed are content to accept the Dauphin court's view of the matter so far as the city's right to proceed as it has is concerned, although there will, of course, be some question raised as to the amount of the award allowed.

That the question of appeal from the viewers' award cannot materially affect the case except as to the sum that may be allowed by a jury, is the consensus of opinion in legal circles. Whether or not the litigants will care to expend the time and money to carry the case to the appellate courts on the question of technicality is a matter of conjecture.

Actual Razing in Spring Of course it has been generally understood that the actual razing of the buildings will not be attempted until next spring, and the rendering of a decision in the case Saturday may not materially change this plan, it is said. Nevertheless City Solicitor D. S. Seitz will go ahead with the arranging of details which will lead to the filing of the city's bonds.

More than half of the property owners of "Hardcrabble" according to Mr. Seitz have agreed to accept the sum allowed by the viewers and they breathed a sigh of relief Saturday when it was finally determined that they could dispose of their properties. Bonds will be filed in these cases and the city can proceed when it wishes.

"So far as we are concerned," said Mr. Seitz, "we consider that the city has won and we doubt very much if an appeal to the higher courts would make any difference. In fact I'm sure that the city will be sustained even if the case goes to the next steps on that presumption."

Man Is Found Murdered and Robbed in Field Chester, Pa., Sept. 25.—An unidentified white man was found murdered and robbed by the side of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit short line at Edgelyne yesterday. The man had two holes in his forehead, one in his jaw and a deep gash at the base of the brain. The wounds were made by a blunt instrument, according to Coroner Drews.

All of the man's pockets were turned inside out and part of his clothing removed, as if the murderers were searching for a money belt. The body was found near the Baldwin Locomotive Works by Frank Lovell, an Italian boy, and William Cope, watchman at the Philadelphia Rapid Transit bridge over Crum Creek. The victim apparently was a farmhand, about thirty-six years old, five feet, six inches tall and weighed about 170 pounds.

Additional Unions Balloting on Joining Proposed General N. Y. Ernest Bohm, secretary of the conference of labor leaders directing the movement, asserted that unions representing 179,500 workers already had voted to quit work. In some instances it appeared that the strike movement had been approved by the executive committees or executive councils of the governing boards of trade unions, but had not yet been passed upon by the local unions. In other cases the unions have empowered their officials to call for the strike. One of the large unions voted to quit work if the other trade unions did the same.

The crime is one of the most puzzling committed in South Philadelphia in many years. The police and detectives have been unable to find a single clue to the murderer or discover a motive for the shooting. A number of persons were in the vicinity when Righter was wounded, but no one has been found who saw the man with the revolver used to kill him.

Machine Takes 75-Foot Drop to Creek Bank; Occupant Escapes Serious Injury Carlisle, Pa., Sept. 25.—Ira Kuntzelman, postmaster at Bainbridge, Lancaster county, had an almost miraculous escape from death at Eppley's Rocks, along the Conodoguinet creek just west of Carlisle when he backed his automobile over the cliff and fell 75 feet, landing on a pile of rocks. Kuntzelman with W. A. Wetzel and J. C. Matthews, both of Carlisle, was on a fishing trip. They were preparing to return home and the Bainbridge man got into his car, a light touring machine, to turn it around. It started to run backwards down a bank and before he could get the brakes to hold it went backward over the cliff carrying him with it. The machine turned four complete revolutions and landed on a rock at the creek side with the engine still running. Kuntzelman was thrown out on the second turn and fell 40 feet. His companions expected to find him dead, but on going to the bottom found him in a crouching position on a pile of stones, badly shaken up and bruised but otherwise unharmed. He rallied sufficiently to shut off the machine in a few minutes.

Advocate Elimination of "Damn" From Prayer Book

Harsh and Has Bad Influence New York, Sept. 25.—Elimination of the word "damn" from the Episcopal prayer book and the substitution of the word "condemned" is recommended by the commission on revision of the prayer book in a report to be submitted to the triennial convention of the Episcopal Church at St. Louis next month. It is proposed to change the disapproved word in parts of the Scripture when it is quoted in the liturgical services. The commission argues that "condemned" is a more correct translation of the Greek word. The commissioners suggest that "damn" is both improper with the beauty of the service and that its use in church has a bad influence on the young.

The city ice cream supply shows a great improvement. The dealers have gotten after their milk supplies, and have displayed a keen desire to cooperate. The Mexican representatives were still insistent that their army is capable of maintaining peace in northern Mexico and that relations between the two countries would be greatly improved by the withdrawal of the American forces. The Americans insisted on further study of Mexico's internal affairs, adhering to their position that any agreement entered into must be so broad as to make reasonably certain the safety of American life and property throughout Mexico.

GAIN IN TRANSYLVANIA

In Attack on Hermannstadt Prisoners Are Taken; Rain Delays Operations

Latest reports regarding the important campaign in the Rumanian province of Dobridja indicate a lessening in the intensity of the struggle between the invading armies of the central powers and the Russians and Rumanians facing them. The current statement from Bucharest announces only artillery duels along the Danube. It declares, however, that the Rumanians have made some progress on their left flank, which rests on the seacoast.
