HUGHES INVADES STATE OF NEW JERSEY

as a presidential nominee in President Wilson's home State. Mr. Hughes spoke chiefly on the protective tariff. He found on reaching the fair grounds that seats in the grandstand which his platform faced had been sold, some of them three weeks in advance, for the trotting races.

Hughes spoke chiefly of the protective tariff. He assailed the administration vigorously for the Adamson law, extravagance and "broken pledges." He reiterated his declaration for enforcement of American rights. The crowd applauded frequently.

Flinn and Penrose Shake

Mr. Hughes yesterday hailed as "the next President of the United States" by Republicans in Western Pennsylvania, who in their enthusiastic welcome to their party's nominee gave emphatic evidence of the sincerity of the compact between the "Old Guard" and the Progressive leaderships to support the candidates of the Chicago convention.

Boles Penrose, Republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania, and William Flinn, who represented the Bull Moose element in the Progressive party's national committee from this State, had a heart-to-heart talk and buried the political hatchet at Pittsburgh before the arrival of the presidential candidate.

It was the first time for many years that the two leaders shook hands and talked over the Republican prospects in this State.

Ninety per cent. of the Progressive vote in Pennsylvania will be cast for Hughes," said Flinn.

Big Meeting in Pittsburgh

Allegheny county greeted Hughes with old-fashioned Republican enthusiasm. Demonstrations for the Republican presidential candidate in the Dever and Ohio valleys reached a climax last night at a monster mass meeting at Exposition Hall in Pittsburgh.

He attended six meetings, at which it was estimated he addressed more than forty thousand persons.

A delegation, headed by Senator Penrose, and which included Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong, Senator George E. Oliver, E. V. Babcock, William H. Coleman, Republican County Chairman William Flinn and other prominent Pittsburghers, met the candidate at Allegheny Ohio in the morning. Upon his arrival in Pittsburgh he was taken in an automobile through the industrial section of the county. He visited the great iron and steel and other manufacturing plants of McKeesport, Braddock, Wilmerding, Duquesne and Homestead.

The workmen turned out to greet him and earnestly listened to his discussion of the campaign issues. At the plant of the National Tube Company at McKeesport he addressed a throng of more than 8,000 men.

Penrose Speaks for State

The enthusiasm of a great crowd at McKeesport was manifested when Senator Penrose, who followed Governor Hughes, declared that Pennsylvania would record a majority of at least two hundred and fifty thousand for Hughes and Fairbanks.

"The people of this country have had all they want of Democratic administration," declared Senator Penrose, "following the enactment of the Underwood tariff bill the industries of the country were paralyzed. The present activity of these industries is due entirely to the tariff which has been restored to power. With the election of the national ticket the Republicans must elect a majority of both branches of Congress."

Among the members of the Hughes party who have been seen at the meeting of Senator Penrose with William Flinn.

Workers Greet the Candidate

During the afternoon Mr. Hughes motored seventy-five miles over dusty roads through the heart of the steel-making district addressing audiences of blue haired mill workers at every stop. The smoke and dust and grime of the journey were on him at its close. To these audiences the nominee spoke chiefly of the protective tariff.

At one big plant the 7,500 workers were given an hour off on full time to hear him. The managers of his tour estimated that it cost this company $2,000 in wages in Europe. The workers left their plant.

At Homestead the gates to the big mills of the Carnegie Steel Company were thrown wide open and the automobile drove through past blazing furnaces and thundering machinery. Mr. Hughes spoke briefly at the Carnegie Library in the borough and then passed on to Duquesne, where there was another trip through a Carnegie company mill and where another speech was made.

Here the procession crossed the Monongahela river and entered McKeesport, where, after a trip through the immense National Tube Works, a reception was held in front of the Elks' Club.

A short drive took the party over the hills into the Turtle Creek Valley, where the great electrical machinery manufacturing plants and where Mr. Hughes addressed a large gathering of workmen, principally employees of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. This was the last speech of the afternoon.

Exponent of the Good, Old-Fashioned Family Should Be More Than "Delighted"

Here is a photograph that should gladden the heart of Theodore Roosevelt, admirer of the real family.

It shows five generations of one Steelton family. The oldest woman in the photograph is Mrs. Rachel Watson, aged 84, and enjoying excellent health. Her son, John I. Watson, aged 62, is the oldest man; his daughter, Mrs. Rachel Breubaker, aged 40, and her son, Roy Breubaker, aged 21, and his infant son, but 5 months old, complete the group.

The three elder members of the family were born in Lancaster county and the two younger were born in Steelton.

B. Levitz, of Newville, is visiting his brother, Max Levitz.

TO GIVE SUPPER

The Ladies' Embroidery Club of Oberlin will hold a chicken and corn soup supper Saturday evening in the Oberlin fire company house.

After the long motor trip Mr. Hughes reviewed a big parade of Republicans.

They marched past his hotel, six and eight abreast, white umbrellas over their heads, torches lighted and red fire blazing. Nearly an hour was required for the parade to pass. With scant time for dinner, the nominee hurried away to the meeting. There he found an audience that packed the building and brimmed over into the street.

Inspired by the day's greetings, Mr. Hughes made the best effort of the campaign, in which he celebrated the Republican-Progressive reunion. Cheers shook the building when the candidate, his face wreathed in smiles, said:

"I have the privilege of coming before you as the spokesman, not only of an historic party, but a reunited party, freshly inspired for new service to the country."

"The breach of the past recent years has been healed, and our national aims at this time are conceived to be of such transcendent importance that we know no differences and are not allowing any former disagreements to impair our unity of effort."

"We are going straight to the mark of providing a sure basis for permanent prosperity in the United States. We are looking forward. I should take little pleasure in this candidacy if I did not think that the reunited Republican party as a great liberal party was the party of progress."

"We are true, sane, sanely progressive, looking forward to the solution of the important problems that this new century will place before us."

Mr. Hughes again assailed the administration for the Adamson law, the shipping bill and the Underwood tariff. He left at midnight for Trenton, N. J., where he will speak to-morrow morning, and Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where he will deliver an address to-morrow night. His voice still showed signs of the strain under which he has been laboring, but was measurably improved.

CAR SHORTAGE FELT BY MILLS

Fresh Orders for War Materials Are Being Placed With American Steel Plants

The first real pinch of car shortage cut down shipments at some Pittsburgh district steel works in the past week, and here and there more has been heard of labor shortage, says the Iron Age to-day.

Deliveries are not improving and all indications are that the tension will increase rather than relax.

Domestic buying of finished steel for delivery after January 1 is not heavy.

There are signs of fresh export buying for everyday rather than war purposes. It is now several months since the last considerable demand of this sort.

All the calculations of the large producers of steel look to the full operation of an increased capacity far into next year. One Eastern company has reserved a large amount of Lake Superior ore for 1917 and may take as much more, and another Pennsylvania steel interest has taken up several hundred thousand tons of high grade ore, at the 1817 price when determined.

Car business is growing, the railroads having become adjusted to the high price of steel. They could make good deliveries if they could get plates. France is about to place 3000 to 5000 freight cars here and for domestic use. Under inquiry, indications are that the railroads have only started on their equipment buying.

Exporters are still scouring the country for steel for shipment this year, but get little. Everything is under requisition, a large steel-casting company shipping 20,000 tons of castings a month to companies having contracts for shells or shell forgings. The difficulty of getting structural steel has caused an increase in concrete work and good sales of carbon bars for reinforcing.

Start Street Repairs.—A force of men commenced work to-day on repairs to Front street paving between Gibson and High streets. Everything is under requisition, a large steel-casting company shipping 20,000 tons of castings a month to companies having contracts for shells or shell forgings. The difficulty of getting structural steel has caused an increase in concrete work and good sales of carbon bars for reinforcing.

Give Band Concert.—The Steelton Band will give an open-air concert to-morrow evening at Second and Main streets.

To Hold Dances.—The Trio Club will open a series of dances in Frey's hall the evening of October 4.

ession here was expected by the leaders.

They hoped that any differences of opinion that might develop would be confined to committee rooms and that the convention business would be transacted expeditiously so that Charles E. Hughes might have the center of the stage when he appeared to-night.

Besides welcoming the presidential candidate the principal business of the gathering is to adopt a platform. In the form in which it was drawn for submission to the platform committee the most important planks recommended, a return of the primary system approved by Mr. Hughes when he was Governor under which candidates for State offices would be named at party conventions and contained a strong declaration favoring arbitration as a means of settling industrial disputes.

CONFIDENT WIFE SHOT IN HOTEL IS LOYAL

Graveur, also of New York in a hotel room. Mrs. Belzer killed Graveur, who had discarded her after a friendship of two years and also ended her own life.

There was an affectionate meeting when Le Duc reached the bedside of his wife where he remained for some time. Later he was escorted to detective headquarters for an interview with the captain of detectives.

Before reaching the hospital Le Duc told of his happy married life of fifteen years and his implicit trust in his wife. He repeated many times his belief in her faithfulness to him.

Le Duc said he had known Graveur for ten years, and always had regarded him as a square man. He had not seen him for seven or eight years and had never heard his wife speak of him. Mrs. Le Duc, he said, left Chicago, for New York about two weeks ago to visit her nephew and his wife. He had letters from her every day.

Registered Man and Wife. Mrs. Le Duc said she did not believe his wife had visited Atlantic City with Graveur. He thought she probably met him accidentally in New York and consented to take an automobile ride to this city.

The husband asked many questions about the shooting saying he had only a fragmentary knowledge of the affair gathered from newspapers. He asked how Graveur and his wife had registered at the hotel and when told as man and wife, his face grew grave.

"That was the work of Graveur and I am sure Lillian did not know it," he exclaimed. "I always regarded Joe as a square man and I cannot understand his actions."

Le Duc went on to say that his wife is in a delicate position which would probably reflect on her, but he still believed her innocent of any wrong doing.

Mrs. De Luc, the husband said, has been studying operatic singing for ten years. Before her marriage she was Lillian Kappes, of Cincinnati, where her mother now lives.

Forgives Wife

At the hospital Le Duc told his wife to cheer up; that he would forgive her and take her back to Chicago.

Mrs. Le Duc told the story of the shooting and events leading up to it to her husband in the presence of detectives. She said she came to Philadelphia by train and not by automobile, as reported, to see her nephew and his baby, recently born. She denied that she had traveled to various cities with Graveur and suggested that her identity had been confused with that of Mrs. Belzer.

The wounded woman said Graveur told her he had come to Philadelphia with Mrs. Belzer and then persuaded her to go back to New York. According to Mrs. Le Duc, Graveur called up Mrs. Le Duc in New York address by telephone and learned that she had come to Philadelphia to see her nephew. He was given the address and later he met her.

Went in Room for Bag

The same evening, Mrs. Le Duc said, they went to a theater, then had supper and a dance on the roof garden of the hotel was suggested. Mrs. Le Duc said she did not want to be encumbered with her hand bag and at Graveur's suggestion she left it in his room on the floor below Mrs. Le Duc further said she intended returning to New York that night and after the dance she went with Graveur to his room for the sole purpose of getting the hand bag. As they entered, Mrs. Le Duc said, Mrs. Belzer, who Graveur thought he had induced to return to New York jumped from a closet and began shooting.

Mr. Le Duc's story that she came to Philadelphia to visit relatives.

Mrs. McAndrew, sister of Mrs. Belzer, who came here to-day to claim the body of Mrs. Belzer, said Mrs. Le Duc's statement that Mrs. Belzer had come here with Graveur was not true. She also denied that her sister lived with Graveur.

Quality First

ONE YEAR AGO THE 3400 r.p.m. CHALMERS CAME INTO BEING; NOW 50,000,000 HAPPY MILES LIE BEHIND IT

Just one year ago the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers was born. September 30th is its Anniversary Day.

It was untried, unknown, looked a little strange because it was different, and nobody outside of four men knew what it could do.

These four men—the men who had dreamed the car—had little to say. "What will it do?" they were asked. "Get in and try," they replied.

And in three days' time every last Chalmers executive had experienced a thrill that was new behind the wheel.

They banged it around in city traffic, abused it on hills, ran it through broken fields, made it take hurdles they would never ask their own personal cars to take.

They were amazed and then they sat down and decided to build three times as many of these cars as they had ever built of any model in a single year before—$22,000,000 worth.

Then behold the situation. Six months later these 18,000 cars were all built. Then 10,000 more were ordered. And a few days ago we got word that 20,000 more are being built—48,000 of these 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

48,000 in all—a $56,000,000 business in a single model! So you see why we are proud to have a birthday party for the car.

Any car that has 50,000,000 happy miles of use behind it certainly has an interesting history and its birthday anniversary is an event. Remember this is only its first birthday. So successful has the car proven that the Chalmers Company is continuing to build it right through into next year. So you're safe in getting a car now that won't be obsolete in the spring.

Consider the price, $1090 Detroit. Come in today. Attend the birthday party.
