MOTORS THROUGH RAIN TO MAKE SPEECH

Points Driven Home by Hughes in Speeches

At Trenton: I object to the candidate of a reunited party under duress. I will not speak in a narrow, partisan way. The questions of the day do not present narrow, partisan issues. I am here to speak to those who desire to see the United States on a firm basis of prosperity at the close of the present war. I am not opposed to the principle of the eight-hour day, but I am opposed to calling a bill an eight-hour-day bill when it is not an eight-hour-day bill at all.

At Saratoga: I object with every fiber of my being to legislation under duress. I object to the surrender of the executive to force. That is the path of disaster. The administration acted with swiftness (on the Adamson bill) and it cannot now cry that a Republican candidate should have saved it from carrying out its fixed determination.

plant the present "temporary, unhealthy prosperity" due to demands for American-made goods because of the European conflict.

Second only in interest to the nominee's visit was the display of unity on the part of Republican and Progressive leaders. An example of this was given during the trip from the railway station to the exposition grounds, when David Baird, the South Jersey Republican leader, and former State Senator Everett Colby, once a Progressive candidate for Governor, rode in an automobile with their arms about each other's neck.

"Politicians" at the fair brought not only Mr. Hughes, Governor Fleisher and former Governors Franklin Murphy and E. C. Stokes, but also a great throng of other notables in State politics.

While the great throng gave him applause at many emphatic passages of his address, Mr. Hughes spoke as follows:

"Unless we are united nationally with a sense of devotion to our institutions, with an understanding of their spirit and a loyalty to our flag as representing the only country of our allegiance, there will be no lasting prosperity or progress in the United States."

After the War
"We must have an enduring basis of prosperity in the United States, not for the benefit of a group, not for the benefit of a party, but because it is essential to the interest of all our people irrespective of party; and, therefore, standing here as a Republican, I propose to speak to those fellow citizens, whether Democrats or Republicans, who desire to see the United States on a firm foundation in the spirit of the future that we come after the close of the European war."

"If you will consider the sources of our present temporary prosperity you will find that they exist in the abnormal conditions produced abroad by the European war. What will be the consequences when that war stops? Suppose it stopped to-day. You would find a decrease at once in the demand for American goods, because there would be an end to the supply on the other side millions of men who would be freed."

Temporary Prosperity
"You will have, in the first place, a stoppage of a demand for labor, and along with that an effort to introduce on a large scale foreign products into this country. Now, that, as I say, shows us that at the present time we have a very unhealthy condition."

"Is it possible that the people in America can be deceived about it? I tell you, my friends, you cannot rest American prosperity on a European war. That you must rest it on the firm foundation of national policies which are devised and applied for the proper protection of American industries."

"Why, it is less than two years ago when we did not have any prosperity to speak of. Less than two years ago, when we had factories running on part time, many of the factories closed, many plants unable to work, a period of depression; there was no forward movement; on the contrary, there was every year a decline in the number of the American people that we were on the road to very serious commercial disaster. We were saved from the most serious consequences because of the sudden uprising of this demand due to the war abroad. But we had conditions of unemployment. About 6,000,000 were out of work in New York city alone. In every city of the country there were conditions of a very serious character because men could not find work, because plants were not running full time or were closed altogether."

"Now, I propose we go ahead to make the United States efficient. I propose that American rights be maintained throughout the world. We are not looking for trouble. This country need arouse no trouble."

"It is said we have been kept out of war. I say, with respect to the most inexcusable blundering could get this country into war."

"We have made comparatively little progress in our government. We are competing with great nations, wonderfully disciplined, and with a sense of efficiency. The two watchwords of the future are cooperation and efficiency. We are learning to work together, to put down class antagonism."

"Whatever is done in the settlement of any matter, it is the moment never surrender the principle of reason or permit any group to rule by force in this country."

"I am not opposed to the principle of an eight-hour day at all. I am opposed to calling a bill an eight-hour-day bill when it is not an eight-hour-day bill at all."

"I am not opposed to increased wages that are justified by the facts, but I am opposed to any legislation in the absence of knowledge of the facts. I am opposed to any action in advance of knowledge of what is required. I am opposed to surrender to a show of force."

Three Thousand at Station
There was a crowd of nearly 3,000 persons at the station to greet Mr. Hughes and he had a rousing reception. He was rushed to the main grounds, Stokes, Murphy, Colby and Baird riding in the machine with him. Arriving at the grounds, the candidate and his wife were taken to the tent of Colonel Mahlon B. Ferguson, where a reception was held. Mr. Hughes shook hands with several thousand persons there and then went to the paddock to speak.

Practically all of the Republicans and Democrats nominated at Tuesday's primaries were on hand, as well as most of the defeated aspirants. Senator Walter E. Edge, the Republican nominee for Governor; Naval Officer H. Otto Wittmann, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate; United States Senator James B. Martin, named by the Democrats as candidate to succeed himself; and Republican State Chairman Newton A. K. Burbee were among the more prominent ones noticed.

SECOND GAME MAY BRING TIE

Phillies Must Win Today and Tomorrow to Hold Pennant Chances

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 29.—Brooklyn and Philadelphia to-day are close to a tie in one of the most exciting finishes seen in many years for the National League championship. Brooklyn has the advantage by a technical half game, but the Philadelphians are closer than that in percentage because they have played fewer games than the leaders.

The actual standing, carried out to six figures, gives Brooklyn a percentage of .608108 and Philadelphia .606897.

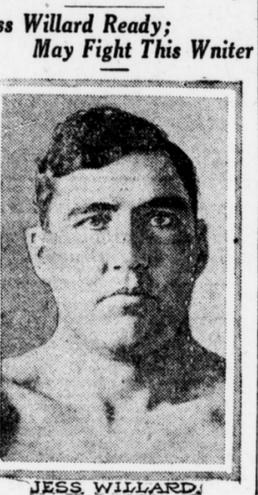

Brooklyn and Philadelphia play to-day and to-morrow and then Brooklyn will finish the season in a four-game series with the record-breaking New York club. Philadelphia will end the schedule by playing six games in four days with Boston, which still has an outside chance for the flag.

In the American League Boston to-day is two and one-half games in front of Chicago, having dropped back half a game yesterday by losing to New York, while Chicago and Detroit were idle.

Boston now has only to win three out of the five remaining games in order to keep out of reach of Chicago if the latter should take all four games from Cleveland. Boston's remaining games, two with New York and three with Philadelphia, are at home.

The standing of the three leaders to-day is: Boston, .591; Chicago, .573; Detroit, .562.

Jess Willard Ready; May Fight This Winter

Within a month, Jess Willard will have terminated his contract with the circus and will be ready to listen to challenges from heavyweights who think they can wrest the championship title from him, he announces.

It is expected that Jess Willard, Morris and Jack Dillon soon will be hurling debs in the direction of Willard and it is quite possible that one of these will be the fighting game, it is said, but he will be compelled to meet one or two of his challengers this winter if he is to keep his name before the public.

FIRST BIG GAME TOMORROW'S BILL

Lancaster High Plays at Island Park; Steelton Entertains Stevens Trade

Harrisburg football fans will be busy to-morrow. Central High opens at Island Park with Lancaster High eleven. The Tech and Harrisburg Academy elevens will be idle and announcement has been made that with the coaches from each institution the players will attend the Central game.

Steelton High is on the schedule for the opening of the season to-morrow afternoon with Stevens Trade School, of Lancaster. Coach Taggart has developed a strong team. He is working new things in football this year and results to date have been very satisfactory.

Coaches Smith and Harris arranged for a blackboard talk for all Central students to-day in the event of rain interfering with practice. Smith was not ready to announce his line-up. He may have his squad out for an hour to-morrow morning in order to get a line on the players, who are ready to tackle a strong team like Lancaster. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

Large Entry List For Lebanon Motorcycle Races

The following entries for the motorcycle races at Lebanon to-morrow were announced today as follows:

Twenty-five-mile state championship—Herbert Webb, Roanoke, Va.; Emery Herrold, Wheeling, W. Va.; Jack Mount, Wilmington, Del.; James Miller, Wilmington, Del.; Petrillo, West Pittston, Pa.; J. C. Johnson, Toledo, Ohio; William Lineweaver, Lebanon, Pa.; Jim Donnelly, R. W. Heagy and G. D. Potts, Harrisburg; G. Allen, Buffalo, N. Y. The riders are professionals and will represent six different makes of machines.

Charles Sollers, John Tritt and Dick Kilgore, Harrisburg; Ervin Kohl, Myerstown; Harry Bleistein, Lebanon; V. Zimmerman, Harrisburg.

H. H. Schriver will be referee.

Penn State Prepares For Game With Westminster

State College, Pa., Sept. 29.—In anticipation of a visit to Westminster College here to-morrow, Coach Harlow gave Penn State's eleven a hard workout this afternoon. The Westminster collegians are being coached by Herb Hughes, former State College tackle who played on the teams of 1907, '08, '09 and '10, and they are now familiar with State's style of play. Each first and second varsity team were sent to the field for long drills, completing the day's work with twenty-minute scrimmages against the strong freshman outfit. Captain Jeff "Hank" were carried the ball for long gains and each registered a touchdown.

KAISER WILHELM VISITS Elmira

Elmira, Sept. 29.—Kaiser Wilhelm, pitcher for the Colonels the past season, dropped into town for a brief stay and a handshake with his many friends in the old burg.

Wilhelm has been playing semi-pro baseball in Canada, Harrisburg and other cities around this locality, where professionals are employed to represent these towns against their deadly baseball rivals.

The principal thing that interests the Kaiser just at present is a camping trip which he has arranged with Business Manager Charles Gerber of the Elmira team.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm and Mr. and Mrs. Gerber have arranged to take a cottage on Lake Cayuta for a week or two and enjoy fishing, hunting and other forms of recreation.

STATE LEAGUER CHARGED

Saratoga, Pa., Sept. 29.—A warrant was issued yesterday by United States Commissioner P. E. Kilcullen for the arrest of Arthur Duchesnel, winning pitcher of the Saratoga team of the New York State League. He is charged with violating the Mann white slave act. An officer is looking for the ball player.

Duchesnel, a Canadian, is said to have sent money to a girl at Montreal, Canada, urging her to join him here. She was stopped at the border and sent home. Monroe Kline of Philadelphia, inspector in the Immigration Bureau, swore out the warrant for the pitcher's arrest.

MAINE REPUBLICAN BY 13,598

Augusta, Me., Sept. 29.—Official returns of the State election as tabulated here yesterday showed that Carl E. Fairbanks was elected Governor over Oakley C. Curtis, Democratic incumbent, by a majority of 13,598, in the largest vote ever cast in Maine. The figures were: Milliken, 81,317; Curtis, 67,719.

The general sentiment as to the total the Socialist party retained its place on the official ballot, while the Prohibitionists, with a total of 49,000, in the largest vote ever cast in the short of the party necessary to maintain their party standing.

BANKERS SEE HUGHES VICTOR

Chicago, Sept. 29.—That the European war will end next year and Charles E. Hughes will be the next President is the consensus of opinion among leading Wall Street bankers, John J. Mitchell, president of the Knickerbocker Trust and Savings Bank, said on his return from New York.

"Among well-informed New York bankers I found the view general that another year will see peace restored in Europe," said Mr. Mitchell. "In the same quarters I found that Hughes' election, in the light of recent indications, is considered a foregone conclusion. The general sentiment as to the future is cheerful."

As to the labor situation, banking interests in New York expect the so-called general strike there to be a fizzle, and they are now more convinced than ever that had President Wilson insisted on arbitration of the railroad wage controversy there would have been no strike that would have seriously interfered with the country's business."

Blaine Democrat For Bullet Wound

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 29.—While standing in front of the Hughes and Fairbanks booth at the Interstate fair yesterday afternoon, T. R. Voorhees, of Hopeville, was hit by a bullet which came from a rifle gallery. The injury was not serious, and after he knew he had happened Voorhees said: "I believe some Democrat fired that shot."

BIRD CHORUS SINGS AND WHISTLES AT TECH HIGH

While a big audience of members and guests of the Harrisburg Natural History Society listened, spell-bound in Technical high school auditorium, last evening a robin called cheerily to a titmouse and when the titmouse answered, a meadow-lark whistled himself into prominence through the woods. His opinion and a bob-white and whip-poor-will warbled madly as if to vote their dissent to the peace of the wren and the sparrows, and the whole Fair was made the occasion of a Republican reunion in which Progressives took an active part. The gathering proved that both branches of the party are solidly back of Hughes. All of the contestants in the recent primary were there, and those who lost gave the winners hearty assurance of support.

Roosevelt Leaves Today on Second Campaign Trip

New York, Sept. 29.—Theodore Roosevelt leaves this afternoon for Battle Creek, Mich., where he will deliver to-morrow his second speech of the present campaign. Republicans and Progressives have united in making arrangements for the speech, which is to be delivered in a tent.

After delivering his address Colonel Roosevelt will return to New York. He plans to start on his western trip in the largest town ever cast in the New York State League. He is charged with violating the Mann white slave act. An officer is looking for the ball player.

100 WILL CAMPAIGN FOR BIGGER C. OF C.

tained groups of their friends and explained in detail the plan which the directors of the Chamber have decided is the right one for accomplishing the purpose in view.

Following the explanation at each luncheon those present were given an opportunity to pledge their services for two hours' work each day on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. On Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock these men who wish to take this particular means to show their faith in Harrisburg and its future will gather at the Board of Trade building and will there receive final instructions as to their duties.

For the past two weeks or more a special committee has been at work going over an extensive prospect list. Men on this list have been kept informed by mail and by personal contact of the plan of the directors to enlarge the Chamber in numbers, in finances and in efficiency. These cards have been sorted and distributed. On Tuesday morning the workers will be divided into committees of three and each committee will be furnished a list of prospects, these having been carefully divided in districts so that time may be saved the committee-men. No effort will be made to induce any man to join to the Chamber until the nature of the committee will be rather in the nature of extending to the prospective member a definite opportunity to join the Chamber of Commerce. Already several men have called the Chamber of Commerce office stating that they had received a letter from President Bowman of the Chamber and that they desired to become members.

The Bureau Plan
In brief the plan under which the Chamber is being enlarged is the bureau or departmental plan. This is the type of organization which has proven so successful in commercial organization work in more than one hundred cities of the United States. Under this type of organization the Chamber is divided under various heads, such as civic, industrial, agricultural and the like. The member aligns himself with the department which interests him. This is particularly interesting. The actual work is done by special committees appointed for certain definite jobs and then discharged. In this way it has been found that real results can be accomplished. In addition to the bureau plan the local directors have determined to establish what will be known as the membership council. This will be a body made up of delegates chosen from all the trades and occupations represented in the Chamber. This body will be of an initiative and referendum character but will not actually carry out the suggestions its members make, that duty being given the proper department or bureau.

The election of five directors for the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce, from a list of ten candidates, will not take place at the annual meeting Monday. In a letter sent to members today, the following statement is made:

Important. Because of the time required to serve the dinner and deliver addresses at the annual meeting on Monday, October 2, a formal motion will be made to adjourn the meeting to a date about two weeks thereafter, the purpose of electing directors." The nominees are:

Arthur H. Armstrong, President A. H. Armstrong and Company, incorporated street car advertising; Arthur H. Bailey, proprietor Eureka Coal Wagon Works, manufacturer; William H. Bennethum, Sr., manager of Dives, Pomeroy and Stewart, department store; J. Allan Donaldson, member of the wholesale paper firm, Donaldson Paper Company; Francis J. Hall, sales agent, Central Iron and Steel Company; Paul Johnston, member of the wholesale paper firm, Johnston Paper Company; C. M. Kaltwasser, general manager, Harrisburg Light and Power Company; George S. Reinbold, division manager Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania; Frank S. Sites, postmaster; Joseph H. Wallaz, manager, The Mercantile Agency; R. G. Dunn and Company. Preparations for the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner, to be held Monday night at Masonic Temple are near completion. As soon as it is definitely known the exact time of the arrival of and departure of Charles M. Schwab, chairman, and Eugene G. Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Company; the committee will be able to plan for the entertainment of the distinguished guests. It is proposed to give them a trip over the city, if their stay in Harrisburg will permit.
