

ROOSEVELT CHARGES WILSON SACRIFICES HONOR OF NATION

Verbal Shots Fired

by T. R. at Wilson

The supporters of Mr. Wilson say that the American people should vote for him because he has kept us out of war. This is a claim that cannot be advanced either on behalf of Washington or of Lincoln.

Imagine George Washington after the Lexington fight selecting the occasion as an appropriate one for remarking that the American people might be "too proud to fight!" Imagine Lincoln saying this after the firing on Sumner!

In fifteen messages, letters and speeches during fourteen months, President Wilson took forty-one different positions about preparedness and the measures necessary to secure it; and each of these forty-one positions contradicted from one to six of the others.

If our people follow the President's policy, then as a people we shall lose all moral greatness in the present and most assuredly all material greatness in the future.

An ounce of performance outweighs a ton of promise. President Wilson has sought to keep his reputation from danger by uttering high-sounding words. Only his acts or failures to act count.

He (the President) was cowed by the big labor leaders exactly as he had already been cowed by Germany and by Mexico. He let the public say:

I appeal to my fellow-citizens that they shall elect Mr. Hughes and repudiate Mr. Wilson because only by so doing can they save America from that taint of gross selfishness and cowardice which we owe to Mr. Wilson.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 2.—President Wilson's administration was assailed by Theodore Roosevelt in an address which he made here Friday in behalf of the candidacy of Charles E. Hughes. He referred to President Wilson as a "man of words" and to the Republican Presidential candidate as a "man of deeds."

Speaking to thousands of people packed into a circus tent, Colonel Roosevelt charged that President Wilson "sacrificed the national honor of the United States because he feared to pay the price for upholding it." Roosevelt characterized President Wilson's European and Mexican policies as "cowardly" and as "following the lines of least resistance."

Has Invited Murder

"President Wilson, by his policy of tame submission to insult and injury from all who he feared, has invited the murder of our men, women and children by Mexican bandits on land, and German submarines on the sea," said the former President.

Colonel Roosevelt spoke at length on the Mexican situation because he criticized President Wilson for refusing to recognize Carranza Government. "Every argument against Huerta applied with tenfold force to the man who weighed against Carranza," he said.

Colonel Roosevelt declared that fear and hope of personal political profit caused President Wilson to pass up the opportunity of the Adamson eight-hour day bill.

Yielded to Dictation

"President Wilson yielded to the dictation of the heads of the brothel-keepers and made no effort to find out whether the demand was right or wrong," he added. "He took his orders from that one of the parties interested which he most feared."

Speakers Held the Crowd

Several speakers of national note delivered addresses before Mr. Roosevelt arrived. Former Senator Lafayette Young, of Iowa; United States Senator Charles E. Townsend, of Michigan; and Representative Patrick H. Kelley, of Michigan, were among the speakers. The mass meeting started several thousand persons were fed at a "prosperity" barbecue near the circus tent.

Mr. Roosevelt in his speech said: "At the outset I wish to say a word as to the protests now made by many people that we must not criticize the President. The newspapers and individuals making these protests are, for the most part, the very men who and which when I was President spread every species of calumny and slander about me. I then, as President, took the view that no one had a right to speak untruthfully of the President or of anyone else, but that even less than anyone else ought the President to escape from truthful criticism. I never complained of any attack on me unless it was false, and if it was false, and the man making it was important enough, I clearly tions contradicted from one to six of the others. In many of his speeches the speech took all the meaning out of the words used in another portion of that speech; and these latter words themselves had a veiled significance as regards yet other words.

"He argued for preparedness, and against preparedness. He stated that our army was ample; and that we did not have enough to patrol the Mexican border in time of peace. He said the world was on fire, and that sparks were liable to drop anywhere and cause us to burn into flame; and he also said that there was no immediate danger. He said that there was no sudden crisis; and then again that he did not know what a single day would bring forth. He said that we were on the verge of a mad storm; and then that there was no special or critical situation. He said the danger was constant and immediate; and also that we were in no special or any quarter. He said that there was no fear among us; and also that we were in daily danger of seeing the vital interest and honor of the country menaced and the honor of the United States stained with impunity. He said that we were in very critical danger of being involved in the great European struggle; and also that there was no need to discuss the merits of defense, or to get nervous or excited about it. In one and the same speech, he said that a sufficient number of men would volunteer, and that if they did not he would be ashamed of America; and he also said that he did not know of any law which laid upon them the duty of coming into the army, if it should be necessary to call for volunteers. He said that we needed 500,000 volunteers, and that if there was any legitimate criticism of this demand it was because it was too small; and as a result of this man I have objected to the plan, he promptly abandoned it.

"Compare Hughes and Wilson"

"I ask you to compare the character and courage of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Wilson by comparing their attitudes as regards the demands of the railway business, which culminated recently in the miscalled eight-hour legislation at Washington.

"Due Partly to Fear"

"The settlement was due partly to fear, and partly to political profit. What Mr. Wilson really did was to insist on legislation about the wage scale without any previous investigation of knowledge.

"Performance Outweighs Promise"

"An ounce of performance outweighs a ton of promise. In all these cases where a promise is made, and then a danger to be encountered, President Wilson has promptly retreated. He has then sought to cover his retreat by uttering high-sounding words. But in these cases his high-sounding words amount to absolutely nothing. Only his acts, or failures to act count.

"Did Harm to Nation"

"By his actions President Wilson did the last harm to the Nation. The vice of his procedure was four-fold. He delivered a deadly blow at the principle of industrial arbitration. He imposed the power of the National Executive to the public. He established the shameful and perilous precedent that the government of the United States could use force and legislation to extort from Congress, ratification and the threat of violence. He aided in securing a settlement in a premium on the overriding of justice by appeals to brute force.

"I appeal to my fellow citizens that they shall elect Mr. Hughes and repudiate Mr. Wilson because only by so doing can they save America from that taint of gross selfishness and cowardice which we owe to Mr. Wilson."

"Wilson an Anti-Carranza Witness"

"Moreover, Mr. Wilson is himself a witness against his present ally, I refer you to the letter of Mr. Wilson's own Secretary of State of June 4 last. That Carranza is a traitor, that he, 1915, invaded American territory at several different points, and engaged in burning and looting American property and killing American citizens. Exactly twenty months ago, on October 19, Mr. Wilson expressed 'pleasure' in informing Carranza that he recognized him! Since the recognition Carranza troops by his orders have treacherously attacked and murdered American soldiers on at least two occasions. If the acts above recited do not constitute 'intrigue and assassination by treachery and violence,' then the words have lost their meaning.

"Mr. Wilson took 'pleasure' in extending the hand of welcome to Carranza, whose own hand is laid with blood of murdered men and women of his own nation, and whose hands, unlike the hands of Huerta, were also red with the blood of murdered Americans, of murdered American civilians, and of murdered American soldiers wearing the American uniform.

Saddled With Debt

"It seems probable that the first fruits of Mr. Wilson's policy in Mexico will be that we shall find ourselves saddled with a debt of a billion and a half of dollars, while already many millions of our people have been killed and were killed in the war with Spain; and our policy has been ruinous to Mexico, dishonorable to ourselves, and infamous from the standpoint of humanity; while not the slightest progress toward a permanent settlement has been made.

"Too Proud to Fight"

"President Wilson says that he is 'interested in the fortunes of the pitiful women and children.' On the Lusitania there were drowned one hundred and three babies under two years of age; and of them being two years under one year of age. How did Mr. Wilson's 'interest' in these pitiful women and children show itself? It showed itself by the statement just made, that he was 'too proud to fight.' It showed itself in his statement a little over two weeks later to the effect that it was inexpedient then to arouse the spirit of patriotism in our people these acts with these words of his.

"Never in our history has there been such ignoble contrast between the words and the deeds of a Chief Executive."

"As on almost every question President Wilson has occupied at least two diametrically opposite positions, we can usually find in some of his words the line of the position we ought to have taken; but almost without exception, these fine words have had the meaning veiled out of them either by the words, and usually there have been no deeds whatever.

Forty-one Positions

"President Wilson took forty-one different positions about preparedness and the measures necessary to secure it; and each of these forty-one positions contradicted from one to six of the others.

HUGHES CERTAIN OF VICTORY AFTER TOUR

Roosevelt and ex-President Taft will be present, and then will go to some resort within a few hours of the third campaign trip on October 3.

During the last week Mr. Hughes has campaigned in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York in order to win the support of the voters of those States. He has been counted upon as safely Republican. They believe also that Mr. Hughes made a strong impression on the voters which would be difficult for the Democrats to overcome. Prospects for New Jersey are looked upon as hopeful from the Republican standpoint, especially because of the success of Senator Martine in defeating the President's candidate, Mr. Westcott, for the nomination for Senator in the primaries.

In New Jersey the Republicans are claiming that the addresses by Mr. Hughes have assured him the solid Republican vote in districts outside of New York City. Mr. Hughes and large crowds everywhere up-State. The Republican leaders, it is understood, are planning to have Mr. Hughes devote much time to New York before the close of the campaign. The impression gained by the tour indicated that in all of the States he had the greater majority of the Progressive would return to the Republican party.

Says One Thing Does Another

Before a monster audience at Buffalo, N. Y., Mr. Hughes last night accused the Democratic administration of having seriously hampered the development of American business and industry, and of having retarded the desire of seeing America's commerce extended everywhere.

The charges were made in direct answer to President Wilson's speech of September 11, in which he had attacked the Democratic administration as having retarded the growth of America's foreign commerce by omissions and commissions. Mr. Hughes added that he did not speak of it in disparagement of the Democratic administration. "As a verbal administration," he said, amid laughter, "undoubtedly the present administration has been most successful."

The nominee cited the action of the administration shortly after its inception in discouraging American bankers from participating in the six-power loan to China, and in its favor to protect American lives and property in Mexico, as instances where its spoken words were belied by its actions. In cases where a promise is made, and then a danger to be encountered, President Wilson has promptly retreated. He has then sought to cover his retreat by uttering high-sounding words. But in these cases his high-sounding words amount to absolutely nothing. Only his acts, or failures to act count.

BISBEE COPPER MINING AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY

Bisbee, Arizona, the World's Dividend Record Copper District

Of all the world's great copper camps, Bisbee holds the record for paying the most dividends per pound of copper produced, and the most dividends per ton of ore mined and smelted. Its mines have yielded more copper per ton of ore than any other great copper camp in the world. Bisbee, Arizona, compares with the Michigan and Butte, Montana, districts as follows:

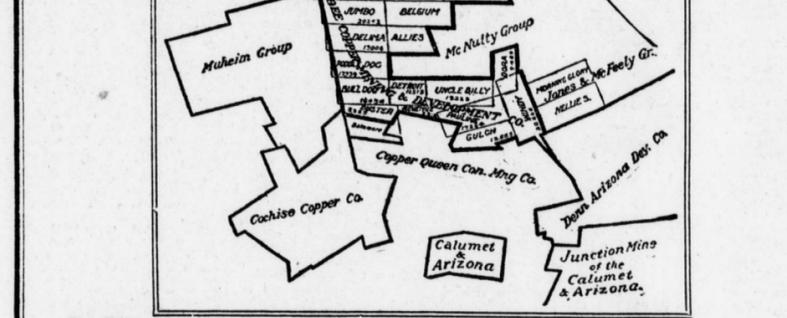

Dividends paid	BISBEE	MICHIGAN	BUTTE
Per pound of copper produced	$.05 1/8	$.03 3/8	$.03 1/8
Per ton of ore mined	$6.25	$1.00	$2.50
Copper recovered per ton of ore	120 lbs.	25 lbs.	75 lbs.

Bisbee has produced 2,161,200,000 pounds of copper—more than one million tons of the metal—since July, 1880. Its four leading companies have paid cash dividends of $110,343,254 to September 30, 1916, or a return of 935% on the entire combined capital invested. In addition to cash dividends paid to date, the present market value of the holdings and equipment (bought and paid for out of profits) exceeds 1,400% on the par value of the total capital now invested.

The Copper Queen, the leading mine of the Bisbee District, has paid over 3,800% in dividends on its capitalization of $2,000,000. Its cash dividends to date are $77,257,500. Around it has grown up Phelps-Dodge & Co., one of the six copper companies in the world enjoying a market value of over $100,000,000 for their securities. The Copper Queen comprises the bulk of the tangible assets of Phelps-Dodge. It has been for over thirty years one of the four "show" mines of the copper world—Rio Tinto, Calumet & Helca, and Anaconda being the other three.

Other well-known Bisbee companies are the Calumet & Arizona, and the Superior & Pittsburgh (merged in 1915), and the Shattuck-Arizona. In the last named, the late James J. Hill and his associates have extensive holdings. In the first two, the control is held by a syndicate including the Corey-Tener-Congdon-Hoatson-Briggs groups of U. S. Steel and Amalgamated Copper circles. These younger companies have paid $33,055,854 net cash dividends in a few years.

Bisbee ore is of direct-smelting quality. This simplifies the copper-producing business as practiced at Bisbee. The ore, once struck, is immediately ready to ship to any one of six nearby custom smelting establishments at Douglas, Globe, El Paso, and Cananea. No expensive concentrating plant is required to grade the ore. Neither does it require expensive mine equipment, such as is necessary to handle lower-grade ores economically in other camps.

Paralleling for over 4,000 feet the famous Copper Queen Mines (Phelps, Dodge & Co.)

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

The Bisbee Copper Mining & Development Company is incorporated in Arizona, with a capitalization of 1,000,000 shares, par $1.00 full paid and non-assessable; unissued, 400,000 shares; in treasury, 600,000 shares.

The company owns in fee, twelve patented claims, and an undivided, un-mortgaged interest, free of all encumbrances, in seven additional claims, a total acreage of 273 1/2 acres.

The holdings immediately adjoin on the north the Phelps-Dodge mines of Phelps, Dodge & Company. There is a common boundary 4,000 feet long between the Copper Queen on the south, and the Bisbee Copper Mining & Development Company's holdings on the north. The Sacramento shaft, the main hoisting shaft of the Copper Queen Company is located about 3,500 feet from the Bisbee Copper Mining & Development Company's property. The Junction shaft, which is the largest hoisting and working shaft of the Calumet & Arizona Mining Company, is about the same distance away.

SURFACE SHOWINGS

There are several outcrops on the property, where the surface shows the ore, especially on the Windy and Gulch claims. Assays from these claims, show values of 1.20 to 2.90 per cent. copper, which is a phenomenal showing for surface outcrops in the Bisbee Mining District. In various places on the Pauline, Windy, Gulch and Dora claims, the surface rock is heavily copper-stained, showing copper in the cuprite crystal form. These claims also show chalcocopyrite in various places.

LIMITED TREASURY STOCK OFFERING

We offer the following block of stock subject to prior sale, and with the right to close subscription books without notice:

100,000 SHARES AT 75c PER SHARE NET

We believe the possibilities of the Bisbee Copper Mining & Development Company's grounds are exceeded by no Copper proposition now before the public. There has never been serious development work undertaken in the Bisbee District, by mining companies, that did not open a bonanza.

A valuation of $750,000 for the entire capitalization compares with 2 to 20 times this sum for a dozen enterprises now traded in, not one of which enjoys better location, better possibilities, nor better showing to date, than does the Bisbee Copper Mining & Development Company.

APPLICATIONS TO LIST THE STOCK ON THE BOSTON AND NEW YORK CURBS ARE PENDING.

COPIES OF "BISBEE—PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE," FULLY DESCRIBING THE WONDERFUL HISTORY OF THE HIGH COPPER CAMP, AS WELL AS THE BISBEE COPPER MINING & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, WILL BE FORWARDED, FREE UPON REQUEST. ASK FOR BOOKLET R 6.

M'CORMICK IS OPTIMISTIC

Democratic Chairman Declares Hughes Has "Straddled the Issues"

New York, Oct. 2.—Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, summed up the progress of the Presidential campaign to date. Reports he has received from all parts of the country have convinced him, he said, that not only would President Wilson be re-elected, but that there would be a Democratic Congress. Two things, he said, have stood out conspicuously in the campaign thus far, "the absolute failure of the Hughes candidacy and the certainty that Woodrow Wilson will be re-elected President." Mr. McCormick added:

"The recent speechmaking tours of Mr. Hughes have shown him in his true light. His addresses have been one continual tirade of fault finding; they have been evasive; he has advanced not a single constructive idea, but has straddled on every question of importance before the people. Mr. Hughes has tried hard to find an issue in this campaign but has failed dismally."
