Kaltwasser Is Host at Dinner to Light Co. Wiring Salesmen

Departmental heads and the entire sales force of the Harrisburg Light and Power company were guests of C. M. Kaltwasser, general manager at a luncheon last evening at the Harrisburg Club when the record that has just been established in the recent house wiring campaign was celebrated. The only other guest in addition to the local men was H. N. McConnell, commercial manager of the United Gas and Electric Corporation of New York. He gave an especially interesting talk in which he commended the local sales force for its activity and told the salesmen how they, in their own way, were fitting into the big procession which is marching along for bigger, better Harrisburg. The man who says he can't do a thing, doesn't!" was the cryptic way in which Mr. McConnell summed up the wiring situation. In thanking the men for their excellent work in the house wiring campaign Mr. Kaltwasser pointed out that since the company's crusade was started early last Spring just 1905 homes have been wired with electricity, thus putting Harrisburg among the record-breakers for cities of its size in the country. Since September 1 alone 705 houses have been added to the list. "And," concluded Mr. Kaltwasser, "we're going to the three thousand mark."

Berlin, Oct. 12 (by wireless).—In the Reichstag to-day Major Ernst Bassermann, leader of the National Liberals, read a written report saying that the budget committee was unable to reach a decision on the submarine question, but had voted, 24 to 4, against a decision of the subject in open session.

Flotilla Commanders Do Not Think Kingston Was Sunk

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—Rear Admiral Gleaves, commanding the Atlantic destroyer flotilla, reported today his personal belief that no steamer Kingston or Kingstonslap was sunk by the German submarine during its operations off Nantucket lights. After several days of search the destroyer force has found no evidence that a ship of that name was in the vicinity, and if Admiral Gleaves' theory is correct, only five ships were sunk. Admiral Gleaves' report follows: "Destroyers continued the search until midnight Tuesday from Montauk Point to the Nantucket lights. It is my personal belief that all survivors have been accounted for and that there was no steamer Kingston or Kingstonslap, the name Knudsen having been understood by all to be Kingston. Destroyers have returned and search discontinued."

Confer on Admission of Belligerent Warships

The Hague, Oct. 12.—American Minister Henry Van Dyke conferred to-day with Dr. Louden, the minister of foreign affairs, on Holland's standpoint regarding the admission of belligerent warships, which is clearly defined by Holland's neutrality proclamation of August, 1914. To the Associated Press correspondent's question as to whether immediate diplomatic co-operation between the United States and Holland, as urged by some of the Dutch newspapers, was being considered, the American minister confined himself to the guarded answer: "I should be very glad if the United States and the Netherlands could find some way of co-operation in the settlement of the submarine question as relating to the destruction of merchant ships."

Soldiers Storm Police Barracks, but Fail to Rescue Five Companions

Calgary, Alberta, Oct. 12.—A crowd of soldiers made a raid upon the mounted police barracks here last night with the announced intention of rescuing five men, members of a local battalion, who had been fined for violation of the liquor act, and who, in default of payment, had been locked up. The rescue was not effected and at the earnest representations of the officers the mob finally dispersed and went back to camp. One soldier who tried to force his way into the guardroom was shot through the right shoulder by a mounted policeman. He will recover. Another mounted policeman, who was believed to have fired the shot, was chased through the streets, but escaped. There were only a few mounted policemen at the barracks and a section of the mob smashed all the windows in the building and gained entrance. A quantity of furniture, clothing and equipment, thrown out of the building, was heaped into a pile in the street and burned.

PONDERING OVER RAID LEGALITY

May Acknowledge Activities of U-53 Legal; Liners Sailing, Scare Abated

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—Government officials to-day were pondering the question of whether the United States shall acknowledge the raid of the German war submarine U-53 on allied shipping off Nantucket last Sunday as legal. The problem was considered of great importance, not only in its relation to that particular raid, but because of the probability that it will establish a precedent affecting possible future submarine forays of similar nature. Much forethought was being given to potential developments such as that German undersea boats might be able to extend their operations to such an extent as to effect practically a blockade of American ports or that the allied powers might decide to press harder their claims that entry of American ports be denied all under-water craft of belligerents. Resting on determination of this nation's attitude toward the work of the U-53 is the matter of soliciting indemnity for American cargoes lost with the sunken ships. Only if the ships were sunk illegally may claims be entered.

Knight Gives Account of U-Boat Raid to Officers

The report was written by Admiral Knight's aide, who took statements from the commanders of the sunken vessels.
