TRY TO THROW LABOR TO WILSON

To-day were amazed at the audacity of the scheme, by which Gompers hopes to throw the whole labor vote of the United States to the President. Never before in the history of the United States has there been an effort made openly to deliver the vote or organized labor to one party. Leading labor unionists for years have fought against the mixing of labor affairs in partisan politics, declaring that the downfall of the labor cause is ever accomplished it would be such tactics that would do it. There is much comment on the fact that President Gompers was not invited to the dinner by Sherman attempting to deliver the trade unionists to President Wilson.

Move to Indorse Wilson Quashed by Phila. Union

Philadelphia, Oct. 23.—After a secret meeting which at times became so tumultuous that it threatened to break up in a free-for-all fight, the doors swung to and fro to the push of men either condemning or endorsing President Wilson, with Edward A. Keenan, president of the union, taking the floor every few minutes to condemn the motion picture of the day, a resolution supporting the candidate. President Wilson was declared out of order and tabled indefinitely at the regular meeting of the Central Labor Union yesterday.

Don't Expect to Enter War, President Says

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 23.—President Wilson addressed a delegation of farmers, architects and engineers at Shadow Lawn Saturday. He declared the farmers of the country had been neglected under Republican administrations. Speaking of the tariff, he attacked the Republican party as the party of special interests. "I am not expecting this nation to get into war, said the President. 'partly because I am not expecting these gentlemen who are criticizing me to get in a position to make a mess of it.'"

Trainmen Will Refuse to Be Political Pawns

New York, Oct. 23.—Members of the various railroad brotherhoods in many States are resenting the efforts of their national officers to deliver their votes to President Wilson because of his support of the Adamson law. They feel that their officers are attempting to make them mere pawns on the political checkerboard and they refuse to be delivered.

That was the statement made by Arthur D. Burbank, chairman of the legislative board of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in Illinois. Mr. Burbank, whose duties require him to visit various lodges of his organization, declared there was a decided trend toward Hughes among railroad men and that it was stronger, as the men have opportunity to study and discuss the so-called eight-hour law. The sentiment in favor of Wilson is disappearing, said Mr. Burbank, and the evident attempt of the Democratic party to influence the membership is reacting. The railroad men as a class are pretty independent in politics and they are not going to tell them how they should vote. The men who have always been Democrats are shouting a little louder than usual in this campaign, but the men who have been Republicans have not changed and are going to vote for Hughes.

A recent statement issued by the president of the Brotherhoods to the effect that men who do not support Wilson are to be put in a class with the men who would stand by the railroads in a strike, has caused a tremendous revulsion of feeling and made thousands who were wavering, come out openly for Hughes.

Chicago Labor Revolts; Vote to Oppose Wilson

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23.—Chicago labor forces are split wide open over the presidential campaign.

The threatened revolt against Gompers and his aids trying to deliver the solid labor vote to President Wilson, which has been smoldering for some days, broke out publicly last night when the Chicago Building Trades Council, representing 165,000 union men in Chicago, passed strong resolutions calling on union men to work and vote against the re-election of Mr. Wilson. Following on the heels of the Building Trades Council's action John A. Metz, president of the Carpenters' Council of Cook county, representing the organized carpenters of the city, and John Williams, former president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, came to-day over their signatures de-

ROBERT EDESON RETURNS TO STAGE IN "HIS BROTHER'S KEEPER"

At a recent lull in the rehearsals of "His Brother's Keeper," which comes to the Orpheum, Wednesday, matinee and night, Mr. Edeson was asked why he really wants to give his best to the stage. He said: "No actor who has the power derived by the appreciative response of an audience to the lost absolutely in working before the camera. This feeling is therefore, an actor playing before the camera too long loses much of his power. I am looking forward to the greatest pleasure to appear before a real live audience as my real self and not as the shadowy semblance of my reproduced self."

manding fair play and a square deal for Mr. Hughes.

Eight-Hour Law Vague to Union, Chief Asserts

New York, Oct. 23.—Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and one of the four men who were most active in threatening a nation-wide tie-up of railroads just before the passage of the Adamson law, makes the statement in a circular to its officers and members that he is "not in position to give any definite information about the Adamson act, 'because we do not know yet just what the law means.' The circular is dated Cleveland, and was recently issued. It is signed by Mr. Stone and by Assistant Grand Chiefs Cade, Wills, Burgess, Kennedy, Corrigan, Griffing and Montgomery. "We are receiving a number of letters requesting definite information regarding the application of the Adamson eight-hour law," says the circular, "but we are not in a position to give any definite information on this subject, because we do not know yet just what the law means."

Wilson Kissed Blood Red Hand of Carranza, T. R. Says in Bitter Speech

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 23.—Ex-President Roosevelt, in a speech here Saturday night, attacked President Wilson for having "kissed the hand of Carranza covered with the blood of Americans." He added that Mr. Wilson feared Germany and Japan and broke his election promises.

Influenced by Downright Fear

"What President Wilson's motives are it is hard to guess. As reported in the press, not a few of Mr. Wilson's own supporters take the ground that he acts in this manner because he is influenced by downright fear lest Germany and Japan stop us when we try to exact atonement for the murder of American citizens and the destruction of American property."

Hands Red With Blood

"Immediately after the treacherous murder of our troops at Carrizal Mr. Wilson became frightened bowed in abject submission to Carranza, kissed the hand that was red with the blood of American men and women, and inasmuch as he dared not hold Carranza responsible, began in unmanly fashion to scold Carranza's wretched American victims."

"Mr. Wilson and his followers are fond of asking, when we criticize his action, 'What would you have done?' Either one of two courses would properly have been followed. It would have been defensible to have recognize Benavides in Peru, and fact that other great powers had recognized him, and, of course, it was quite indefensible to refuse to recognize him, and yet recognize Monavides in Peru, and Carranza in Mexico. In such a case, we would have held Huerta to 'strict responsibility' by acts for restoring order in Mexico and for protecting American life and property."

Will Pay With Bloodshed

"President Wilson's policies have been without plan or purpose, he has not looked beyond tomorrow; he has had no objects aside from momentary political profit at home, and possibly the gratification of personal spite toward or personal covetousness for some particular bandit. His attitude has shifted hither and thither. At an enormous expense to all that is good and stable in Mexico and at a terrible cost of American lives, property and prestige he has lifted Carranza into power. Through the maneuvering of an A-B-C convention he placed him upon his shaky pedestal and to-day by the expedient of another I-O-U convention he is trying to prop and bolster the tottering structure. Yet at this very time, Carranza's government, which is wholly the child of President Wilson's diplomacy, turns against us, and thereby foreshadows the course that this same man Carranza would take if, by the same means, as it has been vaguely hinted that the present Administration is trying to secure for him in financial circles, his government should become a reality. Some day this diplomacy will be paid for by this country in the bloodshed, suffering and disaster of war."

Congressman Attacks Wilson's Place Claims

Washington, Oct. 23.—"Democratic speakers throughout the country have the opportunity to keep on claiming that the President 'has kept us out of war.' This preposterous claim has not fooled the people of the United States," declared Representative Julius Kahn, of California, ranking minority member of the House Military Affairs committee in a statement issued by the National Republican Congressional committee here.

"If any one doubts that we made war on Mexico at Vera Cruz, ask the mothers and fathers of the boys who were killed on the streets of that Mexican seaport. "Ask the relatives of the eighteen American civilians who were butchered at Santa Ysabel. "Ask the relatives of the United States soldiers who were treacherously slain at Carrizal. "Ask the mothers and sisters of those who were slaughtered in the raid at Columbus, N. M., whether we were at war with Mexico."

"Ask the citizens of Brownsville, Red House Ferry, Progreso and Los Peladao whether the President 'has kept us out of war.' "Ask the thousands of American citizens who were called upon to abandon their property in Mexico and to sion of Dr. Friedrich Adler, his assailant, shortly after his arrest. Doctor Adler is an eccentric and superstitious Bohemian, sometimes known as "The Liebknecht of Austria." He is editor of Der Kampf. At first he declined to reveal his motives, but being locked up, he broke down and declared that Premier's political policies had led him to do the deed.

RIOT REPORTED AFTER SHOOTING

Doctor Adler's arrest was not accomplished without the wounding of two men who leaped at him after he had fired on Count Stuerghk. He discharged the two remaining chambers of his revolver at these men before Austrian and German officers with drawn sabers, overpowered him. The wounded men, who were injured slightly, are Baron Aehrenthal, brother of the late Foreign Minister, and the head waiter of the Hotel Messel und Schadn, in which the shooting occurred.

Count Stuerghk arrived at the hotel at 1:30 o'clock. With him were Count Baron Aehrenthal, Count Torggenburger, governor of the Tyrol; Herr Jacobson, a prominent Vienna musician and an actor from the Court Theater.

At 2 o'clock a man unknown to the Premier arrived and took a seat three tables away. He ate luncheon and paid for the meal, but lingered at the table.

Shortly after 3 o'clock he arose, advanced quickly toward the Premier and fired three shots. The first missed. The next struck the Premier in the head. Without a word, Count Stuerghk fell back lifeless in his chair.

Baron Aehrenthal sprang toward Adler, the head waiter ran up from behind the assassin and grasped the hand that held the revolver. Adler wrested his arm free and fired two shots. Baron Aehrenthal was wounded in the foot. The waiter received only a superficial wound.

Seeing that the struggle was hopeless, Doctor Adler surrendered to the officers who crowded upon him and gave up his revolver. Apparently, he was not hurt, he said a friend. He gave his name without hesitation and added: "If you please, gentlemen, I know perfectly well what I have done. I shall not resist arrest."

In reply to a question as to the reason for his act, he said a friend. "That I shall have to answer in court."

It was half an hour later that he admitted that he had been actuated by political motives.

Physicians and high police and State officials reached the scene of the shooting within a few minutes. They found that the Premier was lifeless. News of the assassination spread rapidly and was received with indignation and sorrow.

Uncover Plot to Kill the Hungarian Premier

London, Oct. 23.—The assassination of Count Stuerghk lends new interest to the details of a plot to assassinate Count Tisza, the Hungarian premier, which reached London to-day by mail from Budapest. Two young men were arrested with this plot.

At their trial one of the young men pleaded not guilty, but made a defiant political speech, in which he denounced Count Tisza as a traitor against the premier's life as soon as he was free. Owing to their comparative youth they were sentenced to only five months' imprisonment, with the provision that both should join the colors at the expiration of their sentences.

Slayer Maintains Complete Composure as He Awaits Trial

Vienna, Oct. 23, via London, Oct. 23.—Dr. Friedrich Adler, the assassin of the Austrian premier, Count Karl Stuerghk, is being held by the police awaiting trial. He maintains complete composure. The population of Vienna is recovering from the shock of the assassination.

MERIDA FOURTH LAKE SHIP LOST

lake steamers which went to the bottom of Lake Erie in Friday's storm. The total loss is fifty. The Marshall P. Butters sank with no loss of life. All 13, her crew, being saved. The D. F. Eiler went down, six to sea, crew, only the captain surviving. The James B. Colgate's crew of 22 with the single exception of the captain, perished, while every man on the Merida is believed to be lost.

Merida Had Crew of 24 When She Left Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The steamer Merida cleared from Buffalo with 24 men, but so far as known her captain, H. L. Jones, was the only member of the crew from this port.

Captain Massey, of the steamer Briton, the last vessel known to have sighted the Merida, fears she is lost. "The Merida was rolling so badly and taking over such big seas that I feared she would founder," he said. "She was 25 miles off the southeast shoal when I saw her Friday and the gale was getting worse. I made Cedar Point and remained there until Saturday night, if the Merida had gone behind Long Point she would have made Buffalo this morning. I saw nothing of her on the way down, although I kept a sharp lookout."

Captain Sole Survivor of Crew on James B. Colgate

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 23.—While Captain Walter Grashaw, sole survivor in a crew of twenty-two men of the steamer James B. Colgate, was battling for his life in a hospital at Conneaut, Ohio, to-day, following the disaster yesterday, marine circles were almost convinced that the steamer Merida, forty-two hours overdue at Buffalo, had also been a victim of Friday night's storm on Lake Erie which sank two other boats in addition to the Colgate.

The Merida is bound from Port William, Canada, to Buffalo. She carried a crew of twenty-five. Captain Grashaw, of the Colgate, was picked up in Lake Erie on a life raft after he had been at the mercy of the storm without food or water for thirty-four hours.

PICK UP FOUR MORE BODIES

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 23.—The steamer Charlotte G. Breitung arrived to-day at Sandwich, Ontario, with four bodies of sailors of the steamer Merida. These bodies were picked up in Lake Erie yesterday and the crew of the Breitung felt certain that the Merida foundered in the storm last Friday night. The bodies, including lifeboats with the work "Merida" on them was seen in Lake Erie, off the Detroit river. The bodies were brought from Sandwich to Windsor, Ont., for identification.

GRAYEST DIVORCE STORY IN YEARS

largest calendar in the county's history. In the same colorless way in which Mrs. Specht described how she had toiled "jes' like one o' the hands in the field" from the time she married Specht, twenty-three years ago, she mentioned some of the other highlights of her married life with the man from whom she is finally seeking her freedom; how she had been kicked and beaten, how she had been ruthlessly torn from her bed in the dead of night and flung headlong to the foot of the stairway; how she had been cursed, how she had followed the raging husband across the snow-covered fields one winter and begged him not to hang his son to a tree in the woods back of the house—while the 15-year-old boy trudged patiently along behind his father with a rope around his neck; how the angry father once threw a double-edged lumberman's axe at his son; and then finally how when the husband's infidelity had placed him behind prison bars, he had written to his "beloved wife" to beg her assistance in obtaining his release on bail.

The Crime Sinister

Except for a catch in her voice as she told it, the fact that the gray-haired, 60-year-old woman, who is colorlessly as the rest of her testimony. The daughter, it appeared, according to the investigations of the district attorney's office, is happily married now and no longer lives in Dauphin county. Her son—the son of her father—is living.

Why?

"Why did your husband treat you so?" asked W. J. Carter, her counsel. "Why? I don't know. That time that he dragged me out of bed, threw me down the steps and jumped on me and then raced me behind the barn as I got up to run to the woods, I begged him to tell me what I'd done," explained the witness monotonously. "He just kept on a-beatin' me with a piece of plank and said 'he'd learn me—he'd learn me.'" "That was the same when he put a rope around my boy's neck and started off to the woods with him one
