McFarland Quits Fighting; His Wife Won't Let Him

PACKEY MCFARLAND.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Did Packey McFarland announce a short time back that he was hot after Darcy and that for a small sum such as $25,000 a match might be arranged? Did he? Well, maybe he did, but he didn't mean it. Since consulting his manager he has changed his mind—his wife being the manager mentioned. Mrs. Packey McFarland doesn't intend that Packey shall leave his chicken ranch, near Joliet, and she has told Packey so in no uncertain terms. Oh, well, Packey might be in worse places than a chicken ranch.

RED CALHOUN MAKES DEALS

Wilkes-Barre, Jan. 11.—Manager John C. Calhoun, of the Wilkes-Barre baseball team, announced yesterday that he had traded Catcher Mike Gido to Dallas (Tex.) League for Pitcher Renfer. The Baron manager also announced that he had purchased Pitcher Tuero and Outfielder Orcutt from the Lynn Club, of the New England League.

OWLS PLAN AUXILIARY

The recently organized Order of Owls is planning to organize an auxiliary to the order. The organization has a membership of over 1,200. R. F. Webster, 223 South Fourteenth street, has charge of the formation of the auxiliary. It is planned to have it organized in about two weeks.

EAST END WANTS GAME

Manager F. Shickley of the East End A. C., wants a basketball game for to-morrow and Wednesday nights. Address, Royal Firehouse.

BOXING SEASON GETS LATE START

First Show January 24 With Popular Boys on Program; Special Bills Later

Harrisburg's boxing season will open Wednesday, January 24. The Keystone Sporting Club, "Billy" Mehring, manager, is back of the first exhibition. Lining up good fighters is not an easy proposition according to reports. The first show promises to be one of the best offered, and will be followed with another good bill. Delay in getting started has been a handicap in signing real fighters.

Many Special Bills
Liberal patronage will mean a series of special bills during the winter. Manager Mehring is now in touch with well-known fight authorities, including Billy Rocap and Harry Edwards. They will aid the local management in arranging high class programs. The opening bill will include one ten-round bout with Frankie McGuire up against a good boy. The semi-main event will be an eight-round go between Al Murphy of Scranton, and Frankie Ernie of Lancaster. There will be two six-round bouts, the participants including at least one local boy. Patsy Scanlon of Scranton, has been booked for the second show.

MEREDITH TO RACE BINGHAM

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 11.—Ted Meredith, the fleet captain on the 1916 Pennsylvania track team, is immensely pleased with the opportunity to meet Bill Bingham, Harvard's track leader of last season, in a dual or three-cornered race at the coming Harvard-Penn-Dartmouth meet. Meredith heard from Eddie Riley, of Dartmouth, whose entrance will stretch the run into a three-cornered affair. The distance tentatively mentioned is six laps, or 780 yards. Meredith beat Bingham and Riley in the intercollegiate outside meet last spring. Riley running second in the 440 and Bingham in the same position in the 880.

MAY DIVIDE STATE LEAGUE

Scranton, Jan. 11.—According to advance information the officials of the Pennsylvania State League are getting ready to call a special meeting for the purpose of calling a halt to the runaway race being made by the Carbondale Pioneers, and, according to the report, they will act to split the season in two. Carbondale far outpaces every other team in the circuit except Pittston, which, it is said, is the only club that is fighting the new project to slice the season in two parts.

HASN'T MISSED SUNDAY SCHOOL IN TWENTY YEARS

William G. Shellenberger, a candy-maker, 208 North Fifth street, and a member of the Messiah Lutheran Sunday School, boasts of a record of uninterrupted attendance at the Sunday school for twenty years. His closest rival is Edward Crownshield, 1532 North Sixth street, who only on account of death has been absent from two sessions in nineteen years.

STRONG TEAM TO PLAY LOCAL FIVE

St. Elizabeth Five of Philadelphia to Return For Revenge; Change in Line-ups

The St. Elizabeth team of Philadelphia will be the attraction at Chestnut street auditorium Saturday night. This will be the second appearance of these tossers in this city. Fans will remember the fast and hard game they gave the Independents earlier in the season. They are coming to Harrisburg determined for revenge for their first defeat, and with a stronger line-up.

Serimamage Practices

The Independents will hold serimamage practices with Central high teams every week and will be in the best of condition for the remaining games. Pat Reagan and Colestock will both be in the game Saturday night and this pair of big guards, will strengthen the local defense. Paul Gerdes has been handicapped with a bruised elbow.

Boxing Champion in Khaki; Jimmy Wilde Is Fighter

New York, Jan. 11.—Jimmy Wilde, flyweight champion of the world and bantamweight champion of Europe, has enlisted, according to the London Times. Although twice rejected from military service, once on account of a weak leg following an accident and later owing to his light weight, Wilde again presented himself for re-examination because, as he put it, "I am tired of being taunted by those who say I would rather fight with gloves on than with gloves off." He passed the examination late in December in Class B, which means garrison duty abroad. In any case he is now in khaki and has put to shame those who accused him of cowardice. In his last bout two or three weeks ago Wilde knocked out Young Zulu Kid, an American boxer, in the eleventh round.

BRESSLER GETS PINK SLIP

Philadelphia, Jan. 11.—Rube Bressler, considered two years ago the most promising southpaw ever brought into the big leagues, was released yesterday by the Athletics, together with Tom Sheehan, a right-handed pitcher. Both have been turned over to the Atlantic club, of the Southern Association. Bressler lives in Williamsport, Pa., and came to the A's from the Harrisburg club of the Tri-State League. Last season he was farmed out to Danny Murphy's New Haven team, of the New England League, where he pitched and played the outfield. Sheehan was bought from Peoria, of the Three-Eye League.

DENIES TRADE RUMOR

Reading, Pa., Jan. 11.—Bert G. Bupp, secretary-treasurer of the Reading Eastern League Basketball club, denies that a deal is in progress for either Morris or Haggerty, of Reading, in Connecticut, joined the Athletics in 1908, upon his graduation from college.

WELLY'S CORNER

Basketball fans are still talking about that Yale game. They were introduced to something new in team work, also learned a few things about rules. In taking care of the intercollegiate game rules were formulated with a view to making the game clean. That is what it is when played like the contest last Friday.

Those who question the decisions of Referee Miller on fouls should read the intercollegiate rules. Rule six, section four reads, "The referee shall have power to call fouls for unsportsmanlike conduct, or to make decisions on any points not specifically covered in rules." Hissing and hooting at an official when a decision is made is unsportsmanlike conduct.

Arthur Williams, a former Atlantic League pitcher, has signed with Chic Hartman, of Binghamton. He is a right hander, six feet tall and tips the scales at 170 pounds.

While no dates have been definitely fixed for the Major League schedule it is understood that the first ball will be thrown on April 12. The Giants will open the season at home this year, probably with Brooklyn.

The leading batsman in the Eastern Association for 1916, according to the official figures just announced, was Maloney, who at one time was a member of the Yankees. Bud Weiser who returns to the Phillies, ranked next to Maloney.

At a meeting last night Rosewood A. C. members decided to secure a large room and install a gymnasium for training purposes. It was also decided to limit the club membership to 125. Last night 15 new members were admitted. This organization is moving fast and with good results.

Small Minor Leagues Are Facing Crucial Prospects

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Jan. 11.—A. R. Tarney, president of the Three I Baseball League, addressing a meeting attended by representatives of four minor baseball leagues of the Central West here to-day expressed the opinion that unless something is done to stimulate interest in minor league ball many small leagues could not continue through the coming season.

As remedies President Tarney suggested the abrogation of the so-called optional agreement, and recommended that each club in a small league be forced to lure at least five or six new players each season to keep up interest. He said remedial measures must be taken in a concerted manner if the small circuits are to survive.

The conference was called at the suggestion of President Tarney, who believes that radical changes must be made to assure the minor leagues in the Central West a degree of success in the 1917 season. The mileage of at least two of the leagues must be reduced, Tarney believes. Suggestion has been made that one of the Three I cities be traded to the Central Association, and that one of the Central League cities be induced to join the Three I circuit.

Barry to Manage Red Sox; Started With Bill Carrigan

JACK BARRY.

"Lucky Jack" Barry has announced definitely his acceptance of the position of manager of the World's Champion Red Sox. He will succeed William Carrigan, who finally determined to resign permanently from baseball.

Barry is considered the luckiest man in professional baseball by his fellow players. He is the only player in the history of the game who has shared in six world's series.

DEBTS WE ALL HAVE TO PAY

Nothing For Nothing, Nature's Inexcusable Rule Says Beatrice Fairfax

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"Nothing for nothing" is not a cruel law of selfish individuals; it is nature's own rule.

"If only I had some one influential to help me I might get up in the world," says Ellen. The only person whose influence is going to take Ellen safely and securely up in the world without any backbiting, envy-tracking or unpleasant tumbles, is Ellen's own.

For all that we get in life we pay. That is nature's own law of balance. But just what the price is going to be none of us knows until a series of Nature does not ticket things with price tags. She simply exacts compensation for any and every particular term that human beings would have chosen to avoid.

Suppose Nature meets an influential man in business. She is heavily indebted to him, and while she will ask no favors, she will make sure to expect her to repay him for any favor he does her.

The Books Balanced
The books of life are balanced but according to a system of double entry none of us knows until a series of Nature does not ticket things with price tags. She simply exacts compensation for any and every particular term that human beings would have chosen to avoid.

But nature marks down against you a debt for which some day she is going to exact payment. It may be that you wear a hat that is not yours, or that you have a debt of some kind or another, or that you have a debt of some kind or another, or that you have a debt of some kind or another.

Not only in matters of health, but in matters of moral stamina, all of us pay our debts.

"Just a little more" — and there it is created the knowledge of how a cocktail tastes, the awareness of the stimulation produced by even a serene feeling of superiority to any crowd that that form of dissipation. Perhaps a debt is incurred in any event an inhibition is broken down.

The point of view becomes, "Having taken one cocktail with no evil results, I may risk another, and so chance drinking may evolve from a chance 'sobering glass,' and in due time Nature demands compensation for the weakened will and broken down body.

Deny yourself sleep for a while; perhaps you may manage very well for five hours of slumber a night, but in the end you find yourself either falling asleep over your work or you are forced to take one night off and "sleep the clock around" or an absolute physical breakdown occurs.

Nature exacts her price — but she, not you, names that price.

So for every tampering with or infringement of Nature's laws! The stout woman diets strenuously and cut off certain food values to which she is accustomed. She loses flesh—which is her purpose; but she loses also nervous energy, which Nature's way of balancing intake and output.

Why, then, is it surprising that human beings should condemn themselves on an absolutely natural principle? When a man does you a favor and expects one in return, why have absolutely no cause to be surprised; nor have you a right to be agitated if the favor asked of you represents the particular thing you do not want to do.
