

Hanover Man Arrested For Alleged Threat Against the President

Baltimore, March 7. — The arrest of Amos H. Paulus, 70 years old, of Hanover, Pa., at the Union station, after he is alleged to have made a statement to the effect that he was on his way to "kill President Wilson," is the first in the country under the bill recently passed in Congress for the protection of the President.

According to Paulus' statements, he is a member of a secret society at Hanover, the members of which, he said drew lots to determine who would go to Washington yesterday to kill the President. He said he drew the ticket which commanded him to "do the job."

When Paulus reached here his actions attracted the attention of the detectives and they followed him and saw him get a ticket for Washington. Detective Wright engaged him in conversation and Paulus, he says, confided to him that he was on his way to "kill the President" and wanted an active young man to assist him. Paulus said to-day that he was drunk when he made the remarks.

Potato Famine Keenly Felt in French Capitol

Paris, March 7. — The potato, like sugar, butter and other edibles, is becoming increasingly rare here. At Le-Shalle's great central market yesterday no old potatoes were to be had. New potatoes from Algeria, found at some groceries, brought 15 cents a pound.

Senator Edouard Herriot, Minister of National Subsistence and Labor, succeeded recently in securing a large quantity of butter in the provinces and sent it to Paris when the supply failed. He is taking energetic measures likewise to remedy the shortage of potatoes.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Dauphin, Pa., March 7. — Mrs. Harry Kennedy, of Singerville, was taken seriously ill yesterday afternoon, with appendicitis, and was removed to the Harrisburg Hospital to be operated upon.

Isn't This True? When you "feel mean" — dull, tired, nervous, bad digestion, no appetite — Don't you find out, afterwards, that your bowels were not acting freely and naturally? Due, of course, to a liver gone on a strike. Take two or three pills — once. After that, only one, until you're all right. CARTER'S LIVER PILLS. Genuine bears Signature. Colorless faces often show the absence of iron in the blood. CARTER'S IRON PILLS will help this condition.

Those Who Have Coal Are Lucky

Persons who filled their bins last Summer for the needs of this Winter are not alarmed about the present coal shortage and higher prices. The experience of this Winter should prompt many to fill their bins early this Summer who have, in past only bought coal as they needed it.

Preparedness is the slogan of the day and its advantages are appreciated when the crisis comes.

There's not nearly the supply of coal on hand that is usual at this time of the Winter, and there's no likelihood of any improvement. If you need coal — order it at once. H. M. KELLEY & CO. 1 North Third Street

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

AMAZING BUT RARELY SUSPECTED TRUTHS ABOUT THE THINGS YOU EAT By ALFRED W. McCANN

Six months later, January 31, 1916, George L. Flanders referred this case to the Attorney General for prosecution. Six weeks later, March 18, 1916, the Attorney General designated Arthur Benson, a Syracuse lawyer, to proceed against Andrews, Loomis & Andrews, June 9, Senator Walters appeared on the scene and the case was closed.

I do not know what the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company will think, say, or do when they behold this simple story of facts. I can imagine, however, that as taxpayers they will be deeply concerned. They have felt the annoyance of the department in dozens of other cases, many of which have been allowed to perish in the Attorney General's records. For instance, "Glucose Case #2247" was made against them by the department March 19, 1916, and "Glucose Case #7153" was made against them March 14, 1916 — the first involving one of their stores at Niagara Falls and the second at Keokuk, Iowa. In both cases the Department of Agriculture asked the Attorney General, June 2, 1916, to prosecute.

Attorneys were designated and the cases pressed on until July 5, when the Department of Agriculture, like the more or less famous chameleon, again changed its color and requested the Attorney General to prosecute. Both cases were worth suppressed and the Attorney General distributed $28.50 as fees to the attorneys involved.

There is neither rhyme nor reason to these silly procedures as eloquently indicated by current cases "02205," "07881," "06919," "N2259." In the first of these cases W. G. Baner, Lyons, N. Y., found himself in trouble October 16, 1915. The red tape soon began to unswirl itself and in settlement of the case, September 1, Baner, who seemingly did not know the ropes and had no senatorial influence, coughed up $100, which was duly deposited with the State Treasurer by the Attorney General.

In the second case, two weeks later, November 4, 1915, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, of Rochester, found itself again in the toils. Ten months later, August 24, the Department of Agriculture awakened from a deep sleep and asked the Attorney General to prosecute. Within a week William G. Kohlmeyer, a lawyer of Rochester, was designated by the Attorney General to get after the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, since which time nothing has been done. A fact which no doubt affords great consolation to Baner, who coughed up his $100.

The third case, involving the Maner-Haas Company of Rochester, originated December 14, 1915, one month after the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company found itself again in trouble with the people's representative at Albany. Nine months later, August 24, 1916, something disturbed the sleep of the Department of Agriculture, and the legal minded George L. Flanders asked the Attorney General to prosecute the Maner-Haas Company, after which the case was settled for $10. The State Treasurer got the money.

The fourth case originated one month later, January 5, 1916, involving W. D. Pitt, of Mount Morris. Eight months later the Department of Agriculture again changed its color and asked the Attorney General to prosecute the case. This cross-procedure is dated October 4, 1916. The case has been held.

Taxpayers will doubtless find these episodes, which are real symptoms of invisible government at work, illuminating, if not edifying. It may be that out of the confusion some incidental taxpayer will lift his voice and demand an accounting of the public moneys squandered in these fruitless procedures. Some other influential taxpayer may ask the assemblymen and Senators to give up the case. Albany has ever seen covering these issues and issues of much greater importance to the people behind their etherizing activities.
