

TECH ATHLETES WORK ON ACADEMY TRACK---WHAT IS DOING IN LOCAL THEATERS

TECH ATHLETES TRAIN OUTDOORS

Score of Candidates Loosen Up on Academy Track; Freshmen Fast

A score of Tech candidates for the Maroon relay team held their first outdoor practice on the Academy track last evening under the direction of the coaches. The first trials will be held next week, and those making the best consistent records in the runs will be chosen to represent the school in the Penn relays the latter part of this month.

Freshmen Look Good

Among the Freshmen are Weigle, Melick, Pleam, Germer and Karl Beck, who are expected to push some of the Varsity material for a berth on the quartet of Maroon flyers. Those who tried out yesterday are Demming, Eyster, Harmon, Koons, Evans, Sutch, Hachnion, Pleam, Pickering, Jones, Germer, Melick, Weigle and McGann.

The weight men were also given material and will begin outdoor work very shortly. With the hardest schedule ever arranged for the local team, strenuous efforts will be put forth to win every meet.

SECRET WIRELESS EASY

Germany could, with ease, develop a secret wireless system for the receipt of information by its agents in this country, according to Dr. Lee de Forest, wireless inventor and member of the Board of Trustees of the American Defense Society.

"No doubt exists in my mind," said Dr. de Forest in a statement to the executive committee of the American Defense Society, "that at this very minute cubbyholes and closet wireless stations, brought into existence to serve the German Kaiser, are threatening our neutrality and honey-combing the air with hidden threats."

UNPREPAREDNESS—"MURDER"
Universal military service for this country is defended and pacifism condemned by Major General Leonard Wood, Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, and member of the advisory board of the American Defense Society.

General Wood denounces pacifism as a doctrine which means "the murder of our men, the dishonor of our women, the ruin of our country." Dr. Hibben declares that war now is a distinct possibility and urges preparedness for a struggle at arms.

TO MAP AERO ROUTES
Aviation officers of the United States army are making plans for the laying out of military aerial lines and landing stations to be used by airmen in the service of the country in time of war. Aid of the various aero clubs and of the Coast and Geodetic and Geological Surveys of the government has been asked for.

HELD FOR COURT
Oscar Buffington and Morris Smith, both of Hummelstown, were held under $300 bail each, for court at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They are charged with theft of freight from the warehouse at Rutherford. Bail was furnished in each case.

GLAD TO BE ABLE TO WORK AGAIN

Bad Stomach Made Him Lose a Lot of Time But He's On the Job Now

TANLAC FIXED HIM UP

"I was in such bad shape from stomach trouble that I had to be all the time laying off because I was too weak to work regularly," says John Fraser, a steel worker, of West Fairview, near Harrisburg, Pa.

"No matter what I ate it always went back on me and I was actually starving on my feet because I got no good out of my food.

"I would have awful burning pains in my stomach and would often have to vomit before I could get any relief. I was always filled with gas and I laid down flat I would feel faint and my heart would seem to skip its beats.

"I was weak and tired all the time and the work at the mills was too much for me.

"But one of my neighbors told me to use Tanlac and praised it so highly I took his advice. It worked like a charm for I began to feel better at once and I have been getting steadily stronger until now I feel fit for anything. I can eat and enjoy whatever I want and I am able to work regularly, all thanks to the wonderful effect of Tanlac."

Tanlac, the famous reconstructive tonic, is now being introduced here at George's Drug Store, where the Tanlac man is meeting the people and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

HOWARD BERRY, PENN ATHLETIC STAR, WILL BE READY TO DEFEND THE FLAG

In defending his flag. Under the tuition of Coach Bob Folwell, Penn's athletic director and instructor, Berry is making rapid strides in the art of sharp-shooting.

A keen eye and great steadiness of nerve appear to be Berry's greatest assets, and Folwell declares that he is going to be a sharpshooter par excellence before he is through. It seems probable that this spring Berry will be active in the organization of a regiment of athletes and college boys, all of them the best soldiers. Berry's interest in sharpshooting should be a good influence and will inspire college athletes everywhere to follow his example. Berry is not inexperienced in sharpshooting, having been on the Mexican border with the National Guard. On his return he determined to perfect his sharpshooting with Coach Folwell. He has been busy at it for some while. If he becomes as proficient with the gun as he has in every field of athletics there will be few to surpass him.

SAVE EVEN THE SEEDS
Berlin April 5.—Collection of the usually wasted fruit stones in Germany in the past year, it is announced amounted to 120,000 tons from which 400,000 to 500,000 kilograms (1,100,000 pounds) of oil were extracted and delivered to the margarine factories. The crop of sunflower seeds was a failure and the gathering of beechnuts yielded small results.

Site of Canopus, One of World's Most Ancient Cities, Said to Be Found

Cairo, April 4.—The site of Canopus, one of the most ancient cities of Egypt, has been found, according to the British Museum, in the honor of making the discovery. For many years he has maintained that its site lay somewhere in the region of Aboukir Bay and, apparently, his contention is now proved to be correct. Before the foundation of Alexandria Canopus was the commercial capital of the country and the most important religious center in lower Egypt. Excavations have already brought to light a great public bath of the Ptolemaic period, about 15 feet in length. It is divided into twenty chambers of the same width. There are roofed for various forms of baths, such as hip and mud baths and a large hall which was evidently used for massage purposes and the preparation of aromatic oil. Bronze coins found in various rooms bear the effigies of Ptolemy Soter, Ptolemy Evergetes and Queen Berenice. Of the several statues unearthed the most interesting is that of a Chinese figure, which shows, it is contended, that in the dim past relations must have existed between China and this ancient capital of Egypt.

DUTCH ARMY EXPENSIVE
The Hague, Netherlands, April 5.—Parliament is being asked to vote a fresh mobilization credit of $50,000,000 to cover the extraordinary military expenditures for the first half of the current year. This sum includes $3,800,000 for artillery material, which the Netherlands army is very deficient, considering the requirements of modern warfare. Dependent on foreign manufacture for the supply of its needs in this respect, Holland has met almost insurmountable difficulties in its attempts to obtain the urgently required artillery in wartime.

AMUSEMENTS

ORPHEUM—Tuesday, night only, April 10—Jack Stern's Yiddish Players presenting "Joseph and His Brethren."
Wednesday night, April 11—Municipal Band Concert.
Friday night, April 13—War Relief Fund.
Coming, Saturday, April 14—Henry W. Savage offers "Have a Heart."
MAJESTIC—Vaudeville.
COLONIAL—"The White Raven."
REGENT—"Each to His Kind."

Henry W. Savage's surprisingly successful musical comedy offering, "Have a Heart," which comes to the Orpheum on Saturday, April 14, has been most cordially received in Philadelphia during several weeks' duration—houses that taxed the capacity of the theater at every performance being the result of popular approval—the Philadelphia reviews of the play were virtually an enthusiastic endorsement of the New York verdict. Just a few brief comments from the prominent paragraphs of enthusiastic approval may not be amiss. The North American said: "Have a Heart" brings many laughs at the Orpheum. Those who have the good fortune to see "Have a Heart" will have to laugh a three-hour string of giggles."

Billie Burke, producer of a number of vaudeville novelties, one of which was "Tango Shoes" that played the Majestic several weeks ago, will offer two more of her vaudeville novelties, the other is the "Man of the Ice Wagon," whom Mr. Burke "discovered" while making a tour of the famous icebergs of New York City. Quite by accident Mr. Burke heard the iceman sing, and, being struck by the beauty of the man and persuaded him to sign a contract for a vaudeville engagement. The iceman, who is now known as "The Man of the Ice Wagon," is now presenting him to the public in song and all. Olga, the dancing diva, will also appear in a new and edgy singing and acrobatic offering, and one other act complete the bill.

The scenes of "Each to His Kind," now being shown at the Regent, a thrilling drama of English life, and "The White Raven," a story of the East, are the two main attractions of the Regent. The scenes of "Each to His Kind" were laid in London, and the scenes of "The White Raven" were laid in India. Mr. Hayakawa is seen as the Maharajah, who is sent to England to be educated. Through the flirtation of a girl he vows a feud against the English and returns to his country to conquer. Through a series of adventures he is eventually depicted in a vivid and startling manner.

Madouette Clark will be presented in a return engagement of "The Pretty Sister of Jose." As the tiny, exquisite Spanish girl of the "Sapho" and "The Money Mill," she has won many hearts and whims, who has vowed never to lose her heart, but who, when she meets the handsome and handsome, loves truly and devotedly. Miss Clark is utterly incomparable.

On Saturday a double attraction is scheduled. Geraldine Farrar in return engagement of "Maria Rosa," and Charles Chaplin in "Easy Street," will share honors.

WITH SINGLE COLUMN CUT LINE UNDER CUT
PAULINE FREDERICK
Will be seen at the Regent Theater next Monday night in "Sapho," a story of the East, which is one of the most elaborately staged pictures in which this star has ever appeared.

Ethel Barrymore will be the attraction at the Colonial Theater to-night only, in a request for return engagement. Her greatest success, "The White Raven," a powerful story of a girl who sells herself to satisfy her ambition, that carries the audience from the gay lights of the Yukon to the dreary, dreary of the Yukon. Elaborate stage settings, beautiful out-of-doors scenes and gripping situations makes "The White Raven" an exceptional attraction. The Majestic Mirror, a complete two-part story from the series "The Marriage Sacred," is the added attraction of the program. Friday, one day only, Dorothy Kelly, of the Regent Company's most beautiful film star, will give her first appearance at the Colonial in a splendid Blue Ribbon feature, "The Money Mill," the story of a "get-rich-quick" financier, "Cupid's Puzzle," the ninth episode of "The Great Secret," will be shown on the same program.

THE KAISER STANDS ALONE
The Kaiser faces the dismemberment of his dream of world empire and the end of a personal power that has for many years threatened civilization with the present war. He is another of the long line of reactionary figures who have taken the feudal doctrines of the Middle Ages and tried to drive back the irresistible growth of individual rights and human liberty. George III was a small character and stupid. Napoleon the First was a magnificent tyrant. Napoleon the Third was scheming and petty. But none of these, though they lived in supposedly less civilized times, ever descended to the inhuman and the senseless beliefs and practices which the Kaiser has adopted to reach his ends. In modern times he stands alone of all rulers, either of those who inherited power or those who acquired it by their abilities—damned in a class by himself.—The World's Work.

SCOUT BOATS ORDERED
Preliminary eleventh hour steps for the construction of 100 or more high speed coast patrol boats for use against submarines have been taken by the Navy Department. Deliveries, according to boat builders, who have conferred with the Secretary of the Navy, could start in four months.

DANISH PROFESSOR BARES KULTURE

Gleason Throws New Light on Atrocities; Epic of Belgium Relief in "War Bread"

(BY MAXWELL ALEY)
New York, April 4.—The most sensational attack on German Kultur since "J'accuse" is found in "Hurray and Hallelujah!" a book by a Danish professor, Dr. J. P. Bang, which has just appeared here in an English translation.
Dr. Bang uses few arguments of his own—he merely quotes German leaders to show that they are responsible for Germany's dreams of world domination, her ideas of ruthlessness which have turned the neutral world against her, and her present physical and moral plight. The quotations he gives from German poets, prophets, professors and preachers from the time of the early nineteenth century down to the hate-inspired present, are staggering when one considers their full meaning.
When Dr. Bang quotes a German pastor's paraphrase, on the Lord's Prayer in which God is asked to "Forgive us our merciful long-suffering each bullet and each blow which misses its mark," the madman appears to have reached the climax.

War Diary Revelations
What America has done in the war, and what she should have done, is what Arthur Gleason with the theme for the first part of his new book, "Our Part in the Great War," but interest will be equally aroused over the second section which tells of visits through the devastated districts and stories of the peasants, and the third section tells what German soldiers themselves have written in their letters and diaries of the war. Mr. Gleason, one of our correspondents whose reliability is beyond question, was the exclusive privilege of access to the English and French collections of war diaries taken from German soldiers captured and slain, and what these narratives reveal of frightfulness and atrocities adds a new chapter to the grim chronicle of the conflict.

A book that is of particular interest just now is Madeline Z. Doty's "Short Rations," for if any one thing in the present war situation holds the attention of neutrals and belligerents alike, it is the question of Germany's food supply. Miss Doty has been in Germany twice since she has been a spy, saw and learned many things which a man might have missed. Because of the food shortage, she predicts revolution, and out of revolution, peace.

In some fashion, unknown to either the publishers or Miss Doty, an advance copy of "Short Rations" reached Germany recently, where it was very bitterly received. A cable dispatch says that the Cologne Gazette speaks of Miss Doty as "the snooping Madeline," and concludes "Evidence shows that she always supervises most rigorous American women who travel amongst us."

Story of Belgian Relief
The forced withdrawal of the American Commission for Relief in Belgium lends special interest to Edward Eyre Hunt's book, "War Bread"—an epic of splendid achievement. Mr. Hunt, after a series of thrilling war adventures, landed in Antwerp just before the bombardment and fall, and later, when relief work was organized, was made American delegate for the Antwerp district. In "War Bread" he gives the story of the Commission's organization, its difficulties, and its accomplishments. It is a story to make every American thrill with pride over what Hoover and his helpers succeeded in doing. Hunt, like most of those helpers, was little more than a boy. His book is not "just another war book," but a human document of Belgian reconstruction in which are set down the facts about the feeding, clothing, housing and employment of the Belgian people, and his own impressions and observations.

Great Britain's Part
We have all heard people ask "What has England done in this war?" or say that she is "muddling through" and letting France bear the brunt. Paul D. Cravath, an American corporation lawyer, gives us a very different version of her share in the conflict in "Great Britain's Part." He had an unusual chance to see the work of the British army from the business end, and he describes its organization from general headquarters through

THE TRUTH ABOUT ECZEMA AND PILES

Thousands and thousands of people, says Peterson, are learning every week that one 25 cent box of Peterson's Ointment will abolish Eczema and banish piles, and the grateful letters I receive every day are worth more to me than money.

I had Eczema for many years on my head and could not get anything to do it any good. I saw your ad and got one box and I owe you many thanks for the good it has done me. There isn't a blotch on my head now and I couldn't help but thank Peterson for the cure is great. Mrs. Mary Hill, and Peterson's is the only ointment that relieves me, besides the piles seem to have gone. A. B. Ruger, 1127 Washington Ave., Racine, Wis.

every Division. The organization for supplying food and ammunition to the army in France as well as the organization and maintenance of hospitals and prison camps are likewise set forth. He gives us a phase hitherto almost untouched by other writers, and he analyzes it all with keenly trained mind. The practical knowledge he gained of the business administration of an army ought to make him a valuable man to us now.

Preparedness
That brings us to the question of preparedness, and to Isaac F. Marcossin's just issued book, "Leonard Wood, Prophet of Preparedness." By an accident, this appeared almost simultaneously with the announcement that General Wood had been transferred from the Department of the East. Marcossin shows us Wood as army surgeon, Indian fighter, rough-rider, dictator of Cuba, tamer of the Moros, organizer of our rule in the Philippines, and commander of the Department of the East. It is in this last capacity that he has been able to sow the seeds of preparedness. Ask any army officer who was responsible for the Plattsburg idea, and he will tell you "General Wood," and it is out of that that our other preparedness moves have largely grown.

A new "Plattsburg Manual," by Lieutenants Ellis and Garey, who were two of the regular army officers at the first Plattsburg camp, has just been issued, and offers an excellent A B C of soldiering.
If we are to have good soldiers, we must first have the spirit of patriotism instilled into our children—a point on which we could learn a good deal from France or Germany. In "Patriots in the Making," J. F. Scott points this out, and shows ways in which we could bring up our younger generation to have a keener realization of what it means to be an American.

War Books Are Legion
To cover all the field of new war books is impossible, for too many titles are represented. But there are many of importance we have not yet mentioned. Alfred Noyes is to be heard from shortly in a little volume called "Open Boats," an authentic account of the grim tragedies which have followed submarine attacks on unarmed merchantmen. "Pan-Germanism vs. Christianity," by M. Emile Prum, shows the conversion of a neutral to the allied cause. "Neath Verdun," by Maurice Genevoix is the personal narrative of a young French lieutenant's experiences in the war. "To Verdun from the Somme," by Harry E. Brittain, gives an American's impressions of the great advance. In "Janus and Vesta," by Benchara Branford, a book much discussed in England, the author challenges thinkers to bring about the gradual cooperation of the whole human race toward a more practical world order after the war.
