BRAZIL, ANGERED AT-U-BOAT ATTACK, MAY WAGE WAR

Anti-German Feeling in Rio Janeiro Intense at Loss of Vessel

By Associated Press Cherbourg, April 5.—The Brazilian steamer Parana was sunk during the night. Three members of her crew are missing. The Parana was a vessel of 4,461 tons. She was built in 1893 and was owned in Rio Janeiro.

London, April 6. — Anti-German feeling in Rio Janeiro is intense as the result of the sinking of the Brazilian steamer Parana, according to a telegram from the Brazilian capital transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Buenos Aires.

The Brazilian foreign minister is quoted as declaring the situation was grave and that perhaps a declaration of war against Germany would be necessary.

It is generally expected, adds the message, that Brazil will seize all intermed German ships in her ports and proclaim the existence of hostilities.

Buenos Aires, April 6. — Buenos Aires newspapers say that a grave situation has arisen between Brazil and Germany as a result of the sinking of the Parana. There is much anxiety as to the attitude which the Brazilian government will take.

THE HABIT OF SMILING All of Us Can Conquer Our Proneness to Irritability.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX. When you ask yourself the question, "Am I easily irritated?" the answer will be "yes," unless you are the hundredth individual following ninety-nine irritable, excitable, uncontrolled humans.

Smiling when everything goes wrong is a beautiful and much to be desired accomplishment. Smiling when things go fairly wrong ought to be simple enough—and isn't.

Most of us confess with a laugh that isn't so shamefaced as it ought to be that we "fly off the handle" very easily. And it does not occur to us that confession marks us as being illogical, weak and rather unpleasant individuals with whom to associate.

Self-control is to a large extent a matter of habit. I know a girl who when she had nothing in particular to be cheerful about deliberately tried the experiment of curling her mouth up at the corners. Now, when you are curling your mouth up at the corners you are arranging your face into a little automatic smile.

WILSON CALLS U. S. TO ARMS

[Continued From First Page] member from Montana, were two of those who voted negatively. After failing to answer to the calling of her name twice on the first rollcall Miss Rankin rose on the second rollcall, resulting, obviously, in a tie vote, and with a sob in her voice declared:

"I want to stand by my country, but I cannot vote for war."

Still she did not formally cast her vote until a dozen or more of her colleagues, weary by the protracted debate, demanded "Vote," "Vote" in raucous voices. Sinking into her seat, Miss Rankin whispered "No," Jerry South, chief clerk went to her seat to verify her vote.

Mr. Kitchin's participation in the proceedings was scarcely less dramatic. After debating the question privately for six hours with both opponents and proponents of the resolution yesterday, he finally announced his opposition to a stirring speech against the measure.

Administration leaders were greatly worried last night lest Mr. Kitchin's attitude would result in a demand for a change in House leadership. Hisses from the Democratic side which greeted Representative Heflin, of Alabama, however, when he declared in a speech that Kitchin should resign from Congress because he did not represent the sentiment of the country, appeared to effectively quiet these fears, temporarily.

A majority of those who opposed the resolution, including Mr. Kitchin, announced that once it was passed they would support it without reservation. Mr. Kitchin as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, will have charge of the preparation of revenue bills to meet the enormous war expenditures.

Consideration of the resolution frayed the nerves of administration leaders early. Starting with virtually no opposition to the measure, it was believed they saw visions after Mr. Kitchin's speech of many votes against it. At one point they urged limiting speech making in order that the resolution might be passed before more converts were made by the opposition.

No time limit was put on the debate, however, and it was a field day of talking. Every member who wanted to talk had an opportunity to do so. It was estimated to-day that more than a hundred speeches were delivered. The cost of white paper required for copies of to-day's congressional record promised to run high.

Speakers Stay Late Interest in the debate was progressive. Throughout the earlier hours of yesterday only about half the House membership was present, and the galleries were half empty. In the evening the galleries and the floor of the House filled up and members and spectators stayed through until adjournment at 3:15 this morning.

Save for a short time spent in disposing of proposed amendments designed to limit the operation of regular troops to this country except by approval of Congress, the weary hours were spent in debating and voting on the resolution. The amendments were beaten overwhelmingly.

Little acrimonious discussion developed. Proponents of the measure calmly and seriously declared that as a result of German violations of American rights, a state of war really existed. Opponents pleaded that Germany's war of frightfulness was forced by the British blockade which was as much a violation of American rights as submarine warfare.

Forced to Stop Talking The historic sergeant-at-arms' mace, the emblem of the House's authority, was brought into play once to quiet a member. In a debate with Representative Heflin, of Alabama, over Mr. Kitchin's position, Representative Burnett, also of Alabama, exceeded his time and declined to surrender the floor. When Sergeant-at-Arms Gordon appeared with his mace, Mr. Burnett apologized and retired.

Absence of patriotic display was a noticeable feature. The applause for speeches on both sides of the question was scattered at best. Every member was in a serious frame of mind, and they talked and voted with great solemnity.

When a vote finally was taken members quickly dispersed to their homes. The House will not meet again until Monday noon.

The Pacifist Roll The fifty who voted against the resolution were: Almon, Bacon, Britten, Brown,

Burnett, Cary, Church, Connolly, of Kansas; Cooper, of Wisconsin; Davidson, Davis, Decker, Dill, Dillon, Dominick, Esch, Frear, Fuller, Illinois; Haugen, Hayes, Henstey, Hilliard, Hull, of Iowa; Igou, Johnson, of South Dakota; Keating, King, Kinkaid, Kitchin, Knutson, LaPolette, Little, London, Lundsen, McLemore, Mason, Nelson, Randall, Rankin, Reavis, Roberts, Rodenburg, Shackelford, Sherwood, Sloan, Stafford, Van Dyke, Voigt, Wheeler, Woods, of Iowa. Those from Pennsylvania voting for the resolution were: Democrats: Brodbeck, Campbell, Dewart, Kelly, Leshner, Steele, Sterlina; Republicans: Butler, Clark, Costell, Crago, Darrow, Edmonds, Farr, Foeltz, Garland, Graham, Griest, Heaton, Kless, Kreider, McFadden, McLaughlin, Moore, Morin, Porter, Robins, Rose, Rowland, Scott, Strong, Templeton, Temple, Vane, Watson.
