In The Use Of Lumber

It is too often supposed that all kinds of wood will give equal service under all conditions.

The poorest of oak, for example, makes better furniture than the best of ash.

But the best of oak makes a poorer axe handle than the poorest hickory.

We have lumber that is excellent for indoor use, but it would be very foolish to use it where exposed to the weather.

Consult us before you place your order.

Our knowledge of the proper uses of lumber will enable you to make a better selection.

Elderly People Praise Cadomene

Elderly People Praise Cadomene! Sept. 23, 1916. Dear Sir:—I just bought another tube of Cadomene. My wife and I have used one tube and we find them as you state. My wife had become very nervous and irritable, and so had I. I am glad I got the Cadomene as it has made my wife a whole lot better, and they have helped me to sleep, as I was so very nervous. We both are getting on in years, although my wife says she is not old, now and using Cadomene, and I believe it, too, because she is so lively and not cross as she used to be. Cadomene has surely made us feel like New People all right. Find stamp enclosed for Health Book. Respectfully, Hugh Kelsoe, 219 E. Broadway, Muskogee, Okla.

THRILLING WAR MOVIES TO BE SHOWN FOR BLIND RELIEF FUND

"THE BLINDED SOLDIER," SPECIALLY DRAWN FOR THE A. B. F. FUND BY F. C. YOHN, THE FAMOUS AMERICAN ARTIST.

Probably the most remarkable moving picture of the European war which have yet been shown in Harrisburg will be exhibited at the A. B. F. fund's elaborate entertainment Friday, April 13. They were obtained from France by George A. Kessler, of the executive committee of the A. B. F. fund.

The first scene represents actual fighting in the trenches, in which the soldiers become blinded. The blinded soldiers are next represented, being carried from one field hospital to another. They are finally taken to the new especially established hospital for the blinded at Reully in the outskirts of Paris.

Shown Under Training The blinded men are then shown as they are being trained for the different professions which in spite of their loss of sight, they are capable of mastering, such as typewriting, massage, boot-making, etc., with the help of the present wide-spread movement for the blind.

Among a few of the many dramatic individuals are: Bomb explosion in the trenches; ambulance carrying the wounded to the rear; the military hospital, doctor's visit; "blinded"; departure for France's national hospital "Quinze-Vingts"; walking exercise at "Quinze-Vingts"; re-education of the blind; Monsieur Vallory Radot, a leader of the movement for the blind in France and son-in-law of the famous French physician and scientist Pasteur; blind soldiers after lunch hour in the garden at Reully; educating the blinded soldiers, radio work, coopers, basket-makers, chair-carpenters, shoemakers, mounting of a pneumatic tire, lacemaking, macramé, massage, adjusting and fitting mechanical pieces; both teachers and pupils are blind; a piano tuner, who before the war and blindness was a grocer's assistant; blind bugler sounding a dinner call; dinner of the blind workmen at Reully.

ARGENTINA GIVES SYMPATHY TO U.S.

Movement to Enter War on Germany Gains Much Headway

Buenos Aires, April 11.—La Razon publishes a series of interviews with national leaders on the question of Argentinian neutrality. Luis Marie Brago, former minister of foreign affairs, urges that Argentina join the allies against Germany. Senor Brago says:

"I advised our government we should have followed the United States when it broke relations with Germany. Such action was justified by the German notification that it proposed a treaty of crossing war zone, arbitrarily established on a free sea against all conception of international law. The situation is aggravated to-day. The war between Germany and America is a struggle of democracy against absolutism and no American nation can remain neutral without denying its past and compromising its future."

"How can Argentina break the bonds of solidarity with its Latin brothers and abandon its traditional policy to remain in an isolation which nothing would justify? We ought then to prepare to range ourselves as soon as possible with those who are opposing the oppression of an absolute government. We should constitute the material and moral union of this continent for the defense of land and democratic principles in international relations."

Estanislao Zeballos, also a former minister of foreign affairs, believes that Argentina should maintain its neutrality and thinks that a loyal adherence to this policy during the war would assure it the respect of the world. He advises the expropriation of all cereals in Argentina so as to ascertain the exact divided pro rata between Brazil, Chile, Uruguay and Europe.

Approves U. S. Position Edward Bidau, doyen of the faculty of law, thinks that Argentina is not yet obliged to modify its position as a neutral power but that the resolution of Brazil to sever relations with Germany renders it more difficult to maintain neutrality. Senor Bidau approves the decision of the United States and praises the address of President Wilson to Congress. He believes that the government should be prepared to take a firm stand in the event of citizens or Argentinians losing their lives on torpedoed ships.

TREATMENT OF BELGIUM SCORED

Alfred Noyes to Appear Here in S. P. C. A. Benefit; Discusses Slave Raid

Alfred Noyes, who will lecture at the Technical High school Thursday evening, April 12, for the benefit of the Harrisburg S. P. C. A., on "Hunting Submarines," interspersed with readings of his own war poems, is more than a visionary.

Discussing the slave raid in Belgium Mr. Noyes says in The Outlook of January 24: "The worst outrage that can be wreaked upon mankind has at last been wreaked on the wounded body of a conquered people. He says: "And now comes the final outrage. Americans knew something of the meaning of slavery. Have they forgotten?"

Crowning Infamy

In "The Lion of Flanders" Alfred Noyes has given an impassioned arraignment of Germany's treatment of a conquered people. He says: "The world has never known a slavery like this, where innocent men are suddenly torn away from their families in the heart of a highly civilized community, and set to work against the lives of their own people. It is the crowning infamy of Germany, the most damning indictment of her civilization, that she should have perpetrated this appalling horror."

"The world has never known a slavery like this, where innocent men are suddenly torn away from their families in the heart of a highly civilized community, and set to work against the lives of their own people. It is the crowning infamy of Germany, the most damning indictment of her civilization, that she should have perpetrated this appalling horror."

"I have had exceptional opportunities for obtaining the full history of this latest German outrage from the lips of some of the most responsible Belgian citizens, including one of the most distinguished members of the University of Louvain. The evidence proves conclusively that the crime had been long premeditated, and that it is part of the general scheme of German domination. I feel that it is something like a duty to present this evidence to American readers."

Harrisburgers, who may be tempted to be apathetic in our national crisis, should hear Mr. Noyes. The board of reserved seats opens Monday morning, April 16, at C. M. Sigler's, Inc., 30 North Second street. Reserved seats, $1 and 75 cents. General admission, 50 cents.

Representatives of All Entente Nations Banquet in Paris

Paris, April 11.—The entrance of the United States into the war was celebrated last night by a dinner given by the executive committee of the American Relief Clearing House, at which representatives of all the allied nations were present. H. Herman Harjes presided. Mr. Harjes, including to the immense satisfaction felt by Americans in Paris at the accomplishment of an act they had so passionately desired said:

"We have had and happily we still have at the head of our government a man who has inspired us with the greatest admiration and the most complete confidence, a man who watches over the destinies of our country with a conscience and a clearness of judgment equal to any trial we have known. He has made headway against the greatest difficulties and was competent to foresee all the reefs upon our course. We were persuaded that with time he would surmount all obstacles to the great well-being of our country and of the world."

Mr. Harjes spoke with much feeling of American admiration for France and of the joy Americans have in battling with France for the supreme ideal of law, justice and liberty. The company broke into cheers as he proposed the health of President Poincaré. Minister of Justice Viviani expressed the gratitude of France for the help given by the clearing house in relieving the suffering among the French people.
