

GETTING READY FOR THE CLOSING

Lawmakers Studying Bills; Attorney General Brown Will Keep Office Open

Preparations for closing up of the Legislature of 1917 are under way at the Capitol and the printers and sergeants-at-arms of the two houses are busy getting the bills delivered and on the files for the start of the final grind on Monday night. When the two houses adjourned late yesterday they left large third reading calendars to be undertaken and Monday will see the final consideration of bills in the houses wherein they originated.

Attorney General Brown has arranged for his entire force of deputies and all of the attaches of his department to be on duty from Monday noon until the Legislature adjourns so that the legal department can be of assistance on bills. The Attorney General says his department will be open in the evenings the same as during the day.

Governor Brumbaugh, whose desk is piled high with bills, will clear up seventy or eighty in the next few days.

An Unknown Bonus.—State Treasurer Kephart and Adjutant General Stewart have been receiving numerous letters the last week from men in various branches of the armed forces of the United States asking for a $10 bonus for enlistment which does not exist. No such bonus was ever authorized and State officials are mystified to know how the report got abroad. The letters have come from men in organizations all over the country.

To Build Road.—State Highway Department men and machinery were sent to-day to Mount Gretna to prepare for the construction of a state highway through the state camp grounds. The State has built a modern road to the state reservation and the new road will go through it, affording better means of communication between the various brigade camps.

Hearing in July.—The hearing in the complaints of the cities and corporations of northwestern counties against the increase in rates of the United Natural Gas Company will be heard at Oil City on July 12 by Commissioner John S. Rilling.

Seek Merger.—Application has been made to the Public Service Commission for merger of the Millheim Electric Company to the State-Center Electric Company.

Sitting in Pittsburgh.—Members of the Public Service Commission are sitting at Pittsburgh to-day in joint complaints.

New Lieutenant.—Albert Wesley Adams, Phoenixville, has been appointed a second lieutenant in Battery C, First Artillery.

No Time to Change.—The Public Service Commission has dismissed the petition for more train service for Westford, Crawford county. Commissioner Brecht in his decision says that this time of national stress is not the period in which to ask for more train service and that the present service is adequate for the town.

Bond Bill Out.—The Young men authorizing issuance of $5,000,000 of bonds in case of war emergency was reported favorably by the House appropriations committee late yesterday.

Payment Is Made.—The State Defense Commission last evening turned over to L. S. Sadler, executive director of the Public Safety Committee, $20,000 for work of the committee in encouraging enlistments and for food conservation propaganda.

Many Visitors.—Everyone at the Capitol expects a rush of visitors next week. There are many bills on which delegations will appear and the last days of a session always attract crowds.

Asking Bids.—Highway Commissioner Black has asked for bids to be opened July 24, for construction of roads in Foster township, McKean county; Manor township, Armstrong county; and Moon and Hopewell townships, Beaver county. At the same time bids will be asked for road drainage in Summit township, Somerset county.

C. E. Conference at Hershey Elects Officers

Hershey, Pa., June 22.—The sessions of the East Pennsylvania Conference of the Christian Endeavor convention, in the United Brethren Church, came to a close at noon yesterday. The Rev. J. R. MacDonald, of Lykens, conducted the quiet hour, after which the Rev. J. F. Musseiman, missionary from Africa, delivered the closing address, on the subject, "Transformed Individuals."

It was unanimously decided to hold the convention at Lititz next year. Strong resolutions were adopted in favor of making the nation dry during the war, and also urging the young people to support the Red Cross.

The Rev. O. T. Ehrhart, of Lebanon, submitted his annual report, which showed the following interesting figures: Members—active, 4,274; associate, 223; honorary, 228; study class enrollment in missions, 158; in expert endeavor, 12; in personal efficiency, 8; collected for benevolences, $29,135; anniversary offering, $21,577; annual dues paid, $56; total for all purposes, $1,442.69; tithers, 218; quiet hour, 129; united with church, 190. Twenty-six societies reported a gain of 487. The banner societies for the standard were Refton, Mt. Joy and Annville.

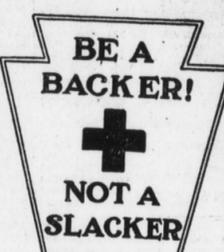

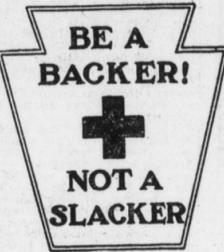

The following officers were elected: President, the Rev. S. C. Enck, D. D., of Philadelphia; vice-president, the Rev. I. N. Seldomridge, of Elizabethtown; recording secretary, Miss Viola Boyer, of Hershey; corresponding secretary, the Rev. O. T. Ehrhart, of Lebanon; treasurer, the Rev. C. E. Boughter, of Reading; junior superintendent, Miss Myrtle Bachman; intermediate superintendent, William D. Krick, of Reading; missionary superintendent, the Rev. H. M. Miller, of Penbrook; press-superintendent, the Rev. O. G. Romig, of New Holland.
