JUVENILE FOOD ARMY ORGANIZES

800,000 Boys and Girls to Aid Uncle Sam in Conservation

Washington, July 27.—Eight hundred thousand boys and girls, Uncle Sam's juvenile food army today entered the food conservation campaign by joining forces with the food training camps to be held this fall in connection with the leading fairs and expositions of the country.

This army is already at work, its members engaged in the canning and drying of thousands of tons of fruits and vegetables which otherwise probably would be a total waste.

It is to these children that the government will delegate the task of demonstrating to the 20,000,000 people of this country the most efficient methods of preserving perishable foods.

Clubs in Every State The step represents the first national interest to make use of the boys and girls in the national food conservation campaign.

The organization, which is eight years old, is made up of the thousands of boys' and girls' clubs, organized by and working under the direction of the Department of Agriculture. These clubs are located in every state and in practically every community.

The boys and girls, according to plans worked out by the government for the food training camps, will demonstrate at these camps methods of canning and drying fruits and vegetables in the most efficient manner.

The girls, in addition will demonstrate methods of efficient home management, including the arrangement of preserved foods into balanced menus for the family, and garment making. The boys will also be in charge of exhibits on poultry husbandry and demonstrate work with farm animals and how to raise crops.

These boys and girls are now being chosen through a series of contests which are being held in the schools and community fairs and picnics and other public gatherings throughout the country.

SOMEWHAT DRAUGHTY Some years ago an Englishman who had been on a boat in the west before was the guest of an American gentleman. They were riding through a Rocky Mountain canyon one day when suddenly a tremendous gust of wind came swooping down upon them and actually carried the Englishman over the wagon seat. After he had been picked up, he combed the sand and gravel out of his whiskers and said: "I say, I think you somewhat overdo ventilation in this country."

GREAT INCREASE IN NUMBER OF AUTOS USED IN STATE

By the end of this month it is believed that the receipts of the State of Pennsylvania from licensing of motor vehicles will be around the $3,000,000 mark. All of this money under the law is to be devoted to maintenance of State roads. Figures compiled at the automobile division of the State Highway department up to July 1 of the receipts of the division for licenses of various sorts, pneumatic and solid-tired machines had run far beyond an previous period. On that day the half rate on licenses for the latter half of the year became effective and the receipts have been from $4,000 to $8,000 a day lately, although they are showing signs of decreasing.

Between January 1 and July 1 this State licensed 368,275 motor vehicles of various kinds and 42 per cent. over the same period of the previous year, which broke records, and the receipts for the same time were $2,913,837 or 48 per cent. over the similar period of 1916.

The biggest jump is shown in pneumatic-tired vehicles, which number over 250,000 and brought in almost two and a half millions. There are now 14,000 trucks and over 20,000 motorcycles. Over $3,000,000 paid drivers have been licensed, a jump of 1400 in number.

Summary of the business shows: Year 1916, Year 1917. Classification, Pneumatic-tired Motor Vehicles, Solid-tired Motor Vehicles, Tractors, Trailers, Motorcycles, Registrations, Paid Drivers, Paid Drivers-Tractors, Dealers-Auto and Trucks, Tractor Dealers, Full Fee, Part Fee, Raise in Horsepower, Transfer and Duplicates, Grand total.

Sheriff Wilson was called about this time and asked to bring a posse of fifty men to Mount Union, and the mob in front of the Welch home gradually dispersed and went up the street. They then went to Officer Wahl's home and two officers stood on the porch and told the mob that only Mr. Wahl's sick wife was there, after which they left and gradually dispersed.

With Fingers! Corns Lift Off

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic drug freezeone recently discovered by a Cincinnati man. Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezeone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn or callus and instantly all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you lift it off with the fingers. Just think! Not one bit of pain or applying freezeone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin. Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on the bottom of feet, shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical. Ladies! Keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

COUNCIL GIVES TRUE STORY OF MT. UNION RIOT

Borough Authorities Investigate Trouble and Put Affairs in the Proper Light

Mount Union, Pa., July 27.—At a special meeting of the council called by President Appleby to investigate the mob violence of Wednesday evening, it developed that the cause of the violence was due to a false report being circulated by mischievous and evil-disposed persons to the effect that a Mr. Waters, arrested the night before, had died from blows received by him and administered by the police.

It became known that these reports had been circulated by a certain person and the council endeavored to ascertain the facts of the arrest and assault and the outcome of the injuries.

Burgess A. S. Welch was present and stated what he knew of the action of the mob the night previous and there were various officers and citizens called to give their testimony in regard to the arrest, assault and the mob violence.

Peckman Striver was called and sworn, and said that on the evening of the arrest he and the two other officers were standing at the Division street subway, when two young men above the age of twenty-one years drove down the street at a very rapid pace. There were a great many people crossing the street below the subway, almost in front of the horse and buggy, on their way to the Buffalo Bill show. The street being crowded, Officer Wahl raised his hand as the two men came, and asked the young men to check their speed, which they did for a moment, but when they had gone past they used language which is not fit for newspaper print to the officers and which the officers left the lines. The conveyance rushed down the street and a woman crossing the street was almost run down by the horse and buggy. Officer Striver told Officer Wahl to arrest the men. Wahl mounted his horse, caught up with them and placed them under arrest. They got out of the buggy, Officers Striver and Tanney starting with them toward the lockup, Officer Wahl taking the horse and buggy to a livery stable.

The prisoners were taken up Division street through the subway and when opposite the Pennsylvania Railroad station Officer Wahl struck Officer Striver a heavy blow on the neck which knocked him partly down, but Officer Striver did not strike back. He then struck Officer Tanney, who hit him with his mace on the head, a scalp wound, from which he bled profusely. They then proceeded up to Shirley street, when young Waters went into an apothecary to which he was subject. No blows were struck however, and his brother told the officers to let him lay where he had fallen and that he would come to himself in a short time, which was done, after which they were taken on to the lockup.

Dr. Gregory who dressed his wounds, was called and sworn and stated that he dressed the wound of the injured man and that it required three stitches to bring the skin together where it was cut on his head but the skull was not fractured and that in the evening between 8 and 9 o'clock Waters and his mother came into the office to have the wound dressed again, the doctor stating that the man's condition was normal, with the exception of the wound, which was healing nicely.

Burgess Welch discharged the Waters boys the same evening of the arrest upon the condition that they appear last evening for hearing.

Joe Heide was sworn and stated that the Waters boys have a reputation for fast driving.

William Stratford was sworn and testified to the fast driving of the boys down Division street and that Officer Wahl had tried to stop them but they checked their horse for a moment and after they had gone past used vile language to him and whipped their horse and came very near running over a woman crossing the street on her way to the show. Officer Wahl was sworn and stated that the Waters boys came down the street at a great pace and that he tried to check them, which they did until they were past, when they curled him and drove the faster. Walter Jenkins, a foreman of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, testified that he saw the Waters boys drive down the street very fast and saw that they almost run down a woman crossing the street and in his opinion the boys were entirely justified in making the arrest as there was great danger of accident on account of the great crowd of people in the street crossing to the Buffalo Bill show.

Councilmen Norris and Rummel stated that Waters and his mother were on the streets last evening and left town about 10 o'clock last evening.

Attorney Hower reported that Frank Heide III, who was not at the meeting and not in town, stated to him the evening before that the assault occurred in his presence and that Waters struck the officer and in self-defense the officer used his mace upon the young man.

It further developed that the Waters boys were allowed to go home the night before on the promise that they would return for a hearing at 8 o'clock, at which time the officers were at the municipal building to give their evidence against the boys. Burgess Welch was also there, but the Waters boys did not appear, but called at the doctor's office later in the evening. When the boys did not appear at hearing, the officers left the building and went up Market street, as well as Mr. Welch, who went to his office on Shirley street.

A large crowd of men had gathered around the municipal building, possibly for the purpose of hearing the evidence given at the hearing which was to take place. As the officers went up the street a couple of small boys hooted at them and there were several men. The officers quickened their steps and finally ran and the crowd after them. They turned the corner at Jefferson street down the alley by the Luna Theater to Division street, crossed Division street and were lost to the crowd.

Then the crowd, which was not a large one, stood on the corner and gradually it became very large and they moved to the corner of Shirley and Division streets, and after standing there for some time, one in a crowd of possibly twelve men urged his fellows to go down to Welch's house. They ran to Welch's house and now there appeared to be a leader who addressed them and made threats of a serious nature, such as burning the town, by which the police, and one fellow actually had a rope, and other threats of violence were made. The mob numbered about one thousand.

At their arrival at the Welch home several citizens attempted to address them, but were hooted down. They made threats, urged on by their leader.
