Giant Detector to Unmask U-Boats and Save Ships

Washington, Aug. 1.—The Navy Department has prepared a comprehensive plan for protecting American shipping from U-boat attacks. As already announced, the department is working on a giant detector which is expected to assist in solving the menace.

While the details of the detector cannot be published, it is known that the department expects it to be effective over approaching enemy mines. It is expected that the detector will be able to stretch the detectors across the regular show at the German bases and thereby locate U-boats as they start out.

While these experiments are pending the department intends to rely upon armed guards and convoys to protect the shipping. Officials are satisfied that proper armament is the best protection for shipping.

STATE'S CROPS IN GOOD CONDITION

Wheat Will Run Somewhere 22,602,500 Bushels, According to Latest Estimate

The State Department of Agriculture's statistical bureau to-day issued a statement predicting that Pennsylvania would have a wheat crop of 22,602,500 bushels. Last year the yield was 25,719,900 bushels.

Berks, Lancaster, Cumberland, York, Franklin, Chester and other eastern counties where much wheat is grown appeared to have suffered considerably from the weather conditions. The season prevented early cutting and after wheat was cut it sprouted.

The statistical bureau estimates that the rye crop will be 4,314,000 bushels against 4,495,400 last year, weather conditions being blamed for the falling off.

Corn is reported to be in a much more favorable condition than a year ago and the acreage is 1,554,434, an increase of almost eight per cent over 1,416,000 last year. Oats is estimated at 32,775,000 bushels against 32,571,000 last year.

No figures are yet in hand for buckwheat but the acreage has largely increased and it is expected that Pennsylvania, which leads the country in buckwheat production, will have a crop that will break all records.
