It was a shock because earlier in the summer the matter of the sewage was taken up between the State and borough authorities and it was agreed that the building of two new septic tanks would meet the requirements and this work is just about completed, and only last week this work had been inspected by representatives of the State Department, who approved the work.

Difficult Problems to Be Decided in This Case

After a lady treats you to a drink—to several drinks, to be exact—hasn't she a right to ask that the favor be returned? And if she insists upon her rights, would you be justified in giving her a beating? These were problems which entered into a hearing at the local police court yesterday afternoon, when Thomas Subbich, 168 1/2 South Ninth street, was held upon a charge of assault and battery.

THIEVES RAID WAR GARDENS

Workers of Plots at Enola Lose Produce Raised During Summer

Enola, Pa., Sept. 7.—Every effort is being made by owners of "war gardens," near Enola to protect them from the raids of thieves. Since the first crops ripened much produce has been stolen from these plots by robbers. They not only take the vegetables away, but they also destroy the remaining crops in order that the owner may not reap any benefit from his labors. So far no person has been arrested although several have been suspected.

The "war garden" project was started last spring under the auspices of the Enola P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. Public Playground League and as a result much of the garden plots. Smith has a pumpkin vine with sixteen pumpkins, all of a good size. Although no prize will be awarded, Mr. Smith has proved his ability as a gardener and hopes to contribute his bit in the form of pumpkins.

High Record of Business at Lemoyne Post Office

Post Office has increased seventy-five per cent, and according to present indications will double itself during the coming year. This new high record was made during the term of Postmaster Oscar Wolfensberger, who was recently appointed, for four years.

OSCAR WOLFENBERGER

Lemoyne, Pa., Sept. 7.—Since the year 1913, business in the Lemoyne Post Office has increased seventy-five per cent, and according to present indications will double itself during the coming year. This new high record was made during the term of Postmaster Oscar Wolfensberger, who was recently appointed, for four years.

Postmaster Wolfensberger took charge of the office, July 15, 1913, shortly after it had been made a third class office. The office at that time was situated in a small room, 13x14 feet, with no modern improvements. Now Lemoyne can boast of having the finest post office along the West Shore. The office is now situated in a room 19x29 feet, with a large plate glass front, and with all up-to-date improvements. There are 3,500 pieces served with mail from this office, including residents of Washington Heights, who do not get their mail by rural delivery. There are about 2,500 people in Lemoyne proper that get their mail at this office.

All records for outgoing mail were surpassed during the month of July. The receipts were much larger than at anytime since Postmaster Wolfensberger took charge. The parcel post mail is exceptionally large for this borough, both incoming and outgoing.

Village mail delivery may come about during the second administration of Postmaster Wolfensberger. Prominent residents of the borough have been talking of starting a move to obtain this service. Two of the most essential things the government requires to secure this service are lights and pavements which Lemoyne already has. There would be two deliveries a day, one in the morning and another in the evening. Three mails would still be sent into the borough, but the noon mail would not be delivered.
