MUST CRUSH MILITARISM TO MAKE WAR IMPOSSIBLE

London, Sept. 7.—Coincidentally with the announcement that Premier Lloyd George will deliver an important speech on the war aims of the allies to-day prominence is given by the newspapers to a statement by Sir Edward Carson to a correspondent in which Sir Edward declares: "There is a great deal of very loose and mischievous talk about peace. Some people seem to imagine we have only to conclude a treaty with Germany and all will be well. But it should like to ask what is to happen then?"

"Are the nations of the world to proceed with preparation for the next conflict—to pursue their researches in science to the expansion and creation of still more deadly weapons of warfare—to spend their resources in the creation of enormous cohorts of airplanes and submarines for the destruction of unfortified towns and the murder of the innocent women and children that inhabit them; to take advantage of the experience gained in this war in the improvement of lethal and poisonous gases for the destruction of humanity? Are we to live in daily terror that at any moment another conflict may arise which might almost lead to the extinction of civilization itself?"

Sir Edward asserted that if this war is to put an end to all war, German militarism must be sufficiently crushed to make fresh aggression by her impossible for a long time to come, "and until it is no longer possible for the German people themselves to be deluded by the legend of their invincibility in arms."
