

PRIMARY FIGHTS VERY NUMEROUS

State Has Unusual Election Contests to Settle at the Polls on Wednesday

Pennsylvania will hold its first primary election under the act of 1917 during the third Wednesday of September as the date for the primary election in odd numbered years two days hence and while there are no state nominations to be made numerous contests for honors in counties and municipalities have contributed to create a popular interest exceeding that in some primaries in gubernatorial years. There are thousands of nominations to be made as not only councilmanic and county official nominations are to be made, but election officers and party committees will be chosen.

The second class cities of Pittsburgh and Scranton nominate candidates for mayor and Harrisburg, Williamsport and a few other cities of the third class where there are vacancies in chief magistracies by death, resignation or otherwise, will nominate aspirants on nonpartisan tickets. They will also select members of city councils on the same plan. Philadelphia will nominate councilmanic and other candidates in the partisan plan as will boroughs. The first class city does not nominate a mayor this year.

Judicial Contests

All judicial nominations will be on a nonpartisan basis. There are thirty-two judicial offices to be filled in November and over 160 candidates filed petitions. There will be chosen twenty-six Common Pleas Judges, three Orphans' Court judges and twenty-two associate judges. The twenty-eighth Congressional district composed of Mercer, Venango, Warren, Forest and Elk counties, will elect a congressman to succeed C. Bleakley.

Five judges appointed by the Governor are candidates for full terms. Four sitting judges are not opposed for nomination. Several well-known judges are facing with big contests. Philadelphia and Allegheny judges are all opposed and lawyers' nonpartisan committees are working hard for them. Liquor enters into many up-state judicial fights as usual.

McCarrell to Be Honored

Dauphin county is one of the districts where a sitting judge is to be supplanted by re-election. Judge J. M. McCarrell will be extended the compliment paid to various judges of the past. Schuylkill county is the only other one in this section which will elect judges. Judge H. Bechtel is a candidate for re-nomination and Judge C. E. Berger, the governor's appointee, for a full term. While Lancaster, Lebanon, Northumberland, Cumberland, Franklin and York counties do not elect judges this year there are so many local contests that they have plenty to hold interest. York has battles on the county offices, while Lancaster is very little to fight about. Cumberland and Lebanon are in the midst of primary campaigns which end fair to last until to-morrow night.

Big "Little Judge" Fights

On the other hand four of Harrisburg's neighbor counties have interesting contests for associate judge nominations. The liquor issue looms up in everyone of them. Two of the counties—Juniata and Mifflin, are "dry" now. Perry county will elect a successor to S. W. Bernheisel, who is not a candidate again. There are three candidates, I. E. Stephens, Buffalo, George E. Boyer, Duaneburg, and the "dry" forces with the other element united behind James J. Noel, a farmer of Toboyno township. In the next door county, Juniata, which is in the same judicial district there are twelve candidates with two sides to be nominated. The "wets" have been consolidating, while the other element is divided. Judge James W. Gilson, of Spruce Hill, is expected to succeed himself, but Judge E. Harley would not run. Mifflin county is also indulging in multiplicity of candidates. There is one judge to be nominated and there are aspirants including Burgess G. A. Leopold, of Lewistown. Mifflin is also a "dry" county. Judge Gottlieb Boyer and A. K. Kuffenbender, of Union, are candidates for nomination with eight rivals. Fulton county has seven candidates for its one judgeship.

Two Are Arrested For Giving Booze to Soldiers

Two arrests were made Saturday morning in connection with the sale of liquor by Harrisburg residents to United States soldiers in uniform. William Fasnacht was arrested at market street subway Saturday night, charged with furnishing liquor to members of Company I, Fifty-ninth Infantry.

HURT IN RUNAWAY

Mount Joy, Pa., Sept. 17.—A badly bruised hip and painful bruises and abrasions about the face and body were sustained by Amos German, of near Ephrata, in a runaway accident. He was driving a team belonging to John Ephren, when the horses took fright and ran off, colliding with an automobile.

PARADE FOR DAUPHIN MEN

Dauphin, Pa., Sept. 17.—In honor of the men drafted into the United States Army, who will leave this district on Wednesday, a large parade will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Everybody is invited to participate.

HURT IN RUNAWAY

Mount Joy, Pa., Sept. 17.—A badly bruised hip and painful bruises and abrasions about the face and body were sustained by Amos German, of near Ephrata, in a runaway accident. He was driving a team belonging to John Ephren, when the horses took fright and ran off, colliding with an automobile.

PARADE FOR DAUPHIN MEN

Dauphin, Pa., Sept. 17.—In honor of the men drafted into the United States Army, who will leave this district on Wednesday, a large parade will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Everybody is invited to participate.

HURT IN RUNAWAY

Mount Joy, Pa., Sept. 17.—A badly bruised hip and painful bruises and abrasions about the face and body were sustained by Amos German, of near Ephrata, in a runaway accident. He was driving a team belonging to John Ephren, when the horses took fright and ran off, colliding with an automobile.

PARADE FOR DAUPHIN MEN

Dauphin, Pa., Sept. 17.—In honor of the men drafted into the United States Army, who will leave this district on Wednesday, a large parade will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Everybody is invited to participate.

HURT IN RUNAWAY

Mount Joy, Pa., Sept. 17.—A badly bruised hip and painful bruises and abrasions about the face and body were sustained by Amos German, of near Ephrata, in a runaway accident. He was driving a team belonging to John Ephren, when the horses took fright and ran off, colliding with an automobile.

PARADE FOR DAUPHIN MEN

Dauphin, Pa., Sept. 17.—In honor of the men drafted into the United States Army, who will leave this district on Wednesday, a large parade will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Everybody is invited to participate.

STATE OFFICERS ARE LAID AT REST

Impressive Services Held at Norristown and Wellsboro on Saturday

Two of Pennsylvania's best-known state officials were buried almost at the same hour on Saturday, many noted men attending their funerals. At Norristown in the presence of the Governor and many prominent men Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart was buried not far from his boyhood home and while the people of Montgomery county seat were paying the last tribute at Wellsboro, on the northern tier, there was buried Robert K. Young, one of that county's long line of distinguished men, former state treasurer, former auditor general and public service commissioner.

On its arrival at Norristown from Harrisburg the body of General Stewart lay in state in the Masonic Temple, and Charity Lodge, No. 190, F. and A. M., of which he was a member, held a lodge of sorrow, The Seventh Regiment, U. S. A., which accompanied the body as a guard of honor on the special train from Harrisburg, acted in the same capacity at the temple, and also as the cortege moved to Riverside Cemetery. There Masonic burial rites were conducted outside and a firing squad fired a salute. A bugler sounded taps, after which relatives passed into the mausoleum with the body, which was laid in a crypt. There was a profusion of floral tributes. But, perhaps, the finest tribute was the bent forms of members of the General's old regiment, the One Hundred and Thirty-Eighth, into which he went as a boy. They were on hand, as were members of Zook Post, G. A. R., of which he was a past commander. In attendance were six British Army officers who came from Philadelphia with Colonel John S. Muckie, one of the honorary pallbearers.

The funerals were conducted by the Rev. Thomas R. Beeber, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. In the lodge of sorrow in the Masonic Temple eulogies were spoken by Judge George B. Orady, past grand master; Grand Master Louis A. Watres, Past Grand Master Luther M. Gorgas, General C. B. Dougherty and General William J. Latta, who preceded Stewart as adjutant general.

The funeral of Robert K. Young, was held from his Wellsboro home and many men prominent in official life of the state paid tribute to his memory. The active bearers were T. A. Crichton, C. E. Bennett, C. W. Williams, George M. Spalding, Evan F. Rees, W. D. VanHorn, H. L. Blatchley, of Wellsboro, and S. E. Hillger, of Auburn, N. Y.

The services, marked by simplicity, were conducted by the Rev. Thomas A. Barr, D. D., of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church. The Rev. A. C. Shaw, D. D., pastor-emeritus of the Wellsboro Presbyterian Church, read Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." Mrs. Mary Robins Mead, of Watkins, N. Y., recited Tagore's "In One Salvation to Thee, My God, and I Have Got My Leave; Bid Me Farewell." She also delivered a brief eulogy.

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

WHEN A BALL PLAYER FALLS IN LOVE

Hugh S. Fullerton has a story in the October American Magazine in which he tells about a ball player who was lonesome for his girl, Gertrude. The scout who discovered him says to the manager of the team: "Here, send this fellow Walter home for a couple of days." "What for?" says Slough. "I need him." "If you don't you're going to lose a young ball player," I said. "He's got a bad attack of the Gerties, combined with a longing for home cooking, and if he don't get home he'll quit hitting." "All right, Mike," says Slough. "Send him and we'll pay the expenses. I don't know how I feel." "When I told Walter to run home he almost cried, and he was so excited he only made five base hits that afternoon and got caught three times standing off the bag thinking of home. He came back to the team the day the season opened and started to make Cobb jealous. Maybe you remember the way he went through the league that first month? He had every paper in the country carrying his picture and saying he was the best since Bill Lange—and it didn't spoil him either. He clipped out everything he saw and sent it back to Lehighville, and he wrote two letters home every day, and one of them was all marked up with crosses."

ALL INDUSTRY TO AID NATION DURING THE WAR

Businessmen From All Parts of Country Assemble at Atlantic City

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 17.—Plans for the co-operation of virtually the entire industrial and commercial interests of the country in the conduct of the war were to be discussed by high government officials and prominent business men from all sections of the country at a special war convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, preliminary sessions of which opened here to-day. The convention formally will open to-morrow and will continue until Friday. John H. Fahy, of Boston, former president of the organization, was the principal speaker at to-day's meeting.

Secretary of War Baker is to deliver the keynote address at the first regular session to-morrow. He will speak as president of the Council of National Defense and will tell the business men what aid the government expects of them in connection with the war. In the afternoon Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, will outline what American business men may do to aid in winning the war. Boris Bakmeteff, Russian ambassador, and Frank A. Scott, chairman of the War Industries Board, and Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Brooklyn, were other speakers which was laid in a crypt. There was a profusion of floral tributes. But, perhaps, the finest tribute was the bent forms of members of the General's old regiment, the One Hundred and Thirty-Eighth, into which he went as a boy. They were on hand, as were members of Zook Post, G. A. R., of which he was a past commander. In attendance were six British Army officers who came from Philadelphia with Colonel John S. Muckie, one of the honorary pallbearers.

The funerals were conducted by the Rev. Thomas R. Beeber, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. In the lodge of sorrow in the Masonic Temple eulogies were spoken by Judge George B. Orady, past grand master; Grand Master Louis A. Watres, Past Grand Master Luther M. Gorgas, General C. B. Dougherty and General William J. Latta, who preceded Stewart as adjutant general.

The funeral of Robert K. Young, was held from his Wellsboro home and many men prominent in official life of the state paid tribute to his memory. The active bearers were T. A. Crichton, C. E. Bennett, C. W. Williams, George M. Spalding, Evan F. Rees, W. D. VanHorn, H. L. Blatchley, of Wellsboro, and S. E. Hillger, of Auburn, N. Y.

The services, marked by simplicity, were conducted by the Rev. Thomas A. Barr, D. D., of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church. The Rev. A. C. Shaw, D. D., pastor-emeritus of the Wellsboro Presbyterian Church, read Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." Mrs. Mary Robins Mead, of Watkins, N. Y., recited Tagore's "In One Salvation to Thee, My God, and I Have Got My Leave; Bid Me Farewell." She also delivered a brief eulogy.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOR CITY COUNCILMAN

James T. Moran is a member of the Harrisburg Republican Club, Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, Spanish-American War Veterans, a member of the Sixteeners Association, Harrisburg Reserves, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

Thomas P. Moran has war record

Local Boy Has Served His Country in Several Wars; Native of Harrisburg

THOMAS P. MORAN Spanish-American War Veteran

Being trained for the military, he entered the regular army at the age of 17 and was assigned to Company B, Twentieth United States Infantry, stationed at Fort Assiniboine, Montana. After being discharged from the army in 1892, after serving five years, he accepted a position with Reinach, Ullman & Company, clothing merchants of Chicago, and represented them in the Black Hills country, South Dakota, resigning later he took charge of the government canteen, Fort Custer, Montana.

After Fort Custer was abandoned "Tom" returned to Harrisburg and accepted a position as military instructor at Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School.

"Tom" later resigned from Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School to accept a position with the Department of Public Safety, Philadelphia, as military instructor, and to make a general survey of the personnel of the police department. Hence, so far as the garbage and police questions in Harrisburg are concerned, "Tom" is well fitted to handle them, as well as the many other civic matters that come under the direction of the City Council.

Photo by Sagami, Honolulu.

TOM ON HIS WAY TO THE PHILIPPINES, 1899

Thomas P. Moran, a soldier of Indian campaigns, Spanish-American war and Philippine insurrection, seeks the nomination for City Council.

"Tom" was born in Harrisburg, Pa., March 6, 1869, being the youngest son of Thomas Day Moran, a veteran of the War of the Rebellion.

At the age of 11 years "Tom" was admitted to the McAllisterville Soldiers' Orphan School, graduating therefrom March 6, 1885. Returning to Harrisburg he entered the employ of the Baltimore One-Price Clothing House.

Being trained for the military, he entered the regular army at the age of 17 and was assigned to Company B, Twentieth United States Infantry, stationed at Fort Assiniboine, Montana. After being discharged from the army in 1892, after serving five years, he accepted a position with Reinach, Ullman & Company, clothing merchants of Chicago, and represented them in the Black Hills country, South Dakota, resigning later he took charge of the government canteen, Fort Custer, Montana.

After Fort Custer was abandoned "Tom" returned to Harrisburg and accepted a position as military instructor at Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School.

"Tom" later resigned from Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School to accept a position with the Department of Public Safety, Philadelphia, as military instructor, and to make a general survey of the personnel of the police department. Hence, so far as the garbage and police questions in Harrisburg are concerned, "Tom" is well fitted to handle them, as well as the many other civic matters that come under the direction of the City Council.

Photo by Sagami, Honolulu.

TOM ON HIS WAY TO THE PHILIPPINES, 1899

Thomas P. Moran, a soldier of Indian campaigns, Spanish-American war and Philippine insurrection, seeks the nomination for City Council.

"Tom" was born in Harrisburg, Pa., March 6, 1869, being the youngest son of Thomas Day Moran, a veteran of the War of the Rebellion.

At the age of 11 years "Tom" was admitted to the McAllisterville Soldiers' Orphan School, graduating therefrom March 6, 1885. Returning to Harrisburg he entered the employ of the Baltimore One-Price Clothing House.

Being trained for the military, he entered the regular army at the age of 17 and was assigned to Company B, Twentieth United States Infantry, stationed at Fort Assiniboine, Montana. After being discharged from the army in 1892, after serving five years, he accepted a position with Reinach, Ullman & Company, clothing merchants of Chicago, and represented them in the Black Hills country, South Dakota, resigning later he took charge of the government canteen, Fort Custer, Montana.

After Fort Custer was abandoned "Tom" returned to Harrisburg and accepted a position as military instructor at Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School.

"Tom" later resigned from Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School to accept a position with the Department of Public Safety, Philadelphia, as military instructor, and to make a general survey of the personnel of the police department. Hence, so far as the garbage and police questions in Harrisburg are concerned, "Tom" is well fitted to handle them, as well as the many other civic matters that come under the direction of the City Council.

Photo by Sagami, Honolulu.

TOM ON HIS WAY TO THE PHILIPPINES, 1899

Thomas P. Moran, a soldier of Indian campaigns, Spanish-American war and Philippine insurrection, seeks the nomination for City Council.

"Tom" was born in Harrisburg, Pa., March 6, 1869, being the youngest son of Thomas Day Moran, a veteran of the War of the Rebellion.

At the age of 11 years "Tom" was admitted to the McAllisterville Soldiers' Orphan School, graduating therefrom March 6, 1885. Returning to Harrisburg he entered the employ of the Baltimore One-Price Clothing House.

Being trained for the military, he entered the regular army at the age of 17 and was assigned to Company B, Twentieth United States Infantry, stationed at Fort Assiniboine, Montana. After being discharged from the army in 1892, after serving five years, he accepted a position with Reinach, Ullman & Company, clothing merchants of Chicago, and represented them in the Black Hills country, South Dakota, resigning later he took charge of the government canteen, Fort Custer, Montana.

After Fort Custer was abandoned "Tom" returned to Harrisburg and accepted a position as military instructor at Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School.

"Tom" later resigned from Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School to accept a position with the Department of Public Safety, Philadelphia, as military instructor, and to make a general survey of the personnel of the police department. Hence, so far as the garbage and police questions in Harrisburg are concerned, "Tom" is well fitted to handle them, as well as the many other civic matters that come under the direction of the City Council.

Photo by Sagami, Honolulu.

TOM ON HIS WAY TO THE PHILIPPINES, 1899

Thomas P. Moran, a soldier of Indian campaigns, Spanish-American war and Philippine insurrection, seeks the nomination for City Council.

"Tom" was born in Harrisburg, Pa., March 6, 1869, being the youngest son of Thomas Day Moran, a veteran of the War of the Rebellion.

At the age of 11 years "Tom" was admitted to the McAllisterville Soldiers' Orphan School, graduating therefrom March 6, 1885. Returning to Harrisburg he entered the employ of the Baltimore One-Price Clothing House.

Being trained for the military, he entered the regular army at the age of 17 and was assigned to Company B, Twentieth United States Infantry, stationed at Fort Assiniboine, Montana. After being discharged from the army in 1892, after serving five years, he accepted a position with Reinach, Ullman & Company, clothing merchants of Chicago, and represented them in the Black Hills country, South Dakota, resigning later he took charge of the government canteen, Fort Custer, Montana.

After Fort Custer was abandoned "Tom" returned to Harrisburg and accepted a position as military instructor at Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School.

"Tom" later resigned from Scotland Soldiers' Orphan School to accept a position with the Department