the drive, the biggest one of all. Its returns may even outstrip Liberty Day, when all records for a single day sales were smashed. Some of the largest subscribers have been holding off until the last day and they will draw their pay to-morrow as expected to come forward and take bonds.

"Every possible agency for facilitating the taking of last minute subscriptions will be available. Banks in most cities will remain open not only during Saturday afternoon but also on Sunday. The day's sale will close only when the last man who desires a bond has bought."

Minimum Goal Passed

Positive evidence that more than $3,200,000,000 already has been subscribed is at hand. The difference between that figure and the total hoped for is great, but the determination to achieve the maximum quota is greater.

Totals for the Liberty Day sales still are incomplete. In Boston and Cleveland districts particularly they are piling up with great rapidity. As an instance of the movement in Boston, the "Daily News" subscribers last night the district's reported total advanced $25,000,000.

The Army Is Loyal

"New York, having passed the one billion dollar mark yesterday, is driving to-day hard for its maximum quota of $1,500,000,000 with high hopes of success."

A letter from the Liberty Loan Committee of Cuba says subscriptions on the island may reach $1,000,000. The first 14 subscribers took $32,250 worth of bonds. Application blanks and posters are being printed both in English and in Spanish.

"TALENT TEA ROOM"

Arrangements have all been completed for the opening of the "Talent Tea Room" by the women of the Camp Hill Presbyterian Church on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. H. PREMATURE OLD AGE

Can Be Avoided When We Obey Nature's Laws

One of the most fruitful causes of old age that comes too soon is an impoverished condition of the blood. There may be many causes for this condition, but in most cases, the victim is more concerned with results and relief. Impaired digestion, nervous exhaustion and perhaps even paralysis are the result of neglected anemia, or starvation of the blood.

The logical relief is to build up the richness of the blood—not to try to whip the weakened nerves and muscles into unwilling action. One element in the blood largely depends on iron. This is found in a most active and condensed form in Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Tablets, compounded with Nux Vomica, Gentian and other remedies that build up blood and nerves alike. These tablets are unlike other tonics because they stimulate only by feeding the blood the most nutritious food.

The action of DR. CHASE'S BLOOD AND NERVE TABLETS is so positive, so remarkable in effect, that patients are urged to weigh themselves before taking the tablets and watch their daily increase in weight.

WIFE OF GOVERNOR PLANTING TREE

State officials were not the only ones to participate in the Arbor Day ceremonies in Capitol Park this morning. Mrs. Martin G. Brumbaugh, wife of the Governor is shown in the above view turning her spadeful in the planting of one of the trees.

CITY AND STATE IN ARBOR DAY EXERCISES

pression of harmonious and whole-hearted co-operation in working out ideas which involved great interests and large expenditures by both city and state was the keynote of the ceremony.

Large Crowds Attend

Long before 10.30 o'clock, the time set for the ceremonies to start, the Capitol Park was lined by people and then the school children from all over the city trooped in from the local celebrations of Arbor Day which were made possible by the city's donations of trees from its nurseries. Capitol policemen lined up the youngsters and the Tech band enlivened things. Promptly at 10.30 Superintendent George A. Shreiner, of the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings, presented Mayor Bowman as the presiding officer. The Mayor was educated in the public schools of the city and the students and pupils gave him a tumultuous welcome.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Bagnell, pastor of Grace Church, made the invocation and then led by the band the school children sang "America" in a way that made the echoes ring about Third and Walnut streets. The Governor and other officials of state and city officials joined in and then the Mayor made a brief address in which he emphasized the way the state officials had helped the city in working out its park system and the interest the city had in the creation of a notable Capitol Park. He pledged support to the steps necessary to carry out the Brunner-Manning plans, and then with a touch of humor referred to the old iron fence, which caused the school boys of some

Interested in Development

"As the Mayor of Harrisburg, I feel it is proper for me to say that all of our citizens are deeply interested in the development and the comprehensive treatment of the park zone which has been provided for under the present state administration.

"We have a continuing pride in those citizens of Harrisburg who have co-operated with the state government in the outlining of the work which has been done in the taking over of the new park area and who have labored with you and with others in making this a great and successful movement.

Making Great Progress

"Harrisburg for a period of sixteen years has been going forward as perhaps no other city in the same size in the United States. We have provided a larger area of street paving than any other city of the same size, hundreds of miles of water works, a unique treatment of an unsurpassed river front, filtration of our water supply and every other thing that makes things worth while for a beautiful and wholesome community. We are ready and have always been ready to co-operate with the state in everything which will contribute to the transforming of this city into an ideal seat of government and the people of Harrisburg in the furtherance of what has been undertaken. These trees planted to-day will live to look down at the city which is now going forward and which in its completed state will be one of the great achievements of your generation.

The Governor's Speech

Governor Brumbaugh, who was introduced by the Mayor, spoke briefly, after referring to the meaning of Pennsylvania the Governor said: "Let us remember the way the province was described and plant trees to-day and the people of Pennsylvania trees to-day and it is particularly gratifying that the state should receive from the nurseries of its capital City ABOVE most of the trees to plant to-day. I wish to thank the city and to say here that in working out the plans we have had the most cordial cooperation and assistance from the city of Harrisburg. It is fitting that the first tree should be named for that fearless character, William Penn. In time we shall have a row of trees named for the governors of our Commonwealth and we should plant, as we plant trees to-day, the white oak. We are planting Pennsylvania trees to-day and to keep Pennsylvania free, splendid and true in all endeavors and in all enterprises."

The Tree For Penn

Mayor Bowman handed the Governor a big spadeful when he finished speaking and the party marched to the white oak to be planted for William Penn. While Thomas D. Beidleman and his assistants in the Capitol force held the tree, Mrs. Brumbaugh cut the first spadeful of earth. Then the Governor took off his coat and gave an illustration of Huntington county shoveling in the days gone by. Commissioner John S. Rilling, State Librarian, and Mrs. Thomas Lynch Montgomery, Superintendent G. A. Shreiner, Secretary William H. Ball, John A. Herman, Deputy Superintendent J. D. Patterson, Forestry Commissioner Robert S. Conklin, Deputy Irvin G. Williams, Commissioner John S. Rilling, City Commissioner E. Z. Gross, Dr. Bagnell and other officials were all drafted to help fill in the tree.

Just as the ceremony was finished Frank J. Zimmerman, of this city, formerly of Altoona, came up and asked to help dig the tree. Zimmerman was born in the old William Penn house in Philadelphia, his father occupying that historic place in 1858 and 1859. The Governor shook hands with him and said that he was delighted to have him help, while Mayor Bowman handed him the spadeful.

The Formal Planting

When William Penn, a sturdy white oak, had been planted right in front of the new Penn-Harris Hotel and the Governor had named the tree, the students cheered and the drummer gave ruffles.

Commissioner Rilling then planted a red oak for Sir William Keith with a brief statement and Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth Frederick A. Godchaux, acting Secretary Cyrus E. Woods, dedicated a fine honey locust at the Dewberry street entrance to Patrick Gordon, third Governor. This tree is right in the line and a fine specimen.

Deputy Attorney General W. M. Harzog, acting for Attorney General Brown, planted the black oak for James Logan, the scholarly fourth Governor and amid cheers from the students and pupils these trees were then planted:

A chestnut oak for James Hamilton by Deputy Auditor General Gabriel H. Meyer, acting for Auditor General Snyder.

A rock chestnut oak for John Penn by Joseph B. LeCompte, assistant Secretary of the State, acting for State Treasurer Harmon M. Kephart.

A pin oak for Richard Penn by Secretary of Internal Affairs Paul V. Houck.

These trees start the "Row of the Governors" and bring the list down to the Revolution. Our trees will be planted along Walnut street as the extension is developed.

When the last tree had been planted and the crowd had broken had overthrown into Fourth and Walnut streets, sang the "Star Spangled Banner," and then the boys jumped the rope and the girls followed them to greet the Governor. The Governor shook hands until his arms were tired and then walked up to the Capitol with a phalanx of youngsters on either arm, and his escort following as best it could in the crush.

Business on the Hill was suspended during the exercises.

County Celebrates

In more than twenty-five of the county schools Arbor Day was observed with outdoor exercises and the planting of trees and shrubbery. County Superintendent Shambaugh announced. This year the Fall Arbor Day was featured in many of the schools and at the buildings in the county districts where no planting was done, programs were given by the boys and girls and the teachers spoke on tree planting and conservation.

In the city trees were planted by a number of persons many of them purchasing the ones offered by the City Park Department.

MAKING MILITARY ROLL

Registrars in the county and city districts are making military roll returns at the county commissioners' office. The complete reports must be in by November 1. County officials said to-day they expect the total will not be as large as that of last year, because of the large number of men from the city and county who have enlisted in Regular Army or National Guard service.

POLICE "GYM" OPENS TUESDAY

Members of the Harrisburg police force will receive physical training in the Y. M. C. gymnasium, Second and Locust streets, beginning next Tuesday evening. Physical Director C. W. Miller will have personal leadership of the class, and the bluecoats will be kept in the best of condition under his instruction.
