GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS DAY OF PRAYER

WHEREAS, Our President has by proclamation called upon the citizens of this country to set aside Sunday, October 28, 1917, as a day of prayer for the safety and success of our people, and the early and triumphant ending of this world war; and

WHEREAS, The President has wisely designated the Christian Sabbath Day for this purpose, thus manifesting his belief that only through God and by the teachings of our Lord, Jesus Christ, can we arrive at honorable and permanent peace and rightly guide the peoples of the nations in their advance to high and holy living;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Martin Grove Brumbaugh, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby call upon and urge all our people to assemble on that day in their several places of worship to pray to Almighty God for guidance in all national and personal duty, and to supplicate our Divine King—the Lord and Saviour of mankind—to bring about a speedy and honorable and enduring peace, "making the kingdoms of this world the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ" and assuring thus to all mankind justice, peace and mercy.

GIVEN under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at the City of Harrisburg, this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and forty-second.

By the Governor.

Father and Son Day Will Be Generally Observed in City

Father and Son Day will be observed in the city and in Sunday schools throughout the state, on Thursday, November 15. This project was promoted by the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, with the object of creating a closer relationship between fathers and sons.

All ministers of city will make a special effort to have the day observed by the members of their congregations. Governor Brumbaugh recently issued a proclamation setting aside this day as Father and Son Day.

On the Sunday previous to Father and Son Day, the Sunday schools have been urged to have programs of the "ebony" classes. The pastors have also been requested to preach sermons on Boyhood to the parents at the morning service.

Next Sunday will be observed as Go to Sunday School Day, all schools in this vicinity are making special efforts to have record-breaking attendances present at the services.
