A characteristic A. H. Woods' farce, "Mary's Ankle" the brilliant New York success by May Tully, "Mary's Ankle" is being presented at the Orpheum to-day, a matinee and night. "Mary's Ankle" was the first of this season's New York successes and is one of the first metropolitan hits to be seen outside of New York this season. Miss Tully, widely known as the first and best writer for the vaudeville stage, has evolved an ingenious and surprisingly amusing comedy out of a novel and interesting idea. The plot of the piece had to do with the escapades of three impoverished young men, who resort to a startling ruse to get some money. The ruse involves a charming young girl, to her infinite dismay, and the discomfiture of the young men, as well as to the delight of the audience, who are presented with one surprising comic turn after another. The play is effectively mounted and acted by a notable company, including: Winifred St. Claire, Robert Lussner, Fred Hanson, Jack Lewis, Nola Mercer, Zaida DeWitt, Roxaine Lansing, Charles Lindholm, Sam Carlton and George Clark.
Surrounding the Majestic's headliner, a pretentious musical comedy, "The Offering" entitled "Getting Into the Ring," in which the clever comedy duo, take part, there is a good comedy show. Comedy honors seem to be equally divided between Fox and Ingraham and Gilmore and a lively song and patter skit that is filled to the brim with laughter. Every line carries a laugh with it, and their song numbers are not only tuneful but original as well and of quite excellent style. Gilmore and Castle, billed as "The Ginger Boys," are two blackface comedians who display unusual versatility. Their mere appearance on the stage creates laughter and any proceeding with a bunch of nonsense and comedy songs that are a sure cure for the blues. Laston, the well-known juggler, who appeared here last season, and one other Keith act, completes the vaudeville bill.
"Pretty Baby" will hold the boards the first three days of the coming week. This is a musical comedy tabloid with twenty-five people, and features the inimitable comedian, Jimmie Rogers in his new, frisky, tuneful comedy. It is claimed that this clever comedian is gaining a still firmer grasp upon his admirers by those who believe in the "Hodges" idea of clean-cut, snappy, everlasting, something-doing kind of musical comedy.
Beautifully costumed and sumptuously mounted and presented, "The MOTH," the big dramatic production playing a return engagement at the Colonial today, serves as an excellent vehicle for the brilliant Norma Talmdage, who is seen in the title role. Miss Talmdage has already shown herself to be an emotional actress of the highest ability and her interpretation of the character of Lucy Gilman, the moth, who was snatched from girlhood and set adrift on society as a matron, is splendid. The picture tells a story of life in a royal social set of a loveless marriage and of a marital tragedy which ends in final happiness to the heroine. In the limiting of this story, it was necessary to have a country estate as the background for some of the important scenes. While the director was cogitating about a "location" that would answer the purpose, Miss Talmdage came to the rescue with a suggestion that her summer residence be thus employed. As a result, when the devoted ones departed with the screen Lucy Gilman's country home, they will be admiring the beauties of Miss Talmdage's own summer home at Beechurst.
The attraction for Monday and Tuesday of next week will be a Metro feature, entitled "The Eternal Mother," in which Ethel Barrymore, the distinguished star, together with the Regent, will be seen to advantage in the stellar role.
"The Hungry Heart," which has been presented to large audiences at the Regent Theater the last few days, will be shown to-day for the last time. Pauline Frederick, who has been in the stellar role, has unusual opportunities for emotional acting. She is called upon to portray every shade of feeling from that of blushing bridehood to the deepest and most jealous passion. The picture was taken around the shores of Lake Michigan, and shows some exceedingly beautiful scenery, which is a riot of fun, and typically Fairbanks, is what the new Douglas Fairbanks films "Reaching for the Moon" producer, coming to the Regent the first three days of next week, is described.
Kerensky, the man upon whom possibly one of the most civilized world looks with admiration, is the hero of the Russian Revolution. The fact that he is apparently in hiding, is a story of a man who has been a revolutionary since the days of the Russian Revolution. The picture is an authentic photo film dealing with the Russian Revolution and in which one of the greatest leaders addressing the Russian people and imploring them to be patient while the Provisional Government is trying to work out the salvation of the new-born republic. Several of the scenes show millions of people destroyed by the revolutionists. Mme.
