My Tongue Was Coated Appetite Was Bad

"Had Headaches --- Would Bloat,"

Says Mr. J. Duffin, 152 Ridge St., Steelton: "I have been ailing for long time with stomach trouble, after eating would bloat, had pains in stomach and a burning, was feverish and dull and sleepy. "I had awful headaches and weak spells, my appetite was bad, my tongue had a nasty yellowish white coat all the time, the whites of my eyes were yellow and dirty looking. "I tried one thing and another but could not get well until Sanpan did the trick. "My appetite is good, no pain nor burning, nor bloating in stomach, tongue is clean, eyes are clear, no longer have weak spells nor headaches and I must say Sanpan is a wonderful medicine." Sanpan is being introduced at Keller's Drug Store, 495 Market St., Harrisburg.—adv.

VICTIM OF HUNS' BARBARITY TELLS OF ATROCITIES

Polish Countess Gives Idea of How Invaded Nations Suffer

Before an audience rendered horror-stricken by her tales of German's fiendish cruelty, Countess de Turczynowicz delivered her lecture on "When the Prussians Came to Poland," in the Orpheum theater last evening before the city Chapter of National War Aid. Tales of Prussian atrocities and of wanton murder followed in quick succession. Following several selections by the Steelton band, the audience sang "The Star Spangled Banner" at the opening of the meeting. Bishop James H. Darlington, who presided, made a brief address, introducing Governor Brumbaugh, who made pleas for food conservation and for Red Cross membership in the Christmas drive.

How Kultur Works

She told of how her son was ill with typhus fever when everyone had left the house and how she had asked for a German physician. Finally he came, demanding thirty marks in gold for a minor operation. The doctor was given a gold watch and other necessities were provided. He deliberately snipped the end of the child's finger off and told her to bind it up. When the physician left he took with him the daughter of the butcher, a sweet, innocent little girl, and used her as a soldier's plaything. Another girl friend who was taken by the Germans, put her juglar vein with the broken fragment of a champagne bottle.

General Von Hindenburg was quoted by the lecturer as being a quarter of 6 feet two inches tall; small, light blue eyes, upstanding gray hair and a most handsome, people face. He had a great liking for coffee and compelled the countess to make it for him in a samovar at each meal. "After you had washed didn't poison him," said the countess. "Well, I'm not a German; I'm an American. In one church a great number of Poles were packed. The church was locked and barred for two weeks. At the end of that time the doors were opened and the Poles were ordered to leave. They scrubbed and the Germans celebrated high mass in the edifice the following Sunday.

Plea For Funds

Finally the countess was allowed to leave Poland. She suffered indignities at the hands of German women on her way to Berlin, and when she reached it her bank capital was ordered to produce identification as an American. Frantically she telephoned to the American consulate and when in aid came to see her he said: "Is it you the needs identification? Why I remember your singing 'The Star Spangled Banner' at an American Thanksgiving dinner nine years ago." After a search of her clothing to the minute detail, the countess and her children came.

Plea for funds to help suffering

A plea for funds to help suffering Poland was made by the lecturer at the close of her address. Auto-graphed copies of her book "When the Prussians Came to Poland," were sold and a collection was taken. Auto-graphed copies of the countess' book will be placed on sale at the Red Cross membership campaign headquarters, 214 Market street, and at the offices in the Fager building. Proceeds from the sale will go to the suffering Poles.

"For the Freedom of the World," a stirring patriotic picture will be shown at the Columbia theater to-morrow and Friday, the proceeds to go to the local chapter of the National War Aid, under whose auspices the countess lectured last night.

Demand on Red Cross For Sweaters Is Unabated

Replying to rumors that no more knitted things are needed for soldiers, Harvey D. Gibson, general manager of the Red Cross, says: "The Red Cross knows that the soldiers and sailors want sweaters and other knitted articles. These goods can be obtained from the Red Cross in single garments only upon individual request; or if in bulk, then upon the request of a commanding officer. How great the need is, is best evidenced by the fact that in addition to the hundreds of thousands of knitted articles produced by our Red Cross Chapters in the last few months we have been compelled to purchase 55,000 extra sweaters—alone in addition to the demands of our Army and Navy we have very urgent demands from commissions abroad for like articles for destitute civilian populations—men, women and children—who, if not actually homeless are very scantily clad and usually without fuel, in this cold weather, to warm their houses."

TO SHOW PICTURE FOR BENEFIT OF WAR AID

Beginning with to-day the Orpheum theater will show the famous film "For the Freedom of the World," a stirring drama of the French battlefields, part of the receipts from which in the exhibition to-day, to-morrow and Friday, will go to the Harrisburg Chapter, Daughters of 1917. The story portrays the adventures of a young lieutenant in the American Legion of Canada, who finally wins a Victoria Cross and a pretty girl. Critics have pronounced this photoplay to be the most fascinating and compelling screen exhibition put out since the war started.

ZEPPELIN BITS SENT TO CITY

Twenty Pieces Picked up by Harrisburg Boy In France

Twenty pieces of Zeppelin L-49, shot down in France October 20, have been sent home by John X. Miller, 223 Boas street, to the members of the J. R. Rote Young Men's Bible class. The letter was endorsed by Captain E. M. Gaspy, of this city. It follows: France, Nov. 3, 1917. To the Boys of the J. R. Rote Young Men's Bible Class: Dear Fellows—I wish to thank you for the birthday cards you sent me. They surely were appreciated. It makes a fellow feel good to get a handful like that. Pardon me for not answering sooner, but in this life one is kept very busy and, although we find time to read sometimes, it is very hard to find time to write. Not that we don't have good times together, but they don't come very often and when they do come we have to make the most of them. As you know, we all landed safely, but not until we had fought our way through, and we surely were glad to see the land of France after such a long journey. The weather on the way over was fine, with the exception of Zeppelins being brought down in France on October 20th. I was fortunate enough to get to see the L-49, which came down in excellent condition. It was a sight I shall never forget because it made a dandy picture as it lay in the valley, the extreme ends resting on opposite hills in such a manner you could walk over it, it measured about 750 feet over all and would make approximately sixty miles an hour, carrying tons of high explosives.

Unless you will find twenty pieces of the envelope, which you can distribute among the fellows. Hope they go around. By the appearance of this machine it must have been through some experiences, as it was repaired in a number of places and carried the German war cross. It was returning from a raid over London, which is its last, when brought down. Wish I could be with you during the coming season for worship and frolic, but, as our President says, "There is but one way for us and we have chosen it." I suppose I will have to make the best of it here for awhile. Uncle Sam is taking mighty good care of his boys here, however, and the Y. M. C. A. is also doing a great work, which certainly helps to make this gruesome job a little more cheerful for us at least. Give my regards to Dr. Bagnell, and also accept them for yourselves. Thanking you again for your kind remembrances and hoping this letter finds you all in the best of health, I remain, Yours sincerely, John X. Miller.

Address, Corp. John X. Miller, Co. D, 1st Inf. U. S. A., France via New York.
