ALLIES REGAIN PICARDY LINES IN BIG DRIVE

military observers say it does menace the British positions there and a further retirement in the next few days is not unlikely.

Southwest of Ypres the Germans now are on a line running from the northwest of Bailleul through Loere, to La Clyte and eastward to the Ypres-Comines canal.

Field Marshal Haig admits a retirement along the canal and Berlin claims the occupation of St. Eloi, two and a half miles south of Ypres. Berlin also says that the prisoners in the present Flanders battle have increased to 6,500.

Kemmel hill did not fall without a struggle and it remains a monument to the bravery of a French regiment which cut off from the allied lines, held out until surrounded on all sides by the Germans. The ultimate fate of the French defenders, fighting tremendous odds, is not known to the allies.

German troops attempted strong counterattacks to retake the hill, but were driven back by the Germans, who are using nine divisions on a front of about eight miles.

The German attack in the north, unless it can gather much greater momentum, does not yet threaten the Belgian line from Dixmude to the sea, although it does affect the British about Ypres. The enemy must advance still further before the Belgians will be compelled to give up the historic line of the Yser which they have held for so many months.

General Radcliffe, director of military operations at the British war office, anticipated an enemy offensive on a bigger scale than yet attempted in a great effort to break the juncture of the British and French armies. He thinks this will fall on the line from Arras to the Somme.

Fighting will continue through the summer and manpower reserve will be brought into the line. According to General Radcliffe, still has the allied reserve army almost intact.

There are no indications that the relations between Holland and Germany are any nearer a peaceable adjustment. The leaves of absence in the Dutch army and navy have been suspended while it is reported the Dutch government is taking certain military measures.

The German press has taken up the cudgels against Holland which threw the little country, alleging that German patience is almost exhausted.

BRITISH TANKS SLAUGHTER HUNS CAUGHT IN A TERRIBLE TRAP

companies were wiped out in a few minutes. The machines returned in such horrible condition from the shambles that they had to be washed down.

One German prisoner had a rough experience with the small tanks and lived to tell the story, although he was much shaken as a result of his unit and was hiding in a shell hole near Cachy when a tank charged directly over the hole. It was deep enough to protect the Germans, but he was so terrified that he lost consciousness and was just regaining his senses when the performance was repeated by a second tank which had escaped in a shell hole.

Prisoners estimate that at least two, and probably three, German companies were wiped out in a few minutes.

SALE OF BONDS IS TO CONTINUE

close until Saturday night of next week," said Andrew S. Patterson, chairman for Harrisburg today. "The fact that the city went slightly over the top is no reason why people should stop buying and there is no indication that they mean to do so.

Indeed they appear to be just getting awake to their duty and the banks are receiving many requests today to take subscriptions to the Liberty Loan button if you have the means to buy a bond to do so.

The man or woman who can scrape the money together or buy on the installment plan and who does not do so is not a good citizen. Not to wear a Liberty Loan button if you have the means to buy a bond is to be disgraced.

The family without a Liberty Loan flag to display, showing that it has invested, ought to be visited by every neighbor who has bought a bond in order to ascertain the delinquency. Of course I realize that there are those whose circumstances such that they cannot buy bonds, but they should be urged by everybody would for a moment censure them.

The people we want and the people all holders of bonds should be after are the fellows who have not bought but can.

More is Coming In When the report came in yesterday showing that Perry, Cumberland and Dauphin county had gone over the top in easy style, the fact that the reports were incomplete was emphasized. If the Harrisburg district does not hear more than $300,000, Uncle Sam's war chest, a lot of Liberty Loan chairmen in the district are going to be very busy.

Junata county was $300,000, and it ran short $105,000, according to the report made yesterday. Donald McCormick, chairman of the Harrisburg district, refuses to accept such a report, and so the drive for Junata county is only just beginning.

A company of the finest Liberty Bond salesmen developed in the district during the three drives here in 1917. The entire county of Junata county at once and secure that other hundred thousand. Every team worker in Junata county is getting out and dig. The entire county will be flooded with a mass of literature until the Junata population is so impregnated with the spirit of the Liberty Bond sale that it will fight for the bonds.

Town Over the Top Liverpool, in Perry county, was announced to be over the top in line for an honor flag. Its quota was $8,000, and it subscribed $14,000 through its citizens and $10,000 through its business firms.

Millersburg, Dauphin county, earned an honor flag. Its quota was $12,000, but the little town considered that the least it could do. It's not finished yet, either. It promises five or ten thousand dollars more.

Kitchener of Khartum

NOT with burial psalms we laid him in old Aibion's soil away. Where all nations with his countrymen could view the shrine each day.

He was sent to help our Ally calling out for sudden aid. And he left his home and army, stern of face but unafraid.

Mid the sands and heat of tropic lands he had shown his fighting worth; To nerve and drill Slav soldiers till they equalled Prussia's might.

And hold the Huns back in the east as the Allies held the west. Not so 'twas fated, for his ship was sunk in fog and gloom.

And deeper sank the hearts of those who loved brave Kitchener. The greatest loss from submarines that has been or will be in white on deck with eyes uplift he drowned in midnight sea.

Even Westminster, whose Abbey is the world's most noted shrine, Could not make his name more famous, nor with greater glory shine.

AMES HENRY PARLINGTON, Will sound his call to service in each wave for evermore. In the murmur of the seashell and the whisper of the breeze,

In the wind each morn from seaward which disturbs its flags and trees. In the cry of seabirds, thunder storms, and the breakers' roar and boom—

Men will hear two voices calling:—Blake and Kitchener of Khartum. Each lad who hears the challenge will grow up a braver man; Each maid will answer: "Here I am, to do the best I can."

His death but crowned a noble life, to God and duty sworn; His name, a help for present stress, and to children yet unborn.

Bishop of Harrisburg. Stars and Stripes of this glorious country, and it was here that we had for the first time the opportunity to make free use of our language unmolested. It was here in America that for the first time in my life I saw the Rumanian flag; the Rumanian three colors sewed together.

That is what makes us so strong in our sympathies for America; makes us love so much our adopted country, and to make whatever sacrifices required from us to see it victorious in this great struggle. We know that the Allies' cause is just. We know that America did not enter the war for conquest, but to save the world for civilization and democracy; for the freedom of small nations, and for the destruction of German militarism, the cause of so many troubles and sins.

"However, we have a few traitors among the Rumanians, too, and the federal authorities were already notified about them, and the investigations are proceeding now as we can't tolerate their insults to us and to our country."

Let America be the safe and sweet home of righteous and just men, liberty makers, us love so much our adopted country, and to make whatever sacrifices required from us to see it victorious in this great struggle. HERSHEY AUTO SHOW'S BIG DAY

Studebaker and International Trucks on Exhibition

To-day is the big day at the Hershey Auto Show. The Hershey Garage, at Hershey, which just opened under the management of George W. Stout, has had a very successful show week. This garage is another addition of the big Hershey family, being a department of the Hershey Store Company. It is located on Hershey's main street, Chocolate avenue, and is sure to be a big feature for tourists to the chocolate city.

The Studebaker touring car, of which it is necessary to simply mention the name, for the majority of people to know, is a good car, and worth any one's time to take a look in on this show and to get acquainted with the surroundings that tend to make a mecca for the motorist at Hershey.

Musical furnished every evening by the Hershey orchestra. The show is worth any one's time to take a look in on this show and to get acquainted with the surroundings that tend to make a mecca for the motorist at Hershey.

NAMES HIS SON AFTER KAISER

John Dinemuth, Alien German, of York, Arrested For His Unpatriotic Actions

York, Pa., April 27.—Charged with celebrating German successes by marching up and down the street in front of his home with a gun, declaring he would rather cut his right hand off than purchase Liberty Bonds, and arrested here yesterday by the local authorities and placed under bond of $1,000 at a hearing, the rest was made at the direction of District Attorney Rochow. Dinemuth lives in the city, but his home is in the city, and is employed on the night shift at the York Silk Mill.

It was only recently that a son was born at the Dinemuth home, and it was named after Kaiser Wilhelm. When quickly that the result of the first salvo was most promising. Two heavy shells exploded 250 yards north of the big gun, tearing up the railroad tracks leading to the concrete gun platform. The firing was continued, getting closer and closer until finally two enormous shells went through the camouflage. Two formidable explosions were heard, and the discomfited Germans saw Bertha damaged beyond repair, with a rent fifty feet long in the barrel. The two shells, however, were plainly through the camouflage two gaping craters in the platform.

French gunners then set about preparing to destroy the third Bertha, but thus far they have not succeeded, for shells arrived in Paris again during the small hours of the night.

New York, April 27.—The German people are informed that the long-range guns now bombarding Paris mark the greatest progress in the development of firearms since the invention of powder in an eulogistic article sent out by the semi-official Wolf Bureau and published in the German newspapers under a Berlin date on March 25. The Wolf dispatch adds:

"In va'n our enemies are racking their brains to solve the secret of our giant cannon with which we are bombarding Paris. They believe they have found the solution in an Austrian long-barreled cannon."

The Cologne Gazette of March 21, a copy of which has been received here, says:

"The forty-two-centimeter mortars in August, 1914, smashed fortresses which had been built in the history of the world as modern and impregnable. At that moment there began a new period of the construction of fortresses."

"The 21st of March, 1918, brought the technical wonder of the 120-kilometer cannon and with it the beginning of a new era in the history of the construction of cannons, which, however, may be of far greater importance on the course of the war and perhaps for peace than the forty-two-centimeter mortars."

Plenty of Food on Hand, Survey of City Shows; Use of Potatoes Urged

An abundance of all commodities, which total 2,510,300 pounds, was reported by the York County Food Administrator in the weekly survey of foodstuffs in the hands of wholesale dealers this morning.

Potatoes continue to be the most plentiful of all vegetables and their continued and constant use is urged. Dried fruit, too, is still plentiful as are canned fruits and vegetables.

The amount in the hands of the wholesalers is probably equaling by the amount that has been sold to the public. The total being a supply ample for the communities needs for a number of days.

Detailed reports show: Flour, 464,000 pounds; cornmeal and flour, 131,000 pounds; oat meal and rolled oats, 184,000 pounds; beans, 185,000 pounds; meat, 88,000 pounds; canned goods, 640,000 pounds; sugar, 40,000 pounds; rice, 1,050,000 pounds; lard and lard substitutes, 42,100 pounds.
