

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS OF INTEREST TO EVERYONE

C. A. O. SOCIETIES MEET TO KNIT

Girls Make Many Much-Needed Articles For Local Red Cross

When the members of the C. A. O. Societies meet these days they dispense with real frivolity and devote their time to knitting for the Red Cross. The quilting bees of years gone by are quite inferior in comparison with their informal knitting parties.

To-night Miss Romaine Boyer will be hostess for the members of the 1917 C. A. O. Society at her home, Third and Briggs streets.

The members who will gather for a pleasant evening with knitting, chatting and refreshments, include: Miss Helen Wall, Miss Mary Alma Allin, Miss Caroline Hahn, Miss Beatrice Bacon, Miss Martha Cresswell, Miss Evelyn Speakman, Miss Arlene Moyer, Miss Getha High, Miss Gertrude Weston and Miss Katherine Simonetti.

Miss Kinzer Hostess
Miss Mary Snyder Kinzer will be hostess for the members of the 1916 C. A. O. Sorority at her home, 2127 North Second street, to-morrow evening.

Her guests will be: Miss Sara Maloney, Miss Sara Morgan, Miss Sara Hoffman, Miss Gertrude Edwards, Miss Florence Rinkenbach, Miss Mary Garland and Miss Hazel Rexroth.

ENJOY PLEASANT TIME WITH MISS D'ANGELO MELOY
Miss Blanche Meloy pleasantly entertained for a few friends Saturday afternoon at her home, 909 North Fifteenth street.

The guests included: Miss Catherine Sweeney, Miss Anne Sweeney, Miss Martha Wall, Miss Anna Brennan, Miss Catherine Kuhn, Miss Mary Reichhold, Miss Lucretia Behndorf, Miss Faith Paze, Miss Olga Moly, Miss Julia Zudrell and Miss Blanche Meloy.

DR. KANN RETURNS
Dr. Frank R. Kann has returned much improved in health from Rose Valley Farm, near Media, where he has been for the past month. Dr. Kann will not resume his practice for several weeks. He suffered a breakdown due to overwork and has spent most of his recreational period out of doors, returning bronzed by the sun and having gained in weight.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Etter, of 209 Fifth street, have returned home after a little trip to New York and Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hockenberry and children, in Belmont, spent the weekend in Wildwood, N. J.

ORGAN RECITAL PLEASURES MANY

Charles Heinroth, of Pittsburgh, Plays Wonderful Program at St. Stephen's

Rain did not daunt the throng of Harrisburg musicians who went to St. Stephen's Episcopal Church last night to hear Charles Heinroth in his magnificent organ recital. Several hundred persons, most of them lovers of noble and dignified organ music, braved the storm to catch the evening's inspiration. And such music!

Fittingly, the program opened with Rossini's famous and ever-popular Overture to "William Tell." The two parts of the overture were brilliantly rendered. The entire composition is a tone picture, a picture of a storm and a picture of the dawnning light when the world is fresh and new. Rossini seems to have brought the morning fragrance into this masterpiece of his.

The "Drowsy Nocturne in A Flat" from the "Opus 9" by Frederic Chopin, struck a responsive chord. There is a dreamy beauty to it that always attracts the musiclover. The familiar and well-known "Allegro Cantabile" and "Toccata" from "Widder's" "Symphony No. 5 in F Minor," followed. The "Toccata" movement is the most famous of his pieces, known because of its staccato movement in the manner of "perpetuum mobile." McFarlane's "Spring Song" set the number; following the offering for the Red Cross. It is a composition seemingly based on the song of a bird in springtime. There is a fresh sort of beauty to it, which is appropriate in this spring-time season.

Interesting Numbers
No organ recital would be complete without a touch of the pen of the man who has brought the organ well on its way to present eminence. "The Fugue in D Major" was magnificently played, displaying the full majesty and brilliance of the composition. A whimsical oddity, "Funeral March of a Marionette," by Charles Gounod, followed. The finale, "L'Arlesienne Suite," by Georges Bizet. An old French folk song and a dance form the foundation of the composition and after introducing these separate melodies the climax is reached when the organist plays in a sort of hysterical frenzy, a delightful ecstasy, the closing bars.

The organ was in excellent condition. The few organists who have played in this city during recent years who have so well pleased their audiences as Mr. Heinroth. The grace to his playing which makes one forget the technicality of sections. In hearing him the listener is no thinking of fingering and pedals and keyboards; there is too much harmony for that. The musician leads his hearers away from the land of technique into the land of sunshine and noble harmony.

PATHETIC SCENES AS ARMY QUOTA LEAVES

This morning a young woman, well-dressed in a military suit of brown, stood for half an hour waiting outside boys in front of the local Draft Board No. 1 headquarters. As these boys started to march toward the headquarters to be drafted, the girl rushed in and sank to the pavement. Bystanders rushed her into the theater, where, when she recovered, she begged them not to "take him," and to let her go with him. They had already taken her brother.

Expect Good Reports

The absence of any band or music of any kind at the station accentuated the seriousness of the moment, and seemed to add to the hardship of waiting. It was a relief, however, that has yet left the city, but the draft boards which sent those men expect to hear great reports of them. Eighty-nine of the men were from the city and the rest were sent by the three county boards. The men showed up at their draft headquarters yesterday for final instructions, and no delinquents were reported by any of the boards.

More than a hundred of the registrants called at the Red Cross headquarters yesterday and received comfort kits and sweaters.

The men sent by the three city and county boards were:
