GAUJOT FAMILY FIGHT PRUSSAINS

Fourth Generation of Soldiers Glad to Fight For France Under American Flag

Miss Marguerite Gaujot, of Ridgefield, Conn., who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. John J. Hursh, Green and Woodbine streets, left for home yesterday after a most delightful stay in this vicinity.

Miss Gaujot is a daughter of the late General Ernest Gaujot, of London, who was a soldier in the employ of the Mikado to organize the royal engineers on the American plan. For his work, the Mikado gave him the title of Lord and General in England.

For four hundred years the Gaujots have lived with Rochambeau in the American Revolution, in 1776, another in the conquest of Algiers, while others have figured in the wars of France. This Antoine was a body-guard of General Lafayette and his sword is now in possession of the family in this country.

may fight the Prussians for Alsace-Lorraine. Three Now in Service Miss Gaujot's three brothers in the service are Colonel Julian E. Gaujot, of the 15th Cavalry, Regular Army; Rene Gaujot, of the Aviation Corps, both in France, and Captain Antoine Gaujot, of the National Army, now ready to "go over there." Colonel Gaujot was provost marshal of General Pershing's headquarters in the recent Mexican campaign, receiving a medal of honor for services in the Douglas border affair. Captain Antoine Gaujot has also received a medal of honor for swimming a river under fire in the battle of San Mateo, Philippine campaign.

Connected with this family of gallant soldiers is Dr. Robert Hursh, of this city, who has just received his commission in the Medical Reserves, National Army.

PIANO STUDENTS GIVE A CONCERT

Pupils of Mrs. Froehlich's School of Music Heard in Delightful Recital

Harrisburg has always had the best interest of her musicians at heart—the testimonial concert given Sara Lerner and the numberless appearances of local artists on local concert programs is surely enough proof of this. But, even to music-loving Harrisburg came a revelation last night, a revelation of the talent of some of the city's younger musicians. The recital given by students from Mrs. M. Pfuhl Froehlich's School of Music displayed musicians, some of whom are destined to find their names in the "star" column ere many years have passed.

"Pussy Cat," played on two pianos by Evelyn Edwards and Grace Edwards, was the opening number. Peter Ehler played Orth's "Merry Blue Eyes," and Margaret Haas, Thorne's "Heater Bell," "Serenade," played by Genevieve Mitchell, showed her command of the keyboard. Schytees "Demand of the Ghonies," "The Sylph," played by Edward Dowling, and Moritz Moszkowski's "La Serenata" was presented attractively by Anna Mae Lightner. George Sutton led in community songs, founded a ready-made Stephen Foster's beautiful old memory-song, "Old Folks at Home." Marjorie Russ played the Beethoven-Godowsky "Rondino" magnificently. She was followed by Mary Switzer, Eleanor Henschen, Josephine Roberts and Ethel Brightbill, who played the ballet music from "Romantic" coming from the pen of Schubert, the Schubert's "Menuetto," "Menuetto" was played by Sara Gross and his "In Praise of Tears" and "Faith in Spring" found voice from the golden throat of George E. Sutton. Mr. Sutton sang Schubert's "Spring Night." His noble baritone was shown to great advantage in these numbers. Henrietta Stonosier played the "Huneeke" in B minor, by Levine, and Haze Akens showed almost flawless technique and rare powers of expression in her playing of a Schubert "Impromptu." The "Spring" founded a ready-made place in the hearts of all Grieg lovers who heard Myra Sheesley play it. The audience, under the leadership of Mr. Sutton, sang "Dixie Land," Miss Ruth Winters, playing Cecile Chaminade's famous "Arabesque" with smoothness and a sureness that won loud applause. The ecstatic song of the lark soaring in the sky seemed to be caught in Ruth Shopp's playing of Leschetzky's "Two Larks." Like a fragrant spring-time memory was Mozart-Kullak's "The Violet," played by Sara Markley. Both Miss Shopp and Miss Markley showed signs of great musical ability in their playing.

Food For Enemy Children Snatched From Them When Picture Has Been Taken

Washington, May 3.—Austrian military authorities, in order to convince neutral countries of the humane and charitable care of enemy children taken by them in occupied territory, assemble these children before a feast and photograph them, then take away the food, according to an official dispatch received yesterday from Rome. The dispatch said: "On February 23, last, in the market place of Feltre thirty-six children were gathered together by order of the enemy authorities to receive a present of bread. When they had received the bread, their smiling faces were photographed by the operator placed there for the purpose. Then the bread was taken away from them and they were sent to their homes with threats and curses. "It is clear this photograph was designed to be sent into neutral countries to prove to neutrals the happy condition of the population of the invaded country and the humanity of the invaders."

One of the many interesting entertainments arranged by the Story Tellers' League, an organization of women in this city took place last evening at the home of the Friends, Fifth and Muench streets. Mrs. W. C. Entertainer gave two of the "Toll Lib" stories which were highly appreciated. An original story by Mrs. Edna Groff Deihl, of Paxtang, followed. The program was closed with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "God Save Our Splendid Men." About forty guests were present last evening.
