Small American Unit Apart From Artillery Blazes Way Out, Leaving Enemy Dead

By Associated Press With the American Army on the Marne, July 16.—A corporal who participated in the fighting at the Marne said the enemy established a box barrage at midnight and kept it up until 7 o'clock in the morning. The Americans went half a mile from the Marne and the Germans were on a hill on the other side of the stream. When the Germans attempted to cross the Marne the Americans went through the barrage shouting with enthusiasm and worked their way to the river front, where at last reports the fiercest fighting was progressing, but the Germans were slowly being driven back.

Man Injured When Truck and Trolley Collides

Riding on the side of a truck of the Highway Department, Gritt McGowen, colored, an employe of the department, was severely injured last evening when the truck collided with a car of the Harrisburg Railways at Front and Lincoln streets.

McGowen was pinned beneath the body of the truck and was severely bruised and cut. He may have suffered internal injuries. After receiving temporary treatment at a Steel Work Emergency Hospital, he was sent to the Harrisburg Hospital. The car of the truck was badly damaged later when it came at a high rate of speed down the Lincoln street hill and turned wide into Front street. It was driven by Roland Orr, another highway employe. It will be out of commission for some time.

HURT IN STREET COLLISION Daniel McGowen, colored, 21, sustained a fracture of his left shoulder and head injuries in a collision between a motor truck and a street car in Steelton last evening. He is employe of the Harrisburg Railways of Steelton. It is said the street car struck the truck on which he was riding. He was brought to the Harrisburg hospital.

FIFTY WORKMEN ARE DRIVEN TO YORK [Continued from First Page.] Fifty skilled workers make this journey daily—practically a carload each way every day—all because they can find no houses for their families in Harrisburg. Others in the same plant come daily from Carlisle, Mechanicsburg, Dauphin and a score of other towns—wasting time needlessly and congesting the railroads. These men can find no homes here and the management, which has tried to locate them in good boardinghouses, find that all such places are crowded and so many are trying to handle business beyond their capacity that conditions have become bad.

Not a House in Steelton The Chamber of Commerce had a canvass of Steelton made last week to ascertain if any relief for Harrisburg could be procured in that quarter. The result showed not one decent house for rent in the town anything, conditions are worse there than here. A few buildings not fit for human habitation may be had—but not one house that would pass muster of a board of health inspection, the report says.

Steelton has been able in some degree to meet increased business by the installation of labor-saving machinery, but even so the war has caused a vast increase in population and the labor turnover there is much heavier than it would be if workmen could procure good houses at reasonable rentals.

Coming back to Harrisburg, one of the largest steel workers reports that it is unable to operate at capacity because men cannot be induced to accept local housing conditions. Ninety-five per cent. of this firm's work is for the government. It could employ probably 200 men more than are now at work if they could be persuaded to remain in Harrisburg, and the management admits, that lack of housing is the obstacle.

Houses Needed C. L. Scott, of the Harrisburg Manufacturing and Boiler Company, has no doubt that the erection of several hundred modern houses to rent at a reasonable figure, would help his labor situation. He now needs from 75 to 100 skilled mechanics quite badly. Since November 1, 1917, the labor force has been doubled and during that time the turnover has been considerable, but steady by the erection of suitable houses would do much to stabilize this.

The Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Works is not at present in any very bad need of men here, but the labor turnover is now twice what it was before the war. Erection of suitable houses would do much to reduce this to a minimum.

Going to Washington Secretary Jackson, of the Chamber of Commerce, announced today that he would accompany President Patterson to Washington tomorrow to lay Harrisburg conditions before the federal government. The Chamber will ask for help and will request that a expert be sent here to make a study of conditions.

Needs More Men That the erection of several hundred modern houses to rent at reasonable rates to the workmen of Harrisburg would tend to encourage the laborers employed in the city and vicinity to settle here permanently and remain at their jobs steadily was stressed by Frank A. Robbins, general manager of the Bethlehem Steel Company plant at Steelton, yesterday.

Mr. Robbins said his greatest labor needs is unskilled laborers, and he needs several hundred of these. The labor turnover, he added, is very much greater now than before the war. It is difficult to get unskilled laborers to remain at one job for more than a few days at a time. The unskilled laborers who are making large wages at munitions factories are coming more and more to constitute a huge floating population, remaining at work for only a short period at a time.

Obviously, the abolition of several hundred modern houses, he said, to be rented at sums within the reach of the laborer and his family would be an important step for the laborer to settle near Harrisburg. He contributed his endeavors to a community in which he could prosper best.

Mr. Robbins said that the unskilled labor problem is his greatest trouble. He agreed to the need of a means that would keep the laborers at work steadily, as the management of the huge plants at Steelton is greatly inconvenienced by the present loafing habits of the laborers.

British Fight Sharply to Strengthen Lines; Hun Guns Busy in Night

By Associated Press London, July 16.—In an operation conducted last night in the region east of Amiens the British improved their line, after sharp fighting, in the Villers-Bretonneux sector, the war office announced today.

The German guns were busy during the night in the region south-east of Albert and showed some activity in various points on the northern part of the British front.

Rapid Progress Is Being Made in Construction of Marsh Run Warehouses

Fine progress has been made on the government operations near New Cumberland. Major Morava stated today that he hoped to complete the buildings by the first of October. One of the large warehouses has been already completed and a large part of it is ready for the reception of government stores. Ten warehouses are under construction and the big job is more than fifty per cent finished.

Colonel Peter Junkersfelt and Lieutenant Col. D. H. Sawyer were here from Washington on Saturday and made an inspection of the work under Major Morava's direction. They represent the construction department of the Army.

There are now on the big undertaking over 3,000 men and it is expected when the job is completed that at least 1,000 men will be regularly employed, including about 500 soldiers.

An improved highway is being constructed from New Cumberland through the reservation to New Market.

A One-Man Liberty Loan

All patriotic citizens who are "doing their bit" in buying Liberty Bonds of the first, second and third series, may realize how important every individual subscription is when the war loan of 1812 is considered.

The people of the United States had subscribed for less than fifty per cent. of the $16,000,000, when Stephen Girard by his great subscription enabled the Government to float the loan. To-day the loans in this country are nearing the sixteen billion figure.

The name of Stephen Girard in public bequests—having given the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania $300,000 and $6,000,000 to the City of Philadelphia. By careful investments his various trust funds created by his will now amounts to over $32,700,000.
