Wends His Weary Way Into Y. W. C. A. For a Drink

"Gimme a Scotch highball," demanded a stout and inebriated gentleman who walked into the Y. W. C. A. recently. "I beg your pardon, sir, but this is not the bar," explained Miss Elin M. Stitt, general secretary, who chanced to be at the desk. "Well, where's the bar, anyway?" the inebriate inquired. And the elevatorman took the stout gentleman to the basement, where he found an ice-water cooler. "Say, where's the bar?" he demanded. "We don't have a bar, sir, this is the Young Women's Christian Association."

POLES AND WIRES AT PENN-HARRIS TO COME DOWN

City Electrician Informs Council Improvement Is Promised by Western Union

City Electrician Clark E. Diehl, speaking informally before Council to-day, assured the Commissioners that the Western Union Telegraph Company will remove its poles and wires in Walnut and Third streets in the vicinity of the Penn-Harris Hotel in the near future. Mr. Diehl also explained that the company is completing arrangements to remove the long line of poles in Derry street, from Cameron to Twenty-ninth street.

It was explained that the American Telegraph and Telephone Company has completed plans for placing underground all the wires in Walnut street and the removal of the tall poles from the railroad to the river, but owing to delay in getting cable could not proceed with the work until next March.

Mr. Diehl appeared before the Commissioners to confer with them on a number of questions brought to the attention of the city. One of these is in connection with provision for fire protection for the State Hospital near Cameron and Maclay streets. It is planned to have a fire alarm box at the institution and to connect it with the city line so that if necessary Harrisburg companies can be called. Council must pass an ordinance authorizing the work as the hospital is outside the city limits.

Part of the Penn-Harris Hotel plans may necessitate removal of a city cluster-light standard at Third and Walnut streets, Mr. Diehl said. He asked Council's opinion but the Commissioners said they would defer action until a definite proposal was made by the hotel company.

Men of Liggett's New Corps in Big Battle

Washington, July 16.—The Americans participating in yesterday's battle in France included part of Major-General Hunter Liggett's First Army Corps. Whether all six of the divisions in this newly-organized corps took part is not certain, but there can be no doubt that the Second Regular Army Division, commanded by Major-General Bundy, and which included the Marine Brigade, was heavily engaged in the fighting, as this division has been stationed east and west of Chateau-Thierry, and includes the infantry and artillery regiments of the Regular Army which captured Vaux at the beginning of the present month.

TEN DEALERS AT MARKET
Ten dealers attended the Kelker street curb market to-day, all of them selling out in a few hours. George Nabinger, city inspector of weights and measures, reported a large variety of vegetables including green corn, was sold at the market.

The commissioners also directed the surrender of the bond which had been furnished by Harry D. Reel, former city inspector of weights and measures.

CITY APPROVES PLANS FOR NEW READING BRIDGE

Council Unanimous in Voting of Big Concrete Structure For Railway

Plans for the new concrete arch bridge which the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company intends to build across the Susquehanna river to replace the present iron structure were approved by City Council to-day. A resolution to that effect was introduced by Commissioner W. H. Lynch, and was passed unanimously.

According to the plans, only one of the piers will affect the River Front. This pier will be located at the foot of Paxton street and just beyond the concrete river wall at that point. The railway company proposes to construct the wall and walk at this place out to the pier, in the space of six feet with concrete. Council approved the plan providing all expenses for the work are paid by the company and that the city is not compelled to pay for any damages which may result from the erection of the new structure.

To Start Soon
The company in its letter to Council sent by the attorney for the railroad announces construction work will start as soon as the necessary filling in has received from the government. The new bridge will eliminate the dangerous curve allowing a wide radius corner and will help to better traffic conditions at the approach to the bridge.

Another improvement planned by the city highway department is the paving of Derry street from Cameron street to Sylvan Terrace. Bricks and curbing for this work have been removed from the Capitol Park extension zone, and as soon as other repair work on city streets is completed the paving will be started. Highway department gangs at present are repairing paving in Rely and Sixth streets.

TO ELIMINATE DANGER CURVE AT VIADUCT

Hill Improvements to Include Paving of Derry Street to Sylvan Terrace

One of the most important building district improvements in recent years may be started within the next few months at Fourth and Chestnut streets, according to plans which have been prepared by City Engineer M. B. Cowden, in connection with the widening of Chestnut street at the approach of the Mulberry street bridge.

Several months ago when the owner of the property at the southwest corner decided to erect a large building for stores and a garage, a large strip of ground 27 feet in width and more than 100 feet in length was offered to the city in exchange for closing small alleys which were seldom used.

Council and the City Planning Commission approved the plans and building operations were started at once. Recently the railing and posts on the west side of the bridge at Fourth street were removed when the concrete pavement to the building was completed. As soon as the other construction work is advanced far enough, the city's plans for widening the street, Chestnut street from Fourth street to a point 105 feet west, will be started. According to city officials this will eliminate the dangerous curve allowing a wide radius corner and will help to better traffic conditions at the approach to the bridge.

Another improvement planned by the city highway department is the paving of Derry street from Cameron street to Sylvan Terrace. Bricks and curbing for this work have been removed from the Capitol Park extension zone, and as soon as other repair work on city streets is completed the paving will be started. 300 "Sea Soldiers" Are Given Commissions

Washington, July 16.—"Soldiers of the sea" from Pennsylvania were among 300 enlisted men of the marine corps commissioned as second lieutenants at the graduating exercises of the marine corps officers' training camp at Quantico, Va. The new officers have completed a three months' course of intensive training. French and English instructors have given them first-hand information of the art of modern fighting. Military texts and lectures have been supplemented by mimic warfare.

The camp is the first of its kind held by the marine corps. The students were picked from the enlisted personnel as promising officer material by selection boards. Another class of 125 will graduate next month. Central Pennsylvania men who were commissioned, their nearest relatives and the time and place of their enlistment follows:

Private Frank X. Bleigher, Altona; enlisted at Philadelphia, April 16, for fourth enlistment.
Sergeant William J. Jones, mother, Mrs. Alice Cranage, Mount Carmel; enlisted at San Francisco for second enlistment August, 1916.
First Sergeant Robert P. Moyer, mother, Mrs. R. A. Moyer, Lewisburg, enlisted at Altoona, July 1, 1917.
Private James C. Norton, father, James E. Norton, Beating; enlisted at Philadelphia, July, 1917.
Private Gail D. McDowell, mother, Mrs. Ida May McDowell, Altoona; enlisted at Washington, December, 1917.
Private Edward B. Irving, father, D. Edward Irving, Chester; enlisted at Philadelphia, April, 1917.
