

GRAIN MOTH IS PROVING COSTLY

County Farm Agent Preparing to Demonstrate Plans, to Save Wheat

By H. G. NISLEY
Undoubtedly, the most important question is confronting the farmers...

With the bumper wheat crop now in the barn, the question with the farmer is shall we lose hundreds of dollars worth of wheat, as we did last year and year before, or shall we be able to market our entire crop.

The original infestation occurs during the summer, while the grain is still in the field. The moths lay their eggs on the ripe heads of the grain...

Arrangements are now being made by the county agent to hold a number of actual demonstrations, in the granaries of such farmers that are centrally located...

demonstrations, in order that each may be made thoroughly familiar with the procedure and the principle involved.

1. Be sure your granaries or bins are tight. If holes or cracks appear in side of floor, paste them shut with ordinary paper, floor paste will be satisfactory.

2. Thrash as soon as the wheat has gone through the customary threshing, preferably four or five weeks after putting in barn.

FEWER HENS ON THE STATE FARMS

Decline in Poultry Raising Is Cause of Comment in Agricultural Bulletin
A decrease of almost twelve per cent in the number of hens on Pennsylvania farms as compared with a year ago is reported by the State Department of Agriculture in its weekly crop bulletin, which also notes that there is a shortage of about eleven per cent in the chicks hatched this year as compared with 1917.

Because of the severe winter and killing of the birds, it is estimated that the number of hens on the State farms will be about 1,000,000 less than last year.

Farmers are being urged in the bulletin to thresh wheat early and to plant the grain early, but to plant late. Tractor plowing is advised because of the deep seed bed, while it is also suggested that much of the Pennsylvania farm and which is now given over to the corn, oats and clover rotation be changed to allow wheat to follow oats and then have the field in grass.

It is declared that there are good opportunities for more wheat being raised in northern counties if acclimated seed is chosen. Immediate placing of orders for fertilizer is urged as essential to insure next year's crop.

Cy Hecker Declares Soldiers Want Ragtime

In an interview in Camp and Trench, the Camp Hancock paper, Cy Hecker says regarding the kind of music that soldiers like to hear: "I have found in my rounds of the pleasure and entertainment both from the standpoint of a soldier listening to someone else and from the standpoint of an entertainer trying to please a crowd of soldiers, that the most welcome visitor is the one who comes with a little noise and a bit of rag, with something that will keep the fellows on the jump and prevent a lag."

Quoting from the latest tip to composers that has come from overseas, C. says that rag is still the rage, that the music must have some syncopation and the words must bear upon the humorous side of war, the soldiers in the trenches know enough about the other side of war without singing it.

The most popular songs of the moment are "I Don't Want to Get Well," "The Soldier's Song," "The Soldier's Prayer," "The Soldier's Lullaby," "The Soldier's March," "The Soldier's Song," "The Soldier's Prayer," "The Soldier's Lullaby," "The Soldier's March."

Other popular songs of the moment with the men are "Joan of Arc," "Huckleberry Finn" and "Are You From Dixie?" They sometimes like what Americans call "sob songs"—such sentimental ballads as "Good-bye to You," "Mother Macree," and "A Perfect Day." But rag is the rage.

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF JOHN BRANCA'S WOUNDS
John G. Branca, 225 Boas street, musician, who enlisted with the Seventh United States Infantry, a year ago, is mentioned in to-day's casualty lists from Washington as having been severely wounded in action. Notice of Branca's injury was received last Thursday by his brother, John G. Branca, 225 Boas street. Notifications to his brother say that he was wounded last month after two weeks service at the front as a stretcher bearer.

BANKS EXEMPTED
The local fuel administration last night received orders to exempt banks, trust companies, clearing houses and check exchanges from the elevator and lightless office ruling. Local Administrator Hickock also received an order to allow brewers to receive orders to consume fuel for coal for ice and storage purposes, as ice has been classed as food. The local fuel administrator has not yet received orders to consume a amount of fuel held on hand by the breweries.

TWO HURT BY TROLLEY CAR
Mako Shug, of Steelton, and Dorothy May, Folk, aged 5, 537 Shovers street, are in the Harrisburg Hospital suffering injuries sustained when they were struck by a trolley car at the intersection of Tuscarrora streets last evening. The girl was hurt at about 5 o'clock when she was playing in the street and crossed the tracks in front of the car. She was knocked down and the tips of two fingers crushed off when the wheels passed over them. Shug received a fracture of the skull when he walked into the car, according to police and railway officials, and was knocked to the pavement.

Mine Owners Pleased at Saving of Coal Formerly Given to the Brewers

Industrial concerns of Pennsylvania will be greatly benefited by the cutting off of the supply of coal to breweries in the state, a statement of the publicly owned anthracite mines of Pennsylvania, says. Larger supplies of coal may be furnished to the industrial companies, as a result it is said. The committee statement follows:

"Cutting off of coal to breweries by the Fuel Administration will free large amounts of steam anthracite, as well as bituminous, for other industrial needs. By striking down the supply of coal, it is expected to have an influence in increasing the output of coal through strengthening the efficiency of the labor body. In that way, there would be double gain. The ban upon coal for breweries will be 3,100,000 tons per year for other uses, as figured by the Fuel Administration.

"The women are particularly opposed to their men frequenting saloons. They say that money spent for liquor is so much cash wasted and that much loss to the family in an economy war. Coupled with such view of the matter, come the arguments presented to President Wilson by the National Coal Association. This body says that prohibition is absolutely necessary in coal producing sections of the country to get out the additional 100,000,000 tons of coal required each year by the nation needs at war and for householders, as well as industrial uses. The association goes so far as to say that this country has no coal and sufficient coal at the same time this coming winter.

"Enthusiastic workers for anthracite production have been organized among the mine workers. The women folk, who are active in Red Cross and other patriotic efforts, are daily sacking the men to put forth their best efforts to produce more coal, realizing that in such way they are aiding the nation and their own pocket-books at the same time."

State College Boys Are to Take Up War Training

W. R. Bingham, of Harrisburg, and B. E. Killian, of Steelton, are the boys of this section included among the forty-five students of Pennsylvania State College, who to-morrow will enter the Supplementary Military Training camp, which opens at Plattsburg, N. Y.

At the request of the Adjutant General of the Army, the institution is sending six members of the faculty and forty-five undergraduates there. They will assist the United States officers at the college in drilling the regiment of college cadets next year.

From the faculty have been selected: R. C. Harlow, director of athletics; J. E. Hill, instructor in physics; J. E. Isenberg, assistant chemist; W. S. Hoffman, instructor in mechanical drawing; and H. C. Yergler, instructor in dairying.

Major James Bayliss, commanding of cadets, has been notified to send graduates or students of draft age at any time to a line officers' camp at Petersburg, Va., a field artillery camp at Louisville, Ky., or a machine gun camp at Augusta, Ga.
