

TRUCKS TO CARRY COAL FROM MINES

Millersburg Merchant Establishes Line to Lykens to Supply His Customers

Millersburg, Pa., July 19.—There will be no coal shortage in Millersburg next winter if Coal Merchant E. G. Boyer can help it. Mr. Boyer, to increase the supply of coal, has placed several two-ton trucks on the road between here and Lykens and each truck can make four trips a day. Many customers are having their coal bins filled in this way direct from the mines, a distance of sixteen miles. C. W. Keefer & Bro., near Rife, also has two trucks hauling creek coal. Their output is about thirty tons per day.

The Juniata Public Service Company has run an electric line to the creek dam of the Millersburg Water Company and will start another electric cog diesel next week, the machinery and pontoons being already in place. This section will yield a large amount of coal as but little has been taken out of this dam in the past. The company has a night and day force now operating on their dam east of the powerhouse and are completing thousands of tons on the railroad side of the creek at that place. This company now has several giant piles of coal on the creek bank east of the power plant said to contain 50,000 tons or more.

Ralph Miller, operating the creek cog digger above the Ush dam, has discarded the old method of steam engine power and installed an electric digger. He now has about 200 tons on the creek bank.

YANKEE FLYERS GET THREE HUNS IN AIR BATTLES

Putnam Brings Down His Eleventh Machine; Allies Maintain Lead

With the American Army in France, July 19.—Three German machines were shot down by American aviators in the Toul sector. Eugene Jones, of Chicago, and A. G. Tobin, of San Antonio, Texas, while protecting a squadron of observation machines encountered six German airplanes near Thiaucourt. They promptly attacked the enemy, but Jones' machine gun became jammed. Tobin sent one down in flames and then engaged another, which he sent crashing to the earth.

First Lieutenant David E. Putnam of Newton, Mass., also shot down an enemy airplane. This is the eleventh enemy machine credited to Lieutenant Putnam.

A dispatch from Paris says the lowest German offensive since the American aviation forces their first opportunity to participate in major operations. Allied airplanes in force had crossed the German lines at daylight Sunday morning to clear the air, harass the enemy's movements, and learn as much as possible about the German concentration and artillery positions.

"There was no pretense of secrecy. The Allies knew the Germans were on the eve of attacking and the Germans knew that the Allies knew. In these air forces the Americans were well and gallantly represented. Their observation airplanes had done a share of the preceding day's photographing, locating troops and guns. As a testimony of their success it may be said that during Sunday they located twenty-five enemy batteries, most of which were neutralized by our artillery before they were fairly in action.

"Our chaser squadrons were instructed to cease air fighting and fly low to harass the enemy's troops and ammunition movements with machine gun fire. It was in this preliminary fighting that Quentin, who three days previously had brought down his first German, was lost.

"It was on Monday and Tuesday, when the Germans were forced to abandon moving troops and munitions by night, that the allied aviators did their most spectacular work. A great flock of more than 200 went out Monday, the Americans flying the lowest, the French next, and the British the highest. When they reached an important highway the American commander dived. Every American followed when the French, and then the British.

"Every machine emptied its guns into miles of wagons and the fields to which the Germans scrambled.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT CAMP COLT

One Soldier Killed and Three Injured by Flying Pieces of Machine Gun

Gettysburg, Pa., July 19.—As the result of an accident while Company A, of the 327th Battalion Light Tanks of Camp Colt was having machine gun practice, Private William T. Lusby lost his life and three other soldiers were injured. The men were out on the range back of Round Top being instructed in the use and handling of the machine gun when suddenly there was a loud report and the men standing nearby were injured by flying pieces of metal.

While the accident occurred on Monday afternoon the strict confinement of the camp kept the matter quiet until yesterday when the battalion marched to town and drew up in line in front of the undertaking establishment; while the body of the dead man was removed and started on the journey to his home at Chevy Chase, Washington, D. C.

The exact cause of the accident is a matter which is being investigated, as the gun did not explode until it is not known in just what manner the accident occurred. Lusby was brought to the camp hospital in an ambulance, which was summoned at once, but died in about an hour. He was 23 years old and leaves a mother and brother.

The company in addition to providing a moral tribute will send to Private Lusby's mother a service flag with one gold star in honor of the first member of the outfit to lose his life in the service of his country. The other men injured were: Corporal Dominoski, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Private Harry M. Smith, of Hummelstown, Pa., and Private George A. Hubbs, of Philadelphia.

WEST SHORE NEWS Engine Whistles Wake Up Marysville People

Marysville, Pa., July 19.—Marysville's celebration last evening of the great Yankee victory in France yesterday was not without its humorous side.

The hump foghorns and engine whistles in the local preference freight yards started to sound at 10.30 o'clock in the manner in which fire alarms are sounded here. The half-asleep borough was soon in a state of excitement.

The townspeople, awakened from their slumbers by the strange noises, were seen in large numbers. Volunteer firemen hastened to the Municipal building in which the borough engine house is housed as fast as their legs could carry them.

Soon they were moving over the borough streets toward the center of town. Proceeding over two blocks, the firemen thought it wise to endeavor to locate the conflagration, for from the alarm it seemed as though the whole town were afire—it was, probably, but in another spirit.

At the exchange of the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company the men were at the excitement was soon learned.

Long American heroes, shining slowly through the ripening wheat field and the cool forests to the front, were heard waving cheerfully from the windows.

Full Measure of Victory Is Difficult to Judge

Paris, July 19.—Military commentators are unanimous in calling Thursday's Franco-American advance a fine success, but deplicate jumping to conclusions as the battle is still going on.

Henry Bidou, says the fact that the German reserves intended to support the offensive of July 12 were rushed to the rescue of General von Boehm makes the continuation of the enemy drive toward Epernay difficult.

"We have arrived at the moment when the manipulation of the French divisions is going to be decisive and that game we may believe the last word has not been said," adds Bidou.

Terrific Storm Aided Allies in Their Surprise

On the French Front, July 19.—The French-American attack along the broad front north of the Marne was an absolute surprise. Many German officers were captured while asleep, and a number of the men were taken while harvesting rye. The greatest stupefaction was created among all the enemy troops holding the line at the suddenness of the attack. Some of the prisoners declare they had been told that it was impossible for the Allies to carry out any operation in the way of an offensive for some time.

Many tanks participated in the attack, having been able to take up their positions during the terrific storms which preceded the American troops, co-operating with their French comrades in the assault, did brilliant work.

Around Courchamp, northwest of Chateau-Thierry, the German resistance was more obstinate than on any other part of the line. In this region the Allies captured eighteen cannon, numerous machine guns, and a large number of prisoners, who have not yet been counted.

The allied troops showed wonderful spirit, and advanced steadily. A battalion of infantry crossed the River Savieres breast high in water. A barrage fire preceded the waves of infantry, but one of the heaviest storms of the year drowned the noise of the shells.

Most of the Germans had taken shelter in their dugouts from the deluge, and the allied troops were among them with grenades and bayonets before they had time to turn around.

YANKEES PLAY BIG PART IN DRIVE

The total allied strength, it may be said is greater than any participating in a battle since the Civil War, and the conduct of the men is eliciting the commendation of the French. They have performed the part assigned to them with steadiness, courage and skill.

To a large portion of the Americans these our days have been their first real fighting. Reports from all the lines indicate a great deal of clean, open warfare, some spontaneous localized actions being undertaken without a preliminary barrage, and it is in actions of this character that the American units have won the praise of the French.

The tone of Thursday's communications and likewise the success of the counterattacks begun early today have infected the French and American troops with the same confidence in the outcome of the great enemy offensive.

Force Hun Prisoners Assailed

The American transport, both of munitions and of the hospital service, is working smoothly and efficiently. Behind the line the correspondence encountered ambulances and trucks filled with what are known as sitting cases, which already had been attended to at the advanced dressing stations. They were on their way to the rear, and frequently in their passage they were forced to the roadside groups of German prisoners being escorted to the pens.

Wounded Men Cheerful

The wounded were comfortable and cheerful. The men in one truck were making an attempt to sing as they passed further to the rear.

Long American heroes, shining slowly through the ripening wheat field and the cool forests to the front, were heard waving cheerfully from the windows.

Known How to Dodge Draft; Arrested and Sent to Army

New Bloomfield, Pa., July 19.—Laughing at other men of his section when they left for the Army under the selective service act and boasting that he knew how to dodge the draft, William Oscar Watts, of Kellerville, Juniata county, will be sent to Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., with the Perry county draft quota which is being raised in the county on July 24. He is in the Perry county jail here.

Watts is charged with failure to return his questionnaire and on that charge he will be inducted into the service. He was arrested by United States Marshal James J. W. at the home of his father, John Watts, in Pine Swamp, a remote section of Juniata county.

Watts was employed at Millerstown, this county, when he registered and his questionnaire was mailed there. CUMBERLAND VALLEY EIGHT-CENT FARE ON TROLLEY LINE

Storm of Protest Raised by People of Mt. Holly Springs Against Proposition

Carlisle, Pa., July 19.—Posting of notices that the trolley fares of the Cumberland Railway Company are about to be increased, has raised a storm of protests at Mount Holly Springs. It has not been indicated as yet whether or not the increase will affect the other branch of the line from Carlisle to Newville, but it is believed likely that it will.

It is understood that the new fare rate will be eight cents, instead of seven. About eighteen months ago the company increased the former five-cent fares to seven cents, claiming that the revenue was inadequate to meet expenses. In Carlisle the increase has been under fire on several occasions since that time, as the franchise here prescribes a five-cent fare only.

Persons mainly affected by the raise are workers in Carlisle industries living in Mount Holly Springs and the surrounding section. With the increase the rate to Mount Holly will be six cents for a six-mile trip. Just three cents ago the concern was giving special rates of ten cents for the round trip of 12 miles, ending to Mount Holly are planning to make organizations have also been asked to intercede.

The Mount Holly section was the original road built by Patricio Russ of Harrisburg. It has been in the control of Shippensburg men for about six years.

Some of the prisoners declare they had been told that it was impossible for the Allies to carry out any operation in the way of an offensive for some time.

Many tanks participated in the attack, having been able to take up their positions during the terrific storms which preceded the American troops, co-operating with their French comrades in the assault, did brilliant work.

Around Courchamp, northwest of Chateau-Thierry, the German resistance was more obstinate than on any other part of the line. In this region the Allies captured eighteen cannon, numerous machine guns, and a large number of prisoners, who have not yet been counted.

The allied troops showed wonderful spirit, and advanced steadily. A battalion of infantry crossed the River Savieres breast high in water. A barrage fire preceded the waves of infantry, but one of the heaviest storms of the year drowned the noise of the shells.

Most of the Germans had taken shelter in their dugouts from the deluge, and the allied troops were among them with grenades and bayonets before they had time to turn around.

John T. Olmsted, referee in bankruptcy for the United States District Court in Danbury, Conn., has received a communication from the clerk of the court that Charles E. Bretz, Harry M. Breton, and William R. Bretz, of the firm of Bretz Brothers, had jointly and individually filed petitions in voluntary bankruptcy and had been adjudicated bankrupts. Harry M. Bretz is the attorney under an order on a large charge of embezzlement. Owing to the large number of creditors and the time required to collect and prepare necessary data it is not believed that the filing of assets and liabilities will be filed until next week. The firm of Bretz Brothers conducts a hardware business in Chestnut street.

New Bloomfield, Pa., July 19.—Laughing at other men of his section when they left for the Army under the selective service act and boasting that he knew how to dodge the draft, William Oscar Watts, of Kellerville, Juniata county, will be sent to Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., with the Perry county draft quota which is being raised in the county on July 24. He is in the Perry county jail here.

Watts is charged with failure to return his questionnaire and on that charge he will be inducted into the service. He was arrested by United States Marshal James J. W. at the home of his father, John Watts, in Pine Swamp, a remote section of Juniata county.

Watts was employed at Millerstown, this county, when he registered and his questionnaire was mailed there. In the meantime, however, Watts had left Millerstown and reported effort to leave the county on a naive remark to his father's home, failed. Repeated efforts to reach him by mail also failed and it became apparent that he was purposely avoiding the delivery of the questionnaire.

On Wednesday the Post Office Department announced the appointment of Fred C. Lebo, of Entertown, as the new mail carrier on rural route No. 1, running out of the Halifax office. Mr. Lebo will assume his duties on Monday in place of substitute carrier J. Clark Zimmerman.
