

YANKEE TROOPS
INSPIRE HOPE IN GREAT BRITAIN

Times Correspondent Views Coming as Great Event in World History

London.—I had the good fortune at a station on one of our main railways a day or two ago to see a portion of those American legions who are now rushing across the Atlantic to our aid, and it may be worth while to record the feeling they aroused in one who, as it happened, saw them for the first time," writes a correspondent to the Times. "It was," he continued, "a striking and heartening sight. Here were these brave fellows, whose average age seemed to be about 25, men from New Jersey, from Tennessee, and Texas, beyond the Mississippi's rolling flood, from California and the Pacific seaboard, who had traveled many thousands of miles by land and sea from their far-distant homes —which some would never see again—full of vigor and elan, muscular and well set up, alert and intelligent, like a band of hardy athletes, eager only to reach the field of battle in Flanders or in France.
 As material for a powerful army, they seemed to lack nothing. They had just landed from the ships that brought them across the Atlantic within a few hours; but no rest, no pause; they seemed to grudge every moment that delayed them from the great task on which their hearts were set. Seventeen trains, containing 600 or 700 men apiece, were to pass at stated intervals during the day and night; and this was only a portion of those who had arrived. "We ought," said one of the gallant fellows, "to have left here two years ago; but here we are now, and thousands more are following us." "We mean business," said another; "we are out to win." One felt one was standing in the presence of one of the great achievements of history. Xerxes is renowned because he led his Persian hordes across the Hellespont to the attack of Greece.

Hannibal is handed down to fame because he led his Carthaginian levies across the heights of Mount Cenis, and reaching the gates of Rome, Caesar himself is held to have done great things when he invaded the shores of inhospitable Britain, but what were these things to the transport of millions of men, first long distances by land, and then 2,000 miles across the severing ocean, in spite of submarines, to be trained and fitted for the great encounter? As one of the men from Texas said, who was loud in his admiration of our green fields and refreshing showers and well-laid trees, "Three years ago it would have seemed impossible that this could happen. We had no army, no thought of war, least of all a European war." It is indeed a colossal achievement, and the spirit in which they are undertaking it is as great as is the deed. They have come with no selfish aim or object; not for them the dream of annexing this or that; they are come to fight for a great ideal, to battle for the peace and freedom of the world, and as one gazed at their eager faces one felt that America had gained her soul, and was showing by her example, how souls are won. The age of chivalry, after all, is not passed, and here were men all glowing with a fine emotion, engaged in a great enprise as striking as, and far more useful than, that of the old Crusaders 800 years ago. Yes, it was indeed a striking sight—not a drunken man to be seen—and as they filed down the platform to receive the passing benediction of a sandwich and a cup of coffee, one could not help wishing that the Kaiser could be there, and there would be no more of his cheap sneers at the forces of America. In the face of such a sight one could not doubt on which side victory would be won.

LIQUOR SNUGGLED
IN PIANO CASES Danville, Ill.—The activities of the bootleggers who operate a booze line between Westville, the only saloon town in the eastern half of Illinois, and the various towns of western Indiana, now dry through the operation of a new prohibition law, have resulted in many devices being tried to smuggle booze over the state line.
The sheriff of Vermillion county, Ind., has seized three piano boxes full of liquor.

Small Town Has Six
Murders in a Week Vancouver, B. C.—Six persons have been murdered in the little town of Grand Prairie during a recent week.
The victims were Emmet Snyder and his uncle, Joseph Snyder, Charles Zamenar, John Woodward, O. Pet-chowky and John Eaton. Robbery was apparently the motive in each case.
